THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK

THE LILY FETE

ELEANOR DEAR

Two small boys brought huge baskets filled with lilies from the lake this morning, and all day I have been reveling in their sweet fragrance.

On the porch we had a regular lily fete, for several women came over from a neighboring cottage, and a right merry time we had of it. I want to describe the frocks worn by these girls who certainly were attractively gowned. I know you will enjoy hearing about them more than you would if I wrote anything else.

Miss Hughes wore a more colored robe de chambre dress made with the high-waisted skirt shirred to the plain bodice in middle effect. It was then shirred down the front in three rows over a cord forming two ruffs, graduated in width, finishing in a graduated ruff.

This extended around the bottom of the skirt, and the left side was shirred under the right. Otherwise the skirt hung in long graceful lines.

The upper portion of the sleeves also showed this puffed effect, and cuffs were of the same with frills both above and below of fine white batiste, hemstitched on the edges. A long pointed jabot and collar of the batiste trimmed the bodice, it was held in place by a black velvet bow and blue enamel buckles.

Her sister was lovely in a quaint-looking frock of green net de sole and plain green satin fourlard. The flowered silk formed the bodice and overskirt, the latter being looped up over the plain material, which was used for the underskirt, and held in place with flat bows of rose-colored velvet ribbon.

White chiffon cloth, hemstitched, was used for a broad pointed collar and bishop jabot. Folded-back cuffs and little puffed undersleeves of it outlined the loose set-in sleeves. Small flat bows of velvet trimmed the front of the bodice serving to conceal the laces. It was one of the daintiest gowns I have seen, this season and can be copied or adapted for winter.

Nellie was in blue—you know how adorable she looks in blue. Her gown was of that fine soft china silk on a gray-blue shade and opened down the front over an underskirt of embroidered batiste. Bodice and pailiers were cut in one and trimmed with pink satin roses sewed on around the edge. The bodice opened in a V of white lace, with an inset vest of batiste trimmed with buttons. Black velvet ribbon formed a narrow girde, which fastened with a bow in front.

The sleeves were long, the very newest model in sleeves, cut with a deep point over the hand and edged with a narrow border of lace.

Tiny pink rosebuds trimmed the front of the skirt on each side where it opened.

There now are the not three lovely models? All yours, dear sister.

Your affectionate

MADGE

TO TAKE REEF IN ZOUAVE TROUSERS

The French Minister of War Decreases Economy of Room and Money.

Commissioner of Police Finds Menagerie on Upper Floor of Lodgings.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Times change, and with them trousers. There was a report that the minister of war, M. Millerand, innovations in the tailoring of the French army — innovations which, naturally enough, have not met with immediate popularity, had his latest eye on the billowing trousers of the Zouaves. Inquiries prove satisfactory. This is not so serious as it is thought. The distinctive cut of the Zouaves' trousers, which surely has served as the model for many an American tailor, will be retained, only the economy of the sack—economy both of room and money, for the trousers of a Zouave, with their vast acreage, are costly as a Scotsman's kilt, and they are a terrible trouble to pack as well.

Not that the Zouaves themselves complain. Far from it. It is a habit of theirs to sew a large heart-shaped patch into the seat of their nether garments, thereby increasing their amplitude, and giving occasion, not to the enemy—for that enemy has seen the back of a Zouave—but to the street, to the bludge. Along with a reduction in the width of the Zouave's trousers is contemplated the suppression of the white gaiters, which cost considerable in time and pipeclay. This is a practical and economical age.

HE HAD MENAGERIE.
For some time the commissioner of police in the quarter of the Bourse had been receiving complaints from the tenants of a house in the Rue Richelieu that the occupants of the fifth floor kept them awake by imitating the sounds of different animals. The proper place for the exercise of the fifth floor was the stage, and not a reputable dwelling, where everyone went to bed.

The law moved at last, and the inquiries of the commissioner discovered a ventriloquist with a distorted idea of humor, but a veritable menagerie. In fact, the tenant of the fifth floor was an "oppor" but lately returned from the Congo, who, no doubt, to assuage his nostalgia, for the life of the wilds, had installed in his room several lion cubs and a number of apes, parrots, badgers and snakes. He has been requested to transfer his miniature menagerie elsewhere.

FABRE DESTITUTE.
PARIS, Aug. 31.—Hiri Fabre, known as "The insect king," is spending his declining years in penury. The poet Mistrail is taking up a subscription for him through the medium of "Le Matin," but it is feared the sensitiveness of Fabre will prevent anything being done to help him. In a garret on the very top of a street in the district of the Marais, his friends with the dignity of an ambassador, his white hair and threadbare clothes, scrupulously brushed, the linen yellow with age, and his eyes, which present a pathetic picture. He will point to a silver snuffbox, upon which rest cards of the most famous people in France, but the empty cupboard is kept carefully locked. He accepts no invitations to dine out, because he cannot return hospitality to his kind. He is literally starving to death.

URGES HOME RULE.
PARIS, Aug. 31.—Emperor Francis Joseph, who has just celebrated his 82d birthday, took the initiative in the Austrian proposal to communicate to the powers by Count Leopold von Berchtold, urging collective advice to Turkey to accord home rule to all her nationalities. This measure is regarded in Paris and in every European capital as a masterpiece of diplomacy and as the only means of avoiding a speedy collapse of Turkey, which, as things now stand, would make general European war inevitable.

Francis Joseph is acknowledged by all as the grand old man of Europe, and although his birthday proposal comes as a setback to the Young Turks and as a wet blanket to the Military League, its acceptance by the signatory powers of the Treaty of Berlin is deemed here as practically certain, and moreover decentralization and local autonomy will be so strenuously urged by the powers that the Constantinople government cannot avoid yielding to its terms.

It is understood here that autonomy under nominal Turkish suzerainty will apply, not only to Albania and to the Greeks and Bulgarians and Servians of Macedonia, but also to the Cretans and Greek inhabitants of the Turkish Islands. Thus, Francis Joseph has postponed the collapse of Turkey, and the only aim of Austria eventually to occupy Ionica, just as the traditional aspiration of Russia is to obtain Constantinople.

The Berchtold proposition, directly making reference to the Turkish-Italian war and wisely avoiding any attempted solution of the near Eastern problem, and contains no threat of intervention, but with rare intuition and practical common sense, gained by his long experience, the venerable Emperor of Austria has accomplished one of the most important acts of his reign and offered a solid guarantee for the peace of Europe.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Among the royal wardrobe recently at Manor House, near Harrogate, were a pair of silk stockings sold to have been worn by Queen Victoria on her wedding day and a piece of orange blossom from her bridal wreath. The articles were in a blue table which sold for $250, and which also contained the royal cakes of King Edward VII and King George V, Lord Nelson's earlier and more worn than the Napoleon's, sister of Napoleon.

GOLF AND PEACE ARE HERE

Le Touquet is a select retreat one hour's train and train journey from Boulogne. It is noted for two things—its incomparable golf links and its air of peace and quiet, which latter is greatly appreciated by those who have tired of rowdy Ostend and noisy Trouville.

From Germany comes an invention for an ingenious new water sport. The device consists of two floats of waterproof material which can be inflated at will by means of an ordinary bicycle pump. These floats are strapped to the feet, and the wearer is propelled at quite a good pace with the aid of a specially constructed oar as shown in our first picture. The two lower photographs are of a more elaborate vehicle-carrying a number of bathers at a time, the whole being propelled by means of the paddle-wheels at the sides.

GERMANY DISCUSSES AMERICAN RELATIONS

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The German Ambassador to the United States conferred both morning and afternoon with the Foreign Minister, yesterday, on German-American relations. The question of the compensatory duties on wheat and rye meal and split peas was touched upon, but, as has been indicated, Germany attaches little importance to the subject. Big matters of policy between the two countries are now awaiting discussion.

In the late revolution there were no battles in which more than a few thousand men were engaged and the fighting was generally of a feeble character. Battering usually took the place of fighting and some of the surrenders of imperialist commanders were the result of monetary payments, while their loyalty might have been retained had the Manchus been able or willing to provide a greater number of silver taels.

The same means today, it is generally believed, would save China from her officials, who, with very few exceptions, are men who at one time or another also held office under the Manchus. Among these officials those who are honest suffer from the racial falling-back of moral courage and fear to accept the six-million loan with the requirement of foreign control, and the others are working up the national opposition because they desire no supervisor over their system of "squabbles."

MEANWHILE Japanese consuls in southern Manchuria and Russian consuls in northern Manchuria and in the vast territories beyond the Gobi Desert may impose their authority as they will, and the Chinese officials in those border countries can obtain but poor advice and little support from the cabinet in Peking, whose attention is concentrated on maintaining its precarious political position.

In Tibet, to whose sacred city the British have shown their ability to penetrate with a few hundred men, many of the Chinese garrisons have been defeated and driven back from Lhasa itself, though the soldiers of the Lamas are little more than ill-armed rabble.

KAISER BOOSTS FOR HOME INDUSTRY

Emperor William Is Called "Imperial Drummer" in Fatherland.

Potatoes Are Chief Diet of the Poorer Classes in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The emperor, who is sometimes facetiously called "The Imperial Drummer" because of his setting to "drumming up" trade for the royal Prussian porcelain factories, is not the only Hohenzollern who does not hesitate to use his personal efforts to further German industry.

Prince Henry of Prussia, grand admiral of the fleet, has now followed his imperial brother's example by publishing in the General Automobile News an article over his own signature, in which he appeals to German motorists to use a German liquid fuel, a by-product of coal distillation, instead of a foreign one. He cites his own experiments and those of others to show that the German fuel will go as far, quart for quart, as any other, and points out that it costs less. Aside from this, however, Prince Henry has his strongest argument in the national interest. He says:

"The prices for the ordinary liquid fuel are dictated for us by foreign countries, especially America. The German automobile world is as yet entirely dependent on imports, and this is a great national menace in case of war. Every automobile owner should, therefore, quite apart from pecuniary considerations, do his part to see that the domestic product made by German workers and German producers from German raw materials shall be more generally employed, to the end that in case of necessity, the German industry can supply Germany's needs."

THE PRINCE discusses objections to the German fuel, such as its higher freezing point, its tendency to foul motors and its unpleasant odor, and has in most of these objections and is solving the others. Twenty per cent of all liquid fuel made in Germany, he declares, is exported to France for use by automobiles.

POTATOES STAFF OF LIFE.
The agricultural chamber of the Rhine province has just published some statistics which afford a striking corroboration of a statement made recently by a Socialist in the Reichstag to the effect that potatoes are the chief staff of life of the poorer classes in large sections of Germany.

The agricultural chamber, which is a body legally constituted to gather information for the government on agricultural matters, has been studying how the peasant lives. It publishes the family budget of thirty peasant families with annual income ranging between $471 and $594. About two-thirds of them had higher figure and owned small farms of from ten to forty-seven acres.

It was found that the average daily consumption of potatoes of the thirty families was nearly three and one-third pounds for each person, whereas the consumption of meat was less than three ounces of butter, less than one ounce of more than one pint of milk of which nearly half was skim milk or buttermilk.

The most important article of diet, after potatoes, was bread, of which each person consumed nearly 14 2/3 ounces daily, besides four ounces of flour. The article of food mentioned in the report was eaten of which each person ate one about every fourth day.

It must be mentioned for the proper appreciation of these figures that the Rhine province is one of the richest agricultural provinces in Germany, and that the persons covered by them are far from being among the poorest people in Germany.

For example, the laborer's wage just been publishing the family budgets of Silesian miners, which show that they eat almost no meat at all, and the small quantity consumed is chiefly horse flesh.

RACING GAME.
Horse racing has become the "sport of kings" as never before in Germany, the number of sovereigns and royal princes engaging actively in it being greater than in any other land in Europe. The king of Wurtemberg and Prince Louis of Bavaria own large racing stables and, though the emperor himself is far less interested in racing than military circles would like him to be, the crown prince, in partnership with his adjutant, owns and races a stable of runners.

Prince Eitel Fritz, second son of the emperor, is spite of his weight and recently growing waistline, recently rode and won a race for officers of his regiment, and Prince Walrod of Schaumburg-Lippe has won many races on his own.

The finest cavalier of them all is, however, Prince Friedrich Karl of Prussia, the 19-year-old cousin of the emperor, and undoubtedly the only "royal stable boy" in the world. The young prince, not having attained the dignity of a stable of his own, but being a passionate rider, frequently goes to the race tracks at Hoppegarten and Karlsruhe in the early morning and rides the horses in training there. On these excursions he is sometimes accompanied by his older brother, Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, who would, if permitted, prefer to steer a gallop, which he has designed a successful example. Prince Friedrich Karl has been in the Olympic Games at Stockholm and won prizes there against the most experienced army riders in the world.

Under such royal patronage and encouragement it is not surprising that the country has so many good horses and as Germany is a large country, it is not surprising that the country has so many good horses and as Germany is a large country, it is not surprising that the country has so many good horses.

SIR HIRAM MAXIM CHAMPIONS SEA SERPENT

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)
LONDON, Aug. 31.—Sir Hiram Maxim is a firm believer in the sea serpent. The other day he gave out this interview:

I think the time has arrived when we must admit that there are certain animals living in the sea that are not described in any works on natural history. Messrs. C. A. Nichols and Company, Springfield, Mass., published in 1892 a very remarkable work. In this I find that in 1851, and for some years following, the sea serpent, or sea serpents, appeared very often off the New England coast. It appears that there were two kinds of these monsters. On one occasion the animal that was seen had a fish-like head, very large eyes, gills, and a continuous fin extending the whole length of its back, supported by numerous spines, after the manner of a stickleback. It was simply a very large fish of an unknown species.

The monster, that was seen a great number of times by numerous people, had a body from eighty to ninety feet long, and a head from eight to ninety feet long, and about the diameter of a large oak, with a head closely resembling that of a snake.

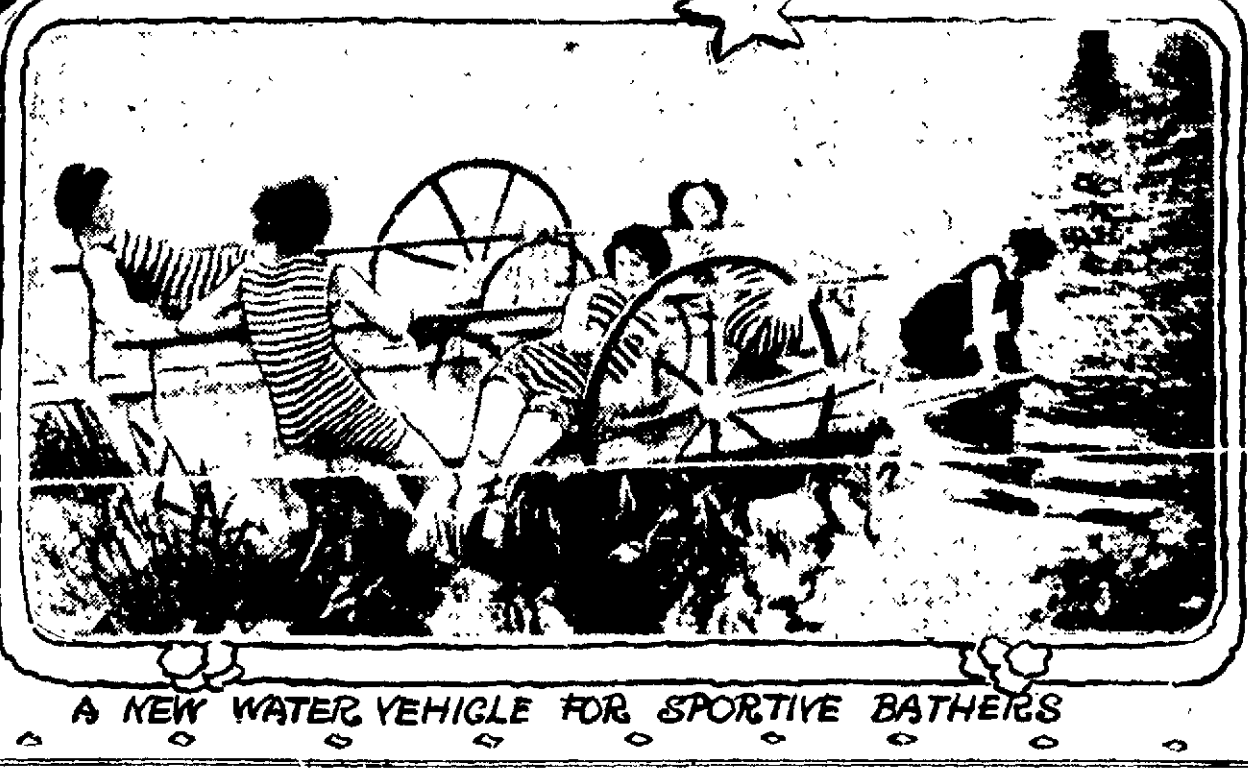

It is repeatedly seen for successive years by many witnesses, and described by them with such general detail and general concurrence, that the Linnean Society of Boston appointed a committee of eminent scientific gentlemen to collect evidence on the subject, and they drew up a report, giving in detail the depositions of numerous witnesses who saw the creature on shore or at sea, some of them from a distance of only ten yards.

BODY THICK AS CASK.
"According to these witnesses, the monster was from eighty to ninety feet long, his head usually carried about two feet above the water, of a dark brown color, the body with thirty or more protuberances, compared by some to four-gallon kegs, by others to a string of buoys, and called by several persons bunches on the back; motion very rapid, faster than that of a whale, swimming a mile in three minutes, and sometimes more, leaving a wake behind him, chasing mackerel, herring, and other fish, which were seen jumping out of the water fifty at a time as he approached."

It has been suggested that this creature is a mammal. If so, it would have warm blood and would have to breathe at the surface of the water, not as it remains below the water for days and weeks at a time, it is safe to say it has cold blood, and is probably some kind of a snake.

A NEW WATER VEHICLE FOR SPORTIVE BATHERS

CAUGHT IN VIOLENT STORM ON MT. BLANC

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)
GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 31.—Miss Sommerville, a Canadian Alpinist, has joined her parents in Geneva, after being overdue thirty hours, ten of which she spent in a hut in the Mont Blanc range during a snowstorm and with a shattered ankle.

The young Canadian lady, who is a good climber, started from Chamonix (France) with a guide to cross the Col de Grand 11,032 feet high, to Chamonix, and was overtaken by a violent snowstorm. She was caught in the hut and slipped and twisted her ankle.

Miss Sommerville says an Alpine storm surprised her in the Col de Grand, but happily it does not last so long.

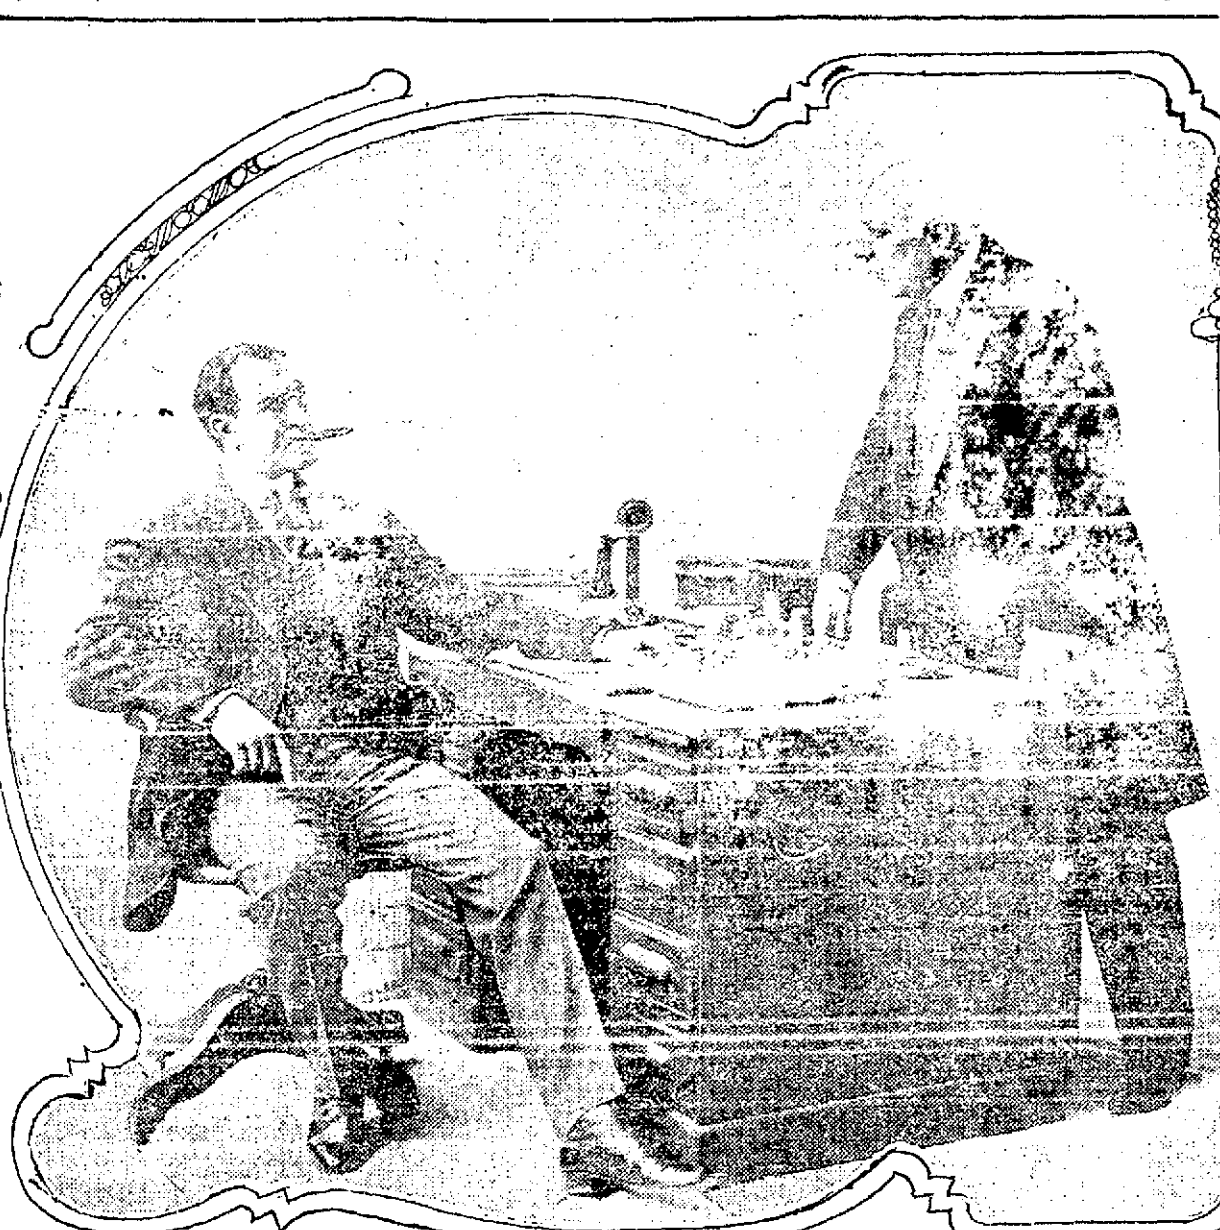

About the same time, Miss Fritz, of London, who is staying at Aosta, was caught in the same storm while climbing Mount Cervin, 12,942 feet high, and was forced to spend many days in an Alpine hut.

A search party of Italian guides set out in search of the two missing women, and after a long and difficult search, they were found at Aosta, and had arrived safely several hours before.

government, being afraid to contract a loan and afraid to impose taxes or even in some provinces to collect those instituted by the Manchus, is unable to purchase authority beyond the walls of the capital. Such order as exists is maintained locally and is due chiefly to the peacefulness of the people.

But there is, apparently, no organized party with a nucleus or a goal, and on the whole, not in the least sense, the nation except as the result of dependence on a foreign power.

Very few of the Chinese are interested in the great overhauling Chinese masses.

JAMES K. HACKETT AND E. J. HOLLAND
"A CALL FOR THE WILD"

ORPHEUM

Sydney Ayres' second successful season in vaudeville begins at the Oakland Orpheum today.

Mr. Ayres will appear in his own play—a new play of Arizona ranch life, written and staged by himself, entitled "A Call for the Wild."

It will be a massive scenic production. Elaborate scenic effects have been contrived and a great special scenic production has been made throughout. A company of fine players, personally selected by Mr. Ayres, will be in his support.

Last spring Sydney Ayres made his initial appearance in vaudeville at the Oakland Orpheum in "A Prince of Bohemia."

Mr. Ayres has always been peculiarly successful in impersonating Western characters. Now he is offering his own play, embodying his own ideas of all that Arizona ranch life should include.

W. C. Fields is an eccentric juggler. He has, however, advanced that particular form of entertainment to an art. If Fields would eliminate every semblance of jugglery from his performance, he would be entitled to a position in the van of comedians. For this reason, the appellation "Silent Humorist," is more appropriate. His game of pool is a classic in silent humor and his pantomime is equal to any that has ever been seen in this country.

A new idea in play writing is hit squarely on the head in Edgar Allan Woolf's playlet, "Youth." Mrs. Gene Hughes' present vehicle. The theme is that we should prevent ourselves from growing old in appearance and manner by keeping up our interest in the things of the moment, living always in the present rather than in the past.

In "Youth" Mrs. Cora Van Tassel, who is somewhere in the vicinity of 40, has grown old long before her time and is starting her young and naturally attractive daughter, also named Cora, in the same path. They are a pair of frumps.

Into their presence bursts Cora, the first, mother of Cora the second, and grandmother of Cora the third. The latter Cora is expecting to see their relative an ancient appearing dame, but instead she proves to be a radiant, live human being, dressed in the height of fashion, full of life and animation, an actress who boasts that she may be one day doing a "sister" act with Bernhardt.

The Van Brothers will mingle fun with a lot of good music, and that is a combination which always delights the multitude—when offered by such witty and talented artists as Joe and Ernie Van.

Carl McCullough, a very clever comedian and impersonator, who is sometimes called "The Dynamic Comedian," will offer a lively act which is certain to please the multitude.

In a quiet but very effective fashion, the Bradshaw Brothers furnish a most comical performance. They are tumblers and contortionists of real merit, but strive almost entirely for comedy results.

A few of vaudeville's followers may be unfamiliar with the name of Charley Case. It is doubtful, however, if there are any who do not recall "the fellow who talks about his father."

There will be new daylight motion pictures shown and Conductor Kowalski's enlarged Orpheum orchestra will give the usual fifteen minute operatic concert preceding the show.

COLUMBIA

Encouraged by the success of his former efforts produced at the Columbia Theater, Adam Hull Shirk, a local newspaper man, has collaborated with Clarence Logan in writing an original musical comedy playlet entitled, "Splash."

The new piece has been carefully rehearsed during the past week by Dillon and King, the well known producers, who are quite enthusiastic over what appears to be one of the best manuscripts submitted to them in many a day. The locale of the comedy is the seashore in Southern California, calling for special scenic and stage effects. Special scenery is being prepared and new costumes made up for the occasion. Neither pains or expense is being spared by the management in making the new production one that will linger long in the memories of Columbia patrons.

The action takes place by the sea waves near a summer hotel conducted by Mrs. Stringum. She has an assistant and a suitor, an eccentric chap named Bill Bin-nacle, an old salt who delights in telling fables of land and sea. For the price of a drink, Binacle promises to show Artie Brash, a fashionable young fellow fond of the girls, where ancient treasure has been buried. The arrival of Mike and Ike, two sports with an inclination to spend money at the hotel, involves the guests in many amusing scenes and incidences.

Ben T. Dillon and Will King will appear in the principal comedy roles and will be ably assisted by Charley Kelly, Maude Beatty, Ernest Van Dok, Clair Starr, George Weiss, Hazel Gottling and Francis Tallard.

A cleverly arranged musical program will doubtless prove an enjoyable feature in the new play. Mattie Townsend and Charlie Kelly will be heard to splendid advantage in the opening number singing "Don't You Mind It, Honey." Ben Dillon and the Premier Trio will contribute an original creation entitled, "The Old Folks at Home," clever rag number entitled, "Spongy Land," has been entrusted to Clair Starr, while George Weiss, assisted by the company, can be depended upon to furnish many laughs with the novel song, "The Village Band."

The Ginger Girls have been carefully rehearsed in the ensemble numbers which will be of an elaborate nature. The usual shows will be given during the week.

PANTAGES

The attractions at Pantages Theater, beginning this afternoon, are unusually strong. With two holidays, Labor Day and election day, amusement lovers will find at the new theater something that will be highly entertaining. There is the usual Pantages variety, each act being utterly unlike any other.

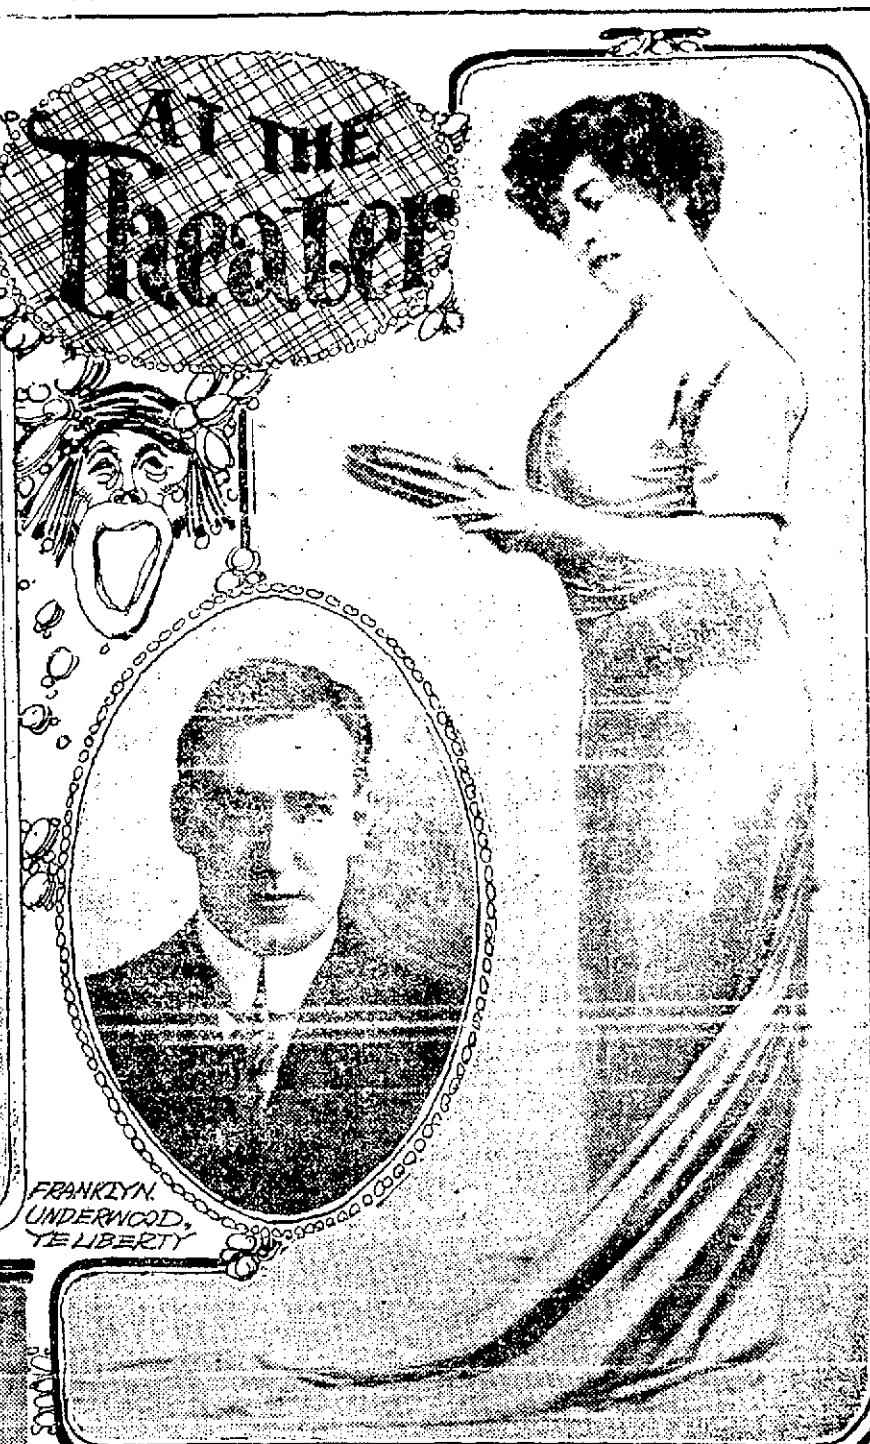

The Four Bards will be great favorites. Their hair-raising work always wins hearty applause. They have never appeared in Oakland, but throughout the vaudeville world they are acknowledged the greatest gymnasts of this country. Their feats of hand-balancing are truly marvellous.

For music lovers there will be a distinct treat in the Moratti Opera Co., an organization of four singers from the grand opera stage who will render popular programs of the favorites from such works as "Faust," "Lucia," "The Chocolate Soldier," "La Boheme," and others of the classical, yet popular composers. Charles Moratti, the leader and talented baritone of the act, is formerly of the Hammerstein forces, and his appearance is a decided gain for the field of amusement. Rowan Klecko, the tenor, is another who comes from grand opera, his former connection having been in Milan. Miss Adelaide Ott is most recently of the Royal Danish Opera Company of Copenhagen and she will join the Manhattan company next season. Miss Grace Moratti, mezzo-soprano, is likewise from the Hammerstein company and will rejoin them when her present engagement is concluded.

The Great Eon is perhaps the most satisfying magician now in vaudeville. In his own personality he could entertain any audience, but he is likewise a clever actor and prefers to give impersonations of Horatio, the Great, Keltie and Howard Thurston, three magicians without an equal. Eiden's make-up is done before the audience and his work is a selection of the best from the three whom he imitates. From Keltie's creations he has taken the "Inelathan of the Princess Kar-pok" in which a woman deliriously is converted into a man in the air, and without support. It is as great a mystery now as when Keltie first introduced it.

An act that will attract much attention in Pantages is the feature of the "Panama Picnic 1915 Waltz" and the "Repetition Reel" in which a woman deliriously is converted into a man in the air, and without support. It is as great a mystery now as when Keltie first introduced it.

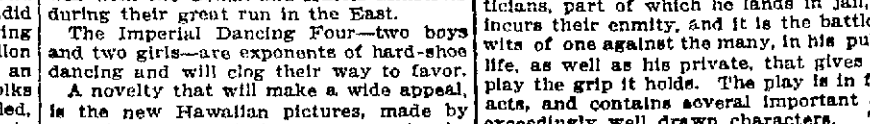

John R. Rogers, a proven with an enviable reputation, will also be on the bill.

Oakland Photo Theater

"Fire at Sea," a two-act photo play founded on an incident in the Belgian revolution of 1830, is to be presented at the Oakland Photo Theater today, tomorrow and Tuesday. This is a Pathe production.

Another of Pathe's richly colored French photoplays to be put on is "The Marriage of Love," in which a romance is woven around the personality of Cardinal Richelieu, the famous ecclesiastic of the seventeenth century.

"An Aeroplane Love Affair" is the title given a decidedly novel comedy which features the famous aviator, George W. Beatty, who is to be seen in feats of daring while demonstrating the use of an aeroplane in the most up-to-date method of escaping from the clutches of a happy bride-to-be.

A splendid two-act Biograph entitled "A Pueblo Legend" is also among the features, in which "Little Mary" Pickford, the popular Biograph star, repeats one of her greatest successes of three years ago, but which is now a reconstructed photodrama.

Coming next Wednesday to Saturday inclusive, is Pathe's Illustrated Weekly Series No. 88, in which all the latest and most notable current events in all parts of the world will be shown in short features.

Heading the new vaudeville bill which makes its first appearance at Idora Park this afternoon, will be the Great Wilhelm and his Royal Yacht Band. SHOW YOUR BEAUTIFUL BROW

By Lillian Russell

In the study of contour, which is one of the first rules of beauty, you will see that the perfect oval must include the brow from the hair line to the chin,

says Lillian Russell

(Copyright, 1912 By Lillian Russell)

IF ANY one tells you that you look pretty with your hair dressed down over your forehead so that your eyebrows are hidden, you may be sure that they either do not want you to look your best or they are ignorant of any good taste or art.

In the attempt to find a new mode of hair dressing, the French beauties are covering up their white foreheads—their only beauty mark of intelligence.

There are many reasons why the hair should be dressed in a manner to show the brow over the eyebrows, and not to cover it. The first is in order that you may not hide the most intelligent portion of your physiognomy.

Some of the French women look absolutely like monkeys with hair covering their eyebrows, especially when they have small features.

Observe a girl at a little distance with her hair banded down over her brow, hiding her eyebrows. Note the lack of intelligent expression in her face. Then observe the girl whose brow is uncovered, either one side or the other—or in the middle. You will see outline, intelligence, and freshness expressed.

Oval Must Include Brow.

In the study of contour, which is one of the first rules of beauty, you will see that the perfect oval must include the brow from the hairline to the chin. If the top of the oval is hidden by hair, half of the beauty is destroyed.

I cannot believe that any intelligent girl or woman would follow this present fashion of hair dressing. It distorts the beauty of contour and gives an expression of stupidity to the face.

Even the youngest and most demure face would look hard and uninteresting with the brow entirely covered by hair.

Can anything be more beautiful than a clear eyed girl, with her soft, fluffy curls drawn up from her brow loosely, showing her forehead white and pure and intelligent?

Rather than cultivate the low browed coiffure, I would suggest that girls brush their hair entirely off the forehead and allow any intelligence they possess to be seen. It is much better even to assume the appearance of intelligence than to allow fashion to cover every vestige of it.

There are girls who spend long hours with a costly hair dresser, learning the latest wrinkle in coiffures, then nullify all their efforts by carelessness.

The most becoming style of hair dressing is made unbecoming by getting a shade too low or too high. If you do not believe this, arrange your hair three times in succession in the same general style but at a different angle, then take a careful survey of yourself in a triple mirror.

Many women do their back hair dressing by feeling, without even glancing into a mirror. The careful woman knows better. She it is who has one of the triple mirrored dressing tables, and seats herself before it so as to see her head from every viewpoint before she takes her comb in hand.

It pays to be particular about angle, not only because it looks out for comfort. Put the mass of your hair in the wrong place and your hairs will press heavily on the sensitive nerves of the head.

Change Style, But Not Angle.

If one feels that it is bad for the hair to wear it always the same, and if change is to be made, change the style of coiffure rather than the angle of it. The girl who wears her hair low with her hats and high for evening has solved the problem better than she who fixes her hair just as the notion strikes her, without thought of her nose and chin.

Where features are sharp and the chin receding, too much attention cannot be paid to angle. Be persistent until you find style of hair dressing that throws these features into least prominence, then stick to that exact angle. Better put up your hair two or three times in the morning than look a fright all day.

No one is so hopelessly ugly that she cannot be improved by proper hair dressing. Careless hair dressing is one of the tricks of the light comedies, and women who do not wish to appear ridiculous will not indulge in it.

Let one would make the most of her good points she must learn first her defects. Having conceived possibilities, work them up just as one would touch up a picture or decorate an ugly room.

Most women have at least one good point. Perhaps it is a head of beautiful hair or a lovely figure. Make the most of it, dress up to it, as it were, and soon you will be out of the ugly class.

Let one with unbecoming hair and ugly features, let her use her hair as the high light of her costume, wear colors that will bring out its best lights, adopt a distinctive color scheme for all her clothes. It will not take long to lift that girl out of the commonplace class and make her noticeable looking, or not strictly beautiful.

Old Face Requires Care.

A thin face or an older one, in which the curves have given place to lines more interesting, but also more pronounced, requires that one be careful to allow a generous space to the waves or curls that come against brow and temples. In the case of hair already well sprinkled with gray, the braid or coil will be more effective than a head and surrounding the crown.

Another consideration, the braid or coil that seen in profile is distinctly unattractive has the tendency to thrust forward the lower part of the face, so that in dressing with a heavy chin a braid placed almost horizontally is the most artistic.

There will also be a helpful suggestion in treating the back. The adjustment of the hair seen from the back also requires attention. If brushed for the attention is to render a square or heavy neck heavy, giving it is raised to give the neck a more graceful line, while nothing makes a more subtle.

Can anything be more beautiful than soft, fluffy curls drawn back from the brows?

It is not necessary to carry the hair all around the head—merely suggest the complete circle. For instance, supposing you part your hair in front and roll it at the sides. Then comb your back hair upward, divide it, twist it, cross it, and carry the ends to the point where they can be tucked under the hair rolled at the sides. By this simple means you have given your head the proper shape, also a sufficient hint of the fashionable to your coiffure.

Will Not Sell Wrong Hat.

A great milliner, whose charges are high, excuses the prices she puts upon her wares by calling her customers' attention to the becoming qualities of the hats she sells them.

Indiscriminate fancy is not allowed full rein in her establishment. She is adamant when a hat is praised and coveted, unless it be just the right one for the purchaser who wants it. Otherwise no amount of adroitness will suffice to make her sell it.

Something else instead? Yes, certainly, but that particular model that does not become madame one little bit, no hat remains until some one whom it beautifies comes to the shop. It is a point of honor with this milliner to study each customer's countenance and take into careful consideration her physique and even her height before she parts with a hat. And surely her justification for such exacting criticism is a reasonable one. She is selling not only a covering for the head but a perfected sense of the fitness of things.

Some faces she says look pretty with any kind of hat above them. It is difficult to describe the type of face that does; perhaps the nearest description of it is the one that has no specially well accentuated feature nor peculiarity of contour. It is not a particularly round face, not a particularly fat face, not a very thin face nor a very oval face; it is not a face with a pointed chin nor a face with tiny eyes, nor yet large ones. It is an average face, sweet and charming to behold, with the beauty of youth, its richest endowment, and it is a refined face, too, with pretty eyes full of expression.

But, alas, it is not so.

Supposing, however, a woman's face be thought too round—round as a full moon it is called by its rather chagrined owner. It is a fat face and a bonny face, but it certainly is not a very easy matter to find a hat that really suits it.

A circular turban emphasizes its roundness, and a small cap looks absurd above it. Try the effect of a large hat, with a big brim, sweeping obliquely above the face, and the effect will be pronounced most charming and attractive. It is the general appearance. It is subject should be a persistent devotee of big millinery, for it is clearly her best resource.

Many who affect the low brow hair dressing wonder why their eyebrows fall out.

An uncovered brow expresses intelligence. The brow is the most intelligent portion of our physiognomy.

Notice the hard line and aging look the hair band imparts to this face.

There are delicate faces that are almost as great a perplexity to the milliner. Consider the wistful countenance with an appealing prettiness which owes its charm not to its coloring nor yet to any special beauty of feature. It is a small and rather piteous face, and the eyes are not large. Clearly it requires very careful consideration.

Millinery of a nondescript character will not suit it, that is certain. It would make this type of countenance uninteresting, meagre looking, commonplace. What is wanted is a hat that will not overpower the delicate features altogether but will look a trifle daring. Remember, too, that small eyes will appear larger if they are overshadowed by a rather closely fitting hair.

Can tiny countenance will be less tiny if the crown of the hat be high, and should there be any harshness of outline or the pinched look that indicates ill health or recovery from sickness, then choose velvet as the millinery material. Fur would be too heavy looking, straw too light. Velvet is the most becoming fabric under the circumstances.

Requires Simplest of Lines.

The addition of a narrow hem of fur at the edge of the brim makes for smartness and beauty. Another type of countenance there is again, distinguished by delicate features and thin almost to attenuation, to which appertains as if by right a very different millinery model. It is a face that is healthy though thin, and the clear cut profile is exquisitely modeled.

Place above it with its wealth of heavy hair, headgear with a high crown and close brim, such as has just been described and the effect would be ridiculous. What this face requires is a hat of the most simple and lovely lines, with a brim lifted at one side to throw the profile and coiffure into relief and a scheme of trimmings at once subservient to the main idea but yet a complement of it, comprising a cord ornament, a bow, or a small feather.

No elaboration must there be in this case; the hat must harmonize with the face and its expression.

Must Gain Length of Waist.

It may be taken as a general rule that should there be a very pronounced feature it is the one that should be remembered all the time the hat is being chosen. The thin tilted nose may be very quaint, but it is a good killer to the admirer of plumes or feathers that accentuate its upward curve. Then there is the pointed chin, which robs its owner of the pleasure of wearing a conical turban, a fact that need not disconcert her, however, for there are not many other models that may be hers.

The ugly girl who must save money should devote her income to salient things first. Let her get a good corset, learn to put it on, and study a graceful, erect carriage. A stylish figure is so noticeable that one forgets to look higher at the ugly mouth and nose.

She must be given length of waist, graceful lines, and the low bust that is so much in favor just now. The right corset, correctly adjusted, will work wonders even for the lumpy figure.

The plain woman should have fewer clothes and wear cut ones. Let her go to the best tailor and dressmaker she can afford. If she must make her own clothes, let her pay her to take a course in cutting from a good tailor who knows lines.

The ugly girl cannot afford to indulge herself in the latest fashion frill; she must study effects for day and night wear by all lights and under all conditions, and choose the clothes she looks best in despite fashion.

Above all must she beware of the picturesque or the eccentric. Her clothes should be becoming and unnoticeable. There should be a part of an interesting whole, not the whole thing. That makes us wonder, "Why did she choose such a commonplace gown?"

SUZETTE'S LETTER and Other SOCIETY NEWS

have one of the handsomest homes in all the countryside around Petaluma, and a special boat and train will take the guests to the wedding.

Miss McNear spent two years in the Seaside school in New York and Miss Amy Seville is coming from the East to be maid of honor at her friend's wedding. The bridesmaids make up a group of well known girls—Miss Ida Sonntag, Miss Amy Talbot, Miss Christine McNab and Miss Louise McNear.

After their wedding trip the bride and groom will go to Kona, where an attractive home, one of their wedding presents, is in readiness for them.

Miss Marian Miller's marriage to Bernard Ford will take place on September 11, at the home of her parents, the C. O. G. Millers, on Pacific avenue. There will be about 100 guests, the greater part of the list being made up of the many relatives of both young people.

Miss Elva de Pue was a hostess of the week, entertaining in honor of Miss Miller. Her guests included a group of very bright girls, among whom were:

Miss Corona de Pue, Miss Lillian Taylor, Miss Marian Crocker, Miss Amyella Talbot, Mrs. Dolly MacGavin (Fry), Mrs. Effingham Sutton and Miss Ethel McAllister.

MANY MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

Music is to be a very fashionable form of entertainment this winter, and there is very good reason for it, as Californians have established a reputation for being great lovers of music.

Already plans are made for the symphony concerts, which were given at the St. Francis last year, and which called out large and very representative audiences. Among those responsible for the success of the symphony concerts on this coast are Mrs. Hearst, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, Joseph Redding, Rudolph Spreckels, William Crocker, Mrs. Reque, Oscar Cooper, Sigmund Beel, Templeton Crocker, Mrs. Malcolm Whitman, Francis Carolan, Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Judge Melvin, Frank C. Havens, F. M. Smith, Chas. Stenson Wheeler, Charles Bentley, C. O. G. Miller, Baron von Schroeder and Miss Jane Flood.

The first of the boxes to be taken for the symphony concert which will be given in San Francisco, October 25, has been reserved by Mrs. Eugene de Sable, who cabled from Carlsbad. Mrs. de Sable made her application to Richard Tobin, acting president of the San Francisco Symphony society, Mr. and Mrs. de Sable and their two daughters, Miss Vera and Miss Leonette de Sable, have been abroad all summer. The greater part of their sojourn on the continent has been spent in England, but recently they went to Carlsbad, where they will remain for another fortnight. Mr. and Mrs. Clement Tobin and their little daughter, Miss Aileen Tobin, who at present are traveling in Spain, will join the de Sables shortly and will return to California with them.

Henry Hadley has made a fine leader and the symphony concerts are so well worth while that they are among the most notable dates of the winter.

TRIUMPH FOR MIGNON NEVADA

Appropos of music, Emma Nevada, the well known singer who was graduated from Mills college, is receiving many congratulations from old friends here on the success of her daughter in the operatic world. A friend wrote from Rome recently in regard to Mignon Nevada:

"Mignon Gloria Nevada, daughter of the famous American prima donna, Emma Nevada, was enthusiastically greeted upon her appearance at the recent drawing room musicale of Signora Cortesi, the American wife of the noted publicist, Miss Nevada sang a delightful group of numbers, among them the 'Jewel Song' from 'Faust,' and her accompanist was Count Cismara. The young soprano has concluded a most successful season in opera at Rome, with special triumphs as Marguerite in 'Faust,' and she is about to fulfill operatic engagements in Northern Italy, France and Belgium."

MISS CLAY IN GUEST OF MRS. SPRECKELS

Miss Madeline Clay is still in Southern California the guest of her friend, Mrs. Claus Spreckels Jr., who was Miss Ella Moon of San Jose.

Mrs. M. E. Mead entertained for Miss Clay, and Mrs. John D. Spreckels has cards out for a dinner in her honor next week. Miss Clay is expected to return to town about the middle of September.

MAGNIFICENT HOME AT LAKE TAHOE

Mr. and Mrs. Deane Blinn Jr. are now at home at Tahoe, after having spent several days in San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Blinn were at Tahoe all through the year when they were one of the most hospitable and charming of the place. Mrs. Blinn was formerly Miss Florence Dunham of Oakland.

OAKLAND HOSTS ARE FAMOUS

On our side of the bay are some delightful hostesses, who each year plan to welcome in a charming way their many friends to their homes. Foremost on the list is Mrs. Bequa whose record for hospitality dates back to old Nevada days.

Mrs. Frank C. Havens holds the palm for entertainments most enjoyable because they are "made original"—given by a hostess who has a very marked individuality and whose home is different from every one else's. The large hall which Mrs. Havens gave, her luncheon and dinners—all mark distinctly interesting chapters in social history.

Mrs. Wickham Havens is never happier than when she is planning entertainments for her friends. Sometimes it is a dinner-dance, the beautiful ballroom affording a fine setting for a dance. Out in the tennis court there are happy gatherings of friends, and luncheons and bridge brighten days of the passing winter.

Miss Ethel Moore entertains a great deal each winter, in a cordial, happy fashion, and in her home one is sure to meet many interesting people, guests of honor well worth while.

Mrs. George McNear Sr. has been giving a series of elaborate luncheons which have been greatly enjoyed by old friends.

The R. G. Browns make their friends welcome every Wednesday afternoon in their well known home in Jackson street, and Mrs. John Spring and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Newell of Berkeley, are among the popular bridge hostesses of each winter.

Mrs. Remi Chabot understands fully the art of delightful dinner giving, and another very successful dinner hostess is Mrs. Frank L. Brown.

Mrs. Thomas Crellin, Mrs. Wallace Alexander, Mrs. Edward Walsh, Mrs. T. C. Coogan, Mrs. J. R. Burnham, Mrs. Louis Titus are among the best known hostesses on our side of the bay.

SOCIETY

MRS. ROBERT BOND, who was formerly Miss Rowena Wilson, is being entertained by her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. T. Sidney Elston. Mrs. Benjamin Elston, entertained for Mrs. Bond at a delightful affair last week. Miss Frances Woolsey gave a dinner recently for Mr. and Mrs. Bond, which was unusually pretty.

Another guest who has been much entertained is Miss Lillian Leace, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis MacDermott. She has been much entertained by Miss Evelyn Hussey. Miss Leace formerly lived here, but now resides with her parents in Chicago.

RETURNED FROM TAHOE.

Mr. A. E. Horton and his daughter, Mrs. Jessamine M. Horton, have returned to the Peralta Apartments after having spent the summer at their home on the shore of Lake Tahoe.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING.

A very enjoyable evening with Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hahn, as host and hostess, furnished the finale of a joyous summer outing of a few chosen friends, some having yielded to the allurements of the Santa Cruz mountains, while others sought the grandeur of the Shasta region. A very delightful dinner, at which Mrs. Hahn proved a charming hostess, was followed by a box party at the Orpheum. The following young folks voted it an occasion that left a sweet memory, with naught to mar the attending pleasure. James D. Hahn, Jr., Richard Hahn, Ellery Stone, Emmet Brittain, Glen Wilbur, Miss Allison Stone, Miss Alice Leigh, Miss Ruth Brittain, Miss Corinne Wood, Miss Edwina Moyes and Mr. and Mrs. Hahn, composed the party.

UNIQUE BARN DANCE.

A unique barn dance was given to 120 sorority and fraternity boys and girls from the university and high schools, on Friday evening, by Lloyd Ridley. A big warehouse in East Oakland made an ideal dance hall and was brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns and streamers, together with an abundance of greens.

RECENT WEDDING.

The marriage of Alfred D. Manichy of Livermore and Miss Carrie C. Perry of Tiburon was celebrated Friday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. V. Viery of 2122 Ninth street, West Berkeley. Rev. Father Collopy of St. Joseph's church, officiated. Following the ceremony a dinner and reception were held. The house was decorated in white and green. The attendants at the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Viery. The bride was caught up with orange blossoms, while Mrs. Viery wore white chiffon silk. Mr. and Mrs. Manichy will live in Livermore.

TO BE AT HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverly R. Wilder have sent out cards announcing that they will be at home to their friends after September 15, at 2343 Ellsworth street, Berkeley.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE.

Miss Ruth and Miss Clara Griffin gave a shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Ruth Simpson, who will be a September bride.

LEAVE FOR IOWA.

Mrs. J. R. Perkins and her sons, Proctor and William, have gone to Iowa, to spend a few months with Miss Perkins' parents.

ALAMEDA WEDDING.

Miss Jane K. Schenck and Robert Lee, Jr. were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Elmer in Alameda. Post Frank R. Brinn will officiate. Miss Schenck is the daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Schenck and the late W. T. Y.

Schenck. Lee is a graduate of the University of California.

MANY NEW MEMBERS JOIN THE S. F. CHORAL SOCIETY

MRS. WALLACE W. BRIGGS, WHO ENTERTAINED MANY LOCAL FOLK AT HER MUSICAL ON THURSDAY EVENING.

The San Francisco Choral Society, of which the well known musician, Paul Steindorff is director, has resumed its Monday evening rehearsals for the season, in the hall at 429 Sutter street. A large number of new members have joined lately and the society now has more voices than ever before in its history. In a few months it proposes to give a presentation to the public of Sir Arthur Sullivan's cantata, "The Golden Legend," on which it is now at work. The growth and progress of this well-organized organization of singers gives assurance that this performance will attract attention. It is ambitious to list, expand, and further additions to its ranks will be welcome.

LOCAL VIOLINIST RETURNS.

Miss Estelle Gray, a local violinist, is home from New York for a visit with her parents, before beginning her next transcontinental tour for the Redpath Musical Bureau, which begins in Los Angeles the last of September. Miss Gray had a very delightful trip west via the Canadian Pacific, making many stops with friends, one of the pleasantest being at Lake Louise, where, in the heart of the Rockies, where a reception was given in her honor.

On the occasion of Miss Gray's visit last February she was able to remain but a few days, and had no opportunity to see her many friends, and she is looking forward to a pleasant month among them.

BEGIN SEASON.

After a vacation of three months the Eurycle Club of Oakland will begin its rehearsals next Tuesday at its rooms in Maple Hall.

The concert closing the ninth season was a great success and the members have made great plans for this year. It is the ambition of the club to make Oakland well known throughout the state for civic affairs, and in view of that the officers have selected their music with great care.

The club will be led this season by Edwin Dunbar Crandell, who so successfully filled the position last year. Mrs. Mabel Hill Redfield will accompany the club, having filled the position last season, succeeding Miss Mildred Turner. At the close of the season the members met at the home of Mrs. J. H. Remmers in Alameda and elected the following officers for the coming season: Mrs. J. H. Remmers, president, Mrs. W. H. Coblick, vice-president, Miss Lila Leavitt, secretary, Mrs. H. B. Kille, treasurer, Miss Gertrude Nelson, librarian, and Miss Dorothy Crandell, assistant librarian.

It is planned by the club to give its first concert some time in November, but the date has not been definitely decided upon.

GRANT MUSICAL.

Miss Vivian Grant, a violinist and pianist, gave a recent musicale at her home in Berkeley when the following program was presented:

Molto allegro con fuoco Mendelssohn Andante Presto (Orchestral parts on second piano) French recitation (Miss Grant accompanying herself on the violin) De Beriot Violin—Concerto No. 1 "De L'Alcazar de Lammormoor" (for the left hand alone) Leshchelsky Piano—Polonaise, in A flat major, Op. 83 Chopin Piano—Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 12 Liszt

HEINEMANN CONCERT.

The Piano Club of Berkeley will give a concert by Alexander Heinemann early next month at the new clubhouse on Elstie street. Mrs. John Galet Howard, the president, will preside.

RETURNS FROM TOUR.

Miss Mary Harrington of 2411 Myrtle street, has returned from a tour of the northern part of the state, where she was extensively entertained by friends. For a number of years Miss Harrington has been prominent in musical circles in Boston and Springfield, Mass. Her former home, where she was associated with a number of the leading colleges and schools as instructor.

FIFTH ORGAN RECITAL.

To appear at the organ recital, Miss Edna Hawthorne, assisted by her nephew, John Woodruffe Garthwaite, has will give the fifth of a series of 4 o'clock organ recitals. They will be continued through

LEGAL NOTICES

Important Notice to Voters of Registration

Clerk, Oakland, Alameda County, California.

It is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of section 1094 of the Political Code of the State of California, all voters of Alameda County must apply for re-registration in order to be able to vote at the primary election to be held on September 2, 1912, and for the

Owing to the fact that there is no provision of law granting assistance to the County Clerk in the registration of voters it is important that voters should apply for registration at once, in order to expedite the work.

Such re-registration began on the first day of January and will be in progress at all times until August 3d, 1912, for the purpose of enabling voters to qualify for the primary election, after which registration will again open and continue until October 5th, 1912, for the purpose of enabling voters to qualify for the general election.

The attention of voters is especially directed to the recent decision of the supreme court, in which it is held that all voters must have registered this year in order to join in the signing of any certificate of nomination in behalf of any candidates for public office to be voted for at the primary election. To be held September 3d, 1912.

Attention is further directed to the following provisions of the Political Code of the State of California, relating to registration:

Section 1097. No person's name may be entered by the Clerk unless:

2. If a naturalized citizen, upon the production of his certificate of naturalization which certificate must be issued ninety days prior to the succeeding election, upon his affidavit that it is lost or out of his possession, which affidavit must state the place of his nativity, and the time and place of his naturalization, together with his affidavit that he has resided in the United States for five years, and in the State for one year next preceding the time of application, and that he would be an elector of the county, or city or county at the next succeeding election; provided, however, if such naturalized citizen shall have been successfully re-

as a qualified elector in any of the counties or cities and counties of this State, and shall produce a certificate of such registration, issued by the party authorized by law to issue such certificate, which shall recite the time and place of naturalization of such elector, such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of his natu-

ualization. In the event that such a naturalized citizen shall state in his affidavit that he was naturalized in the county city and county in which he seeks to register, or in the event that he was previously registered within the preceding eight years within the county or city and county in which he seeks to register, and his certificate of naturalization is his certificate of naturalization has been revoked, he shall not be required to produce his certificate of naturalization prior to making such affidavit of lost certificate in New York, provided, however, that in any county or city and town where the affidavits of registration have been destroyed by fire or conflagration, or other public calamity, the above state-provision as to previous registration with in the preceding eight years shall in such county or city and county, apply only for such number of years past as there shall exist a record of previous registration and not to exceed in any event said eight years.

DIVORCE

"It's the Woman's Fault."

Judge Charles N. Goodnow.

"It's the Man's Fault."

Catherine Vaughn McCulloch.

By CATHERINE VAUGHN McCULLOCH,
Only Woman Justice of the Peace in Cook County.

In most of the divorce cases which come to my notice the husband has been at fault.

Wife beating has practically gone out of fashion; but there are a hundred other more cruel, more inhuman ways of making a woman's life miserable employed by the modern husband.

Many men who are tired of matrimony, or who want to marry another woman, treat their wives with cold indifference, never speaking an unnecessary word to them for months, taking no interest in the affairs of the home, and acting as a disinterested stranger might.

This treatment wears on a woman's patience and temper far more than harsh words and angry scenes. If she loves her husband, his indifference pains her terribly and eventually drives her to the divorce court when she is able to stand it no longer.

Then again there is the man who acts the part of a despotic ruler in his home; he differs with his wife on every possible question, and disapproves of her method of managing the house, her treatment of the children, her dress, her amusements, and her friends.

I have known men who would argue the question of a pew in church for hours with the wife. The sending of the children to a boarding school or the kindergarten would call forth an endless discussion.

They insist on accompanying their wives to dressmakers and milliners, and as surely as a certain gown or hat is admired they take an immediate dislike to the object of her admiration. Instead, they buy something which she does not approve and which causes her annoyance ever time she wears it.

Many Demand Constant Thought.

Many men still retain their old fashioned ideas of marriage, and demand every thought and moment from the woman who becomes their wife; in return they give her almost nothing—a pleasant home, perhaps, and three meals a day. But the majority of women have that even before they marry. Never once does it occur to some of these selfish husbands to share their thoughts and lives with the woman from whom they demand so much.

Men of this sort make a woman's life a burden; she dreads the return of her husband from business at night, for she knows that the evening will be spent trying vainly to explain why she did this or that and accounting for the way she has spent her husband's money. Every act of hers must be gone over and discussed; every penny must be accounted for.

Another type of husband who drives his wife to the divorce court is the man who is perfectly willing that any reasonable amount of money be spent on the furnishing and running of the home, the clothing and education of the children, but who raves insanely when his wife timidly asks for money to buy a much needed new frock for herself, loudly proclaiming that her wild extravagance will drive him to the poorhouse. There are some men who seem to be of the opinion that there is nothing in the world too good for themselves and their children, but any old thing is good enough for their wives.

Sometimes women themselves are responsible for this attitude of mind, having unconsciously taken a place in the background and gradually relinquish their right to consideration.

Owes It to Herself to Keep Respect.

But more often it is selfishness, pure and simple, on the part of the husband. Her husband's and her children's welfare should be the first consideration of a woman who is a wife and mother, but she owes it to herself to keep their respect and love by demanding certain privileges and comforts.

Perhaps the most frequent grudge a woman has against her husband is his unjust way of dividing his earnings. Strange to say, this question arises more frequently among families of the middle and upper classes of society than among the laboring classes. The laborer frequently turns over his pay envelope every time he draws his money, removing only two or three dollars for his car fare, lunch money, etc. This condition does not prevail, however, among the social sets who pride themselves on being more advanced. The successful business man often allows his wife practically no spending money; she does not know the meaning of the phrase, "pocket money"; or if she was used to her weekly allowance from her father when she lived at home, it seemed like an idle dream after a few months of married life.

This is really a peculiar condition of affairs, which is far more prevalent than most persons would suppose. I have known women who had several motor cars at their disposal, who had charge accounts at the shops and were able to buy practically anything within reason, and who had season tickets for the opera and yearly trips to Europe; to be unable to take a ride in the street car or buy a matinee ticket for the theater, for the simple reason that their husbands do not allow them even 5 cents a week for spending money.

Their Purse Practically Useless.

Their exquisite handbags of gold and silver, of costly workmanship and frequently set with precious stones, are practically useless for bills, and even silver is never concealed in their luxurious mantles. A handkerchief of rare fineness and delicacy and a tiny powder box often are the only contents.

When a man refuses to allow a woman to have a cent to spend she naturally feels resentful and humiliated. The husband cannot understand her attitude. When she asks for money he replies, "Do you not have an account at all the shops? You can go to any one of them and buy anything and everything you wish."

I have had many women, whose husbands were rated as rich men, come to me and tell me that they would give a great deal if they could earn a few dollars a week, so they might have some money which they might call their own, to do with as they please.

These women's friends think that they have everything their hearts desire and such a good husband! They do not understand that they practically are paupers; neither do the husbands. If the latter were accused of being close or stingy with their wives they would deny it stoutly, for in their selfish, egotistical way they are sure that their wives are better treated and more favored than the majority of the women of their set.

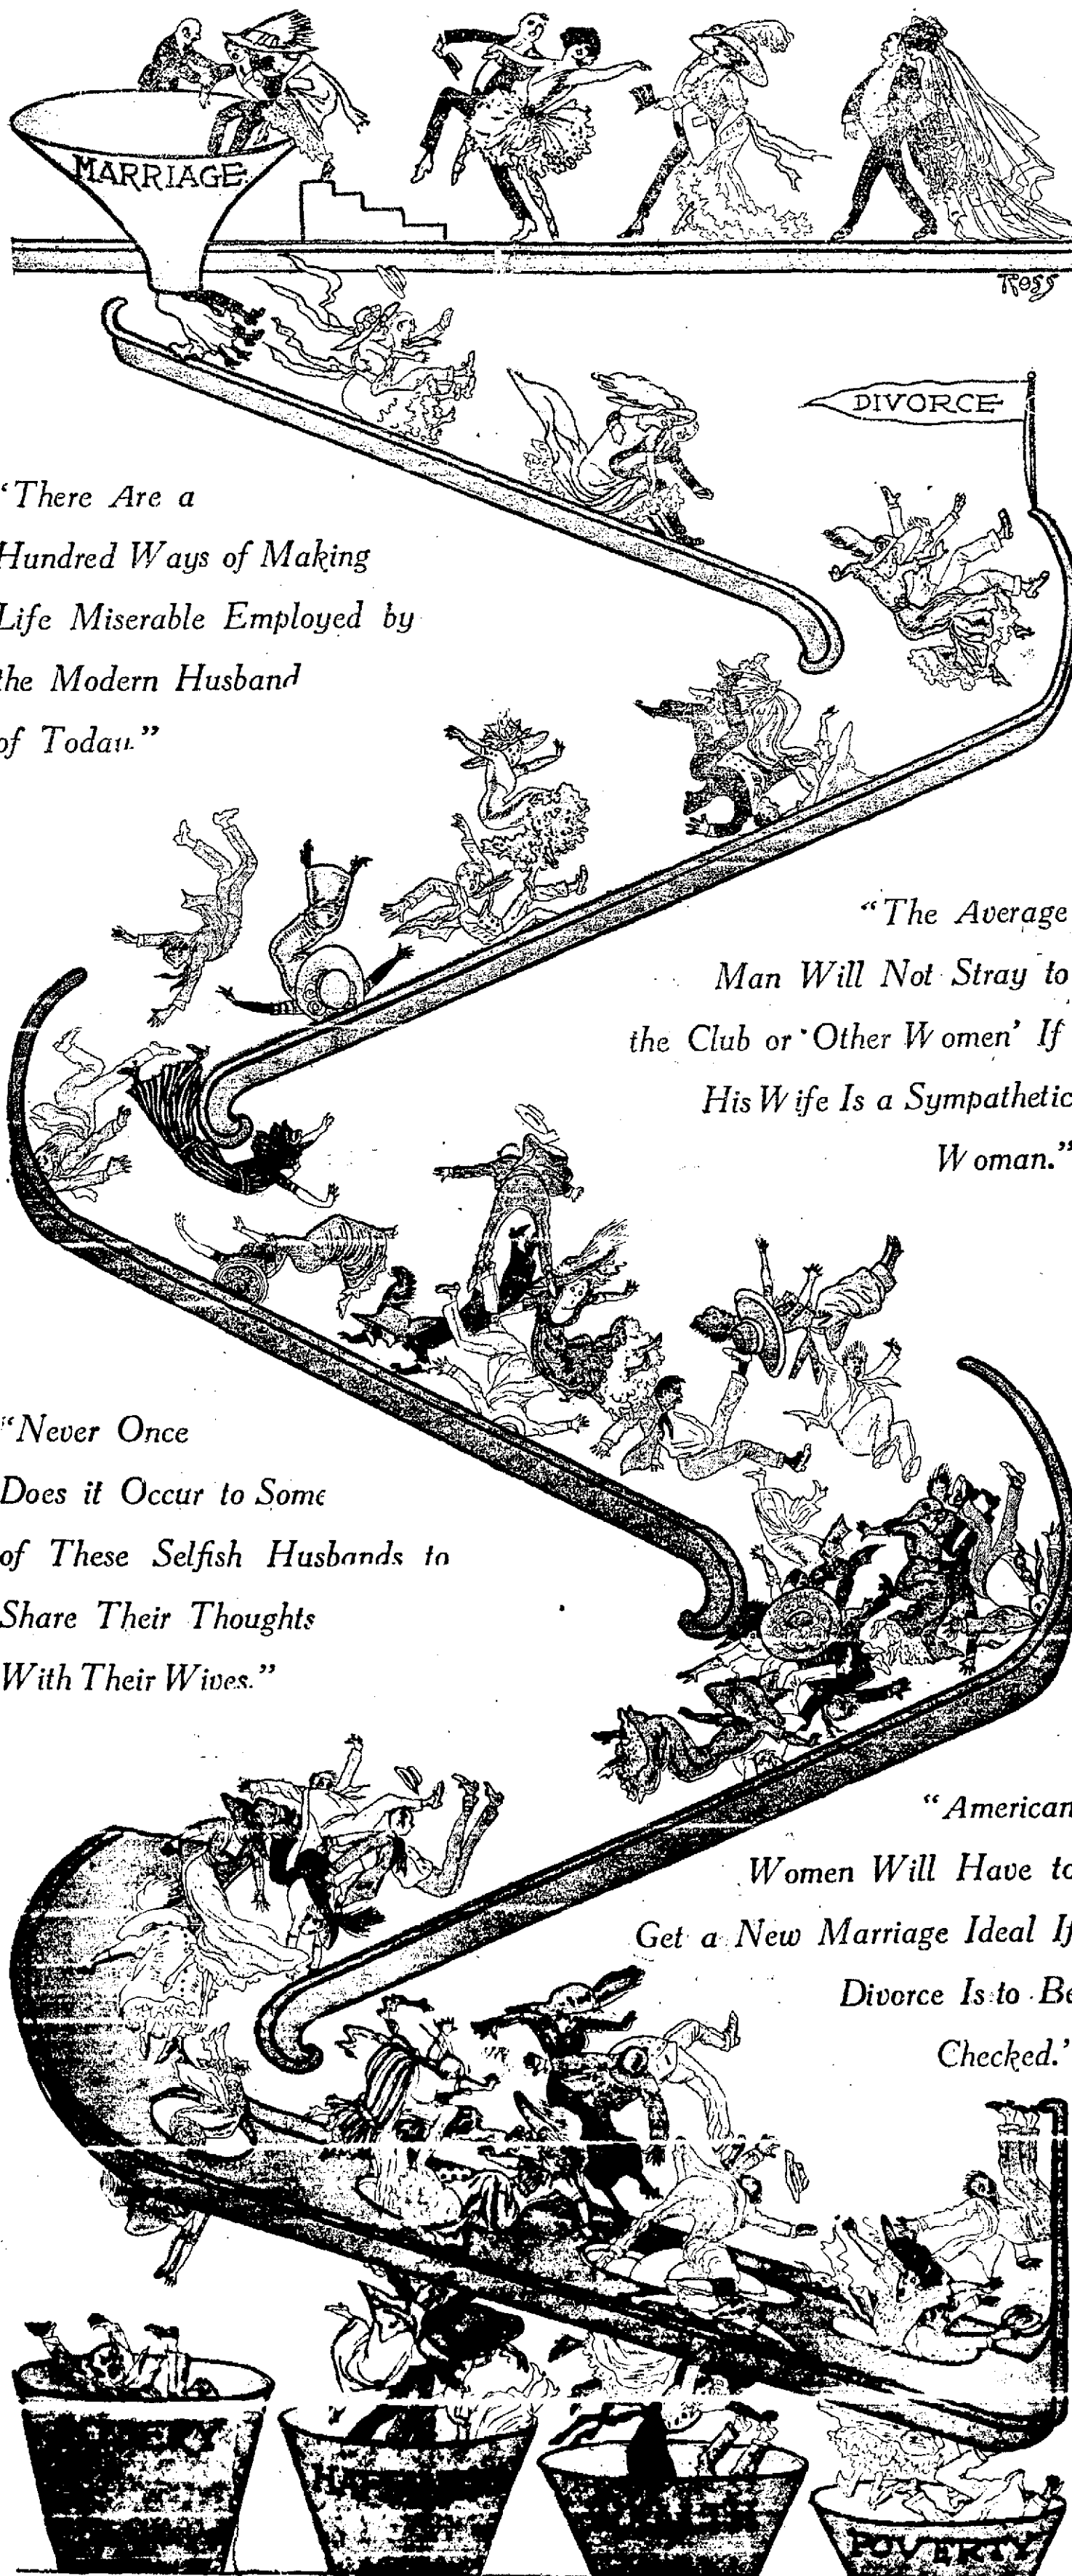

Many Ways of Humiliating Wife

The modern man has many ways of humiliating his wife. Frequently it is the man who is known among his business acquaintances and friends at his clubs as a "good spender" who will hold on to the dollars the tightest when it is a question of buying something new for the home or school books for the children.

The man who never hesitates to buy wine for his friends in the cafe often is the man who continually harps on the high cost of living at home. Wine is none too good for himself and his friends.

His friends never could be convinced that he is stingy; they consider him a prince of good fellows and the very soul of generosity. They would laugh if any one were to tell them that he kept a close count of his money at home. But his wife knows and has to bear the brunt of his eccentricities.

The jealous man perhaps is the most difficult of all for a woman to live with, unless she is willing to sacrifice all her interests to him.

"American Women Will Have to Get a New Marriage Ideal If Divorce Is to Be Checked."

By JUDGE CHARLES N. GOODNOW,
Judge of the Court of Domestic Relations.

In most divorce cases some fault of the husband is named as the cause of the trouble, but if the truth were really told the wife is more frequently to blame. She may not know it or acknowledge it, even to herself, but the fact remains that through some needless speech, some unpleasant mannerism, or some careless habit she has at some time lost some of her husband's love and respect.

Neither one of them may have realized the importance of the slight quarrel or little disagreement at the time, but it opened the way for more serious differences.

A honeymoon quarrel frequently is the first step toward the divorce court. It is patched up quickly, and the young bride and bridegroom may think their happiness as perfect as it was before the incident; but one misunderstanding leads to another of still more importance, until they finally dislike each other thoroughly, and the divorce court is the inevitable finish.

The success or failure of marriage depends largely upon the wife. Of course, there are some men who would not treat the best wife in the world well, but they are the exception, not the rule. The average man will not stray to the club or the "other woman" if his home life is pleasant and his wife a sympathetic companion.

Ninety-eight per cent of the men and women who marry are resolved that they will make the future bright and rosy and happy, for the one they love. They have made up their minds to do everything in their power to make their marriage a success.

Then the husband discovers some little habit of Mary's that jars on his nerves; the wife finds that John is a normal human being with the average number of failings.

Mary is obstinate when John makes a few remarks about her bad disposition; John is still more obstinate when Mary refers to his lack of consideration. Trouble looms up darkly in the background, and gradually as time goes on the breach becomes wider and wider, and finally separation is the only solution.

Little Things of Everyday Life Count.

It is the little things of everyday life that really count and make or mar our happiness.

A nagging, fussing, fault finding woman will soon make a discontented, grumbling man out of her husband. Many a man who would not think of bringing his business troubles into his home has to listen to long, uninteresting stories on the servant question and the troubles of housekeeping when he gets home in the evening.

His wife gives him to understand that she would have been much better off if she had married his rival, or even if she had never married at all. She does not hesitate to let him know that she is a martyr, a mere domestic drudge. Life to her is dull and uninteresting, and she tells him so very plainly.

Naturally the husband eventually becomes grumpy and discouraged. He reasons that he works hard all day long, and brings home practically all his earnings; in return he gets three meals a day, a bed to sleep in, and once in a long while a little pleasure.

Finally he figures out that he is getting the worst of the bargain, and the result is that he gets to drinking more than he should, becomes interested in some woman who jollies him instead of scolding, and refuses to spend his evenings at home with his wife.

She would not listen to you if you were to tell her it was her fault. She poses as the poor, lonely, forsaken, ill treated wife, while her husband is looked upon as a dissipated wretch who cannot appreciate a good woman.

American women will have to get a new marriage ideal if the divorce evil is to be checked. Too many girls, especially the daughters of men of the middle and upper classes, get married with the purpose of getting all they can and giving as little as possible in return.

Only a Few Fill Shoes of the Ideal.

Unless a woman is indispensable to a man, a part of his intimate life, and capable of sharing his pleasures and assisting him to overcome his difficulties and worries, she is not a good wife to him. Yet how many girls are there who are brought up to fill that place? A comparative few.

The mother who wishes her daughter to make a successful wife should give her a long and thorough lesson in tact, for it is the tactful woman who manages her husband and makes him happy at the same time.

Tact, skillfully applied, will smooth the wrinkles out of a husband's troubled brow and untangle domestic difficulties sooner than any other known remedy.

The American woman of the upper classes has only a small part in her husband's life. Her husband is too closely occupied with business to be interested in her frivolous amusements. She either does not care to or is not capable of enjoying his pleasures. Frequently the husband is content to have her so; the wives of his business associates are out on the same pattern, and they do not expect more, so why should he?

However, once in a while there is a man who requires more of his wife; he is not satisfied with a mere pretty doll. Then he tries to train the woman whom he has married to be the woman he wants for a wife; she cannot or will not understand. They quarrel and grow still farther apart; finally the divorce court ends their struggles. The woman has failed as a wife.

The pleasures and aims of the women of the middle and upper classes are not those of their husbands. They are the pleasures and aims of European society. In fact, many of them have the disease of Europe—of going to Europe—which should not be a disease at all, but which might and should mean much in their development and understanding. Once a season she goes to Europe, leaving her husband to entertain himself in the best—or the worst—way he can, and feeling that she is doing the right thing. Paris is the place she visits; here she spends her time at the dressmaker's, playing bridge, in the shops, and making calls.

She often picks up the habit of smoking and drinking to a greater or less degree, and does not think it worth while to drop it when she returns to America.

More often she regards these vices as an accomplishment and brags of them to her husband, who usually is thoroughly shocked to find her so changed. He has stayed at home, working hard, in order to earn the money, that she may travel, and has retained his Puritan ideas of life.

Her Laughter Irritates the Husband.

When he expresses his disapproval of her cigar smoking and drinking habits she laughs at him and tells him he is provincial. This irritates him. Finally, some time when he discovers that his wife has taken too much liquor, he becomes thoroughly disgusted, and tells her so. They quarrel; things go from bad to worse, and they seek relief at the divorce court.

Extravagance is another prevalent cause of divorce. Many women strive to dress a little better than the other women in their set. Few American families realize where they belong or live within their incomes, causing, to my mind, one of the greatest evils of the day—the charging system, the system by which a vain, foolish woman never realizes what she has spent until the bill comes in.

This system is a great convenience to the woman of hard, practical common sense, but it assumes the proportions of a menace when a weak, silly woman takes advantage of it.

ST. HELENA, Aug. 31.—The St. Helena Vintage Festival to be held in St. Helena September 6, 7, 8 and 9, gives promise of being one of the most unique, interesting and elaborate fetes of the kind ever given in California. Every avail-more mental space in the pavilion has been taken and exhibitors are at work competing for the many premiums being offered. Everything in viticulture and the various fruits grown in the vicinity of St. Helena will be shown. One of the exhibit of all the big things grown in Napa valley soil. Hundreds of electric lights will illuminate the pavilion, which will be beautifully decorated.

CONTEST FOR QUEEN.

The contest for vintage queen is attracting widespread attention, the contestants being Miss Ivy Loeber, Miss Mildred Schmidt, Miss Inez Forn and Miss Alyce Elgin, all beautiful and popular young ladies.

Unlike most festivals and fairs the program for the four days includes some something going on all the time—dancing, athletic contests, concerts by one of the best bands in the city.

The big feature on Admission Day will be the floral and industrial parade which will be three miles long and comprise viticultural and horticultural floats, decorated automobiles and carriages, and other features.

The festival will open Friday afternoon, September 6, with the crown queen coronation. In the evening the pavilion attractions will be augmented by athletic exhibitions and a dance on the recently paved main street.

Saturday, September 7, will be devoted to athletic contests and in the evening there will be a dance at Crane Park.

Sunday, there will be a two band concert, the Napa Choral Club, the Mission Camp of Woodmen of the World will give a fancy drill on Main street Sunday afternoon.

Monday the street parade will be followed by the queen awarding prizes and a contest between the Grand Grays and the Grays, which will be a most interesting battle, thus bringing to a close what promises to be a unusual year of interest.

BAY NAVIGATION IS THREATENED BY DRIFTWOOD

Port Officials Forced to Haul Timbers From Paths of Boats.

TRANSPACIFIC LINES TO HAVE NEW VESSELS

Several Boats Mix in Series of Accidents on Humboldt Bay.

Considerable complaint is being made by the operators of the various bay craft because of the large amount of drift wood which litters the bay, menacing navigation. During the last few months the contractors in the construction of new wharves both on the local and San Francisco water fronts have been rather negligent with the old piles which are removed, allowing them to fall into the water, after which they are taken out by the tide and scattered over the bay. In several instances this drift wood has gathered in sufficient quantities to make it necessary for the port officials to be notified and tugs dispatched to remove the obstructions. The danger from this source has been growing daily and unless a speedy remedy is applied it is not improbable that several serious accidents may occur.

STEAMERS FOR THE PACIFIC.
The action of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha in ordering six big liners of 20,000 tonnage for handling the big rush of freight to come with the opening of the new canal has been followed by the British-India Navigation Company in ordering four liners of 10,000 tons to be ready for operation with the opening of the canal. The announcement of the British steamship company has been followed by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, another Japanese firm, announcing its intention of building three new liners to operate in conjunction with other steamers in the fleet. It is expected that a number of other important additions to the big transpacific carrying concerns will soon be announced.

BOATS IN MIXUP.
A number of small power craft which ply the waters around Eureka figured in a general mixup in that port recently, according to passengers arriving here recently. The vessels figuring in the accidents were the Coaster, Antelope, Katata and Randolph. The Antelope, which is a small ferry steamer, was running along toward her berth when the Coaster walked from behind another steamer into her path. In giving the signal to reverse the bell cord of the Antelope broke and the craft smashed into the Coaster, tearing off part of her guard rail and also smashing the planking of both craft below the water line. While this excitement was going on the power boat Randolph, in endeavoring to get into the wharf, bumped the Katata, carrying away a portion of her rail. The Coaster was then headed for the shipyard when she also struck the Katata, inflicting several scratches on the small power boat. Both Coaster and Katata were finally got to the shipyard without further event. The Antelope and Randolph, although scratched up, were able to continue on their regular runs.

With a small cargo of beer the Alaska-Pacific Steamship Company's steamer Yukon, Captain Griffiths, arrived here yesterday from Seattle. The big steamer tied up at a berth at Long wharf. In addition to discharging her beer cargo the Yukon is loading 600 tons of general merchandise for the north. She sailed early this morning for San Francisco.

SHIP GOES ON WAYS.
The three-masted schooner Defender, Captain Ericlisen, which arrived here recently after a 64-day passage from Samoa, completed her cargo discharge on the San Francisco side yesterday and shifted across to this side. She is at the Moore & Scott shipyard undergoing a general overhauling. She will be on the ways tomorrow and have her bottom scraped and painted.

The only windjammer to arrive here yesterday was the schooner Carrier Dove, Captain Anderson, which was brought in under tow and taken up the stream to the wharf. She is at the Pacific shipyard discharging a lumber cargo. The vessel came from Everett and was eleven days in making the passage.

The barge Washongah, Captain Hughes, is at the Pacific Lumber Company's wharf discharging a lumber cargo. She came from Gray's Harbor.

The steam schooner Despatch, Captain Rees, completed her lumber discharge at the Pacific shipyard yesterday afternoon and sailed for Eureka to load lumber for this port.

DRUM-MAJOR ACCUSED OF HAVING AFFINITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Julia Marie Sterling was granted a divorce this morning by Superior Judge Morgan from Walter L. Sterling, a drum major in the Thirtieth infantry, United States army. The Sterlings resided at 779 Fifth avenue and were married in San Rafael. The plaintiff testified that her spouse had fallen in love with the wife of a sergeant and in this case was corroborated by William Schwager.

POLITICS TO WAIT ON LABOR CELEBRATION

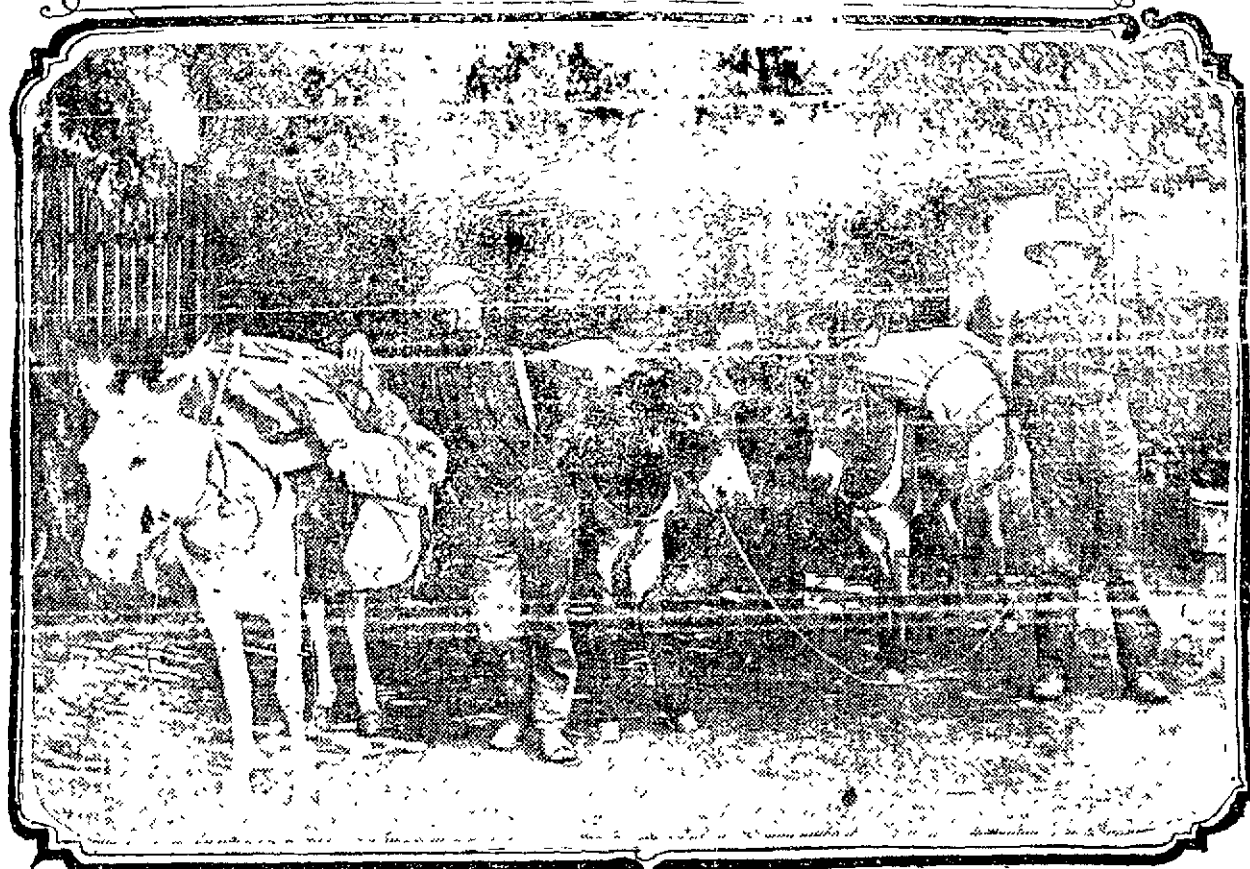

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, head of the bureau of organization at the Democratic national headquarters in Chicago, said that his observations during a trip through Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa led him to predict a united Democratic party behind the national ticket in all the districts. Democratic and Progressive headquarters planned to suspend their local campaigns.

NEWSPAPER MAN SUED FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

WOODLAND, Aug. 31.—Editor P. A. Fitzgerald of the Yolo Independent will be charged with criminal libel, three business men in Woodland being the complainants. District Attorney J. B. Miller will serve the complaint in a few days. It is alleged that Fitzgerald is guilty of criminal libel for publishing an article in the Yolo Independent to the effect that certain Woodland business men are guilty of the illicit sale of liquor in dry territory.

TWO DISAPPEAR ON SAME DAY

Married Man and Woman Are Supposed to Have Elope Together.

SANTA CLARA, Aug. 31.—Great excitement prevails, especially among the large number of Portuguese people here, in regard to the sudden disappearance of Mrs. Antonio Sousa and Joseph Costa, well known residents of Santa Clara, and it is now believed that they have eloped and efforts are being made to locate them in San Francisco and Oakland.

Mrs. Sousa left a husband and two small children aged 7 months and 2 years, respectively, and Costa left a wife and two children aged 11 months and 3 years, respectively.

A few days ago Mrs. Sousa, during the absence of her husband, left her two children at the home of a neighbor, stating that she would leave the children there while she went to San Jose, where she would do some shopping. She failed to return. Costa left here the same day and his heartbroken wife has heard nothing from him since.

Costa had been employed as foreman at one of the driers west of Santa Clara and a few weeks ago a large number of women were given employment there and among the number was pretty Mrs. Sousa. Costa appeared to take a great deal of interest and occasionally he would take her for a ride on his motorcycle, and it is said that on one occasion he was caught kissing her behind the fruit shed which occasioned gossip among the fruit workers.

DAMAGES MAY BE SOUGHT IN SUITS

The Head of Wool Company Charged With Dynamiting, Is Facing Actions.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Suits for damages aggregating many thousands of dollars will probably be brought against President William W. Wood of the American Woolen Company, in case he should be found guilty of the charge of plotting to plant the dynamite found in Lawrence at the time of the great textile strike. The suits are contemplated by property owners on whose premises the explosives were found.

Thomas M. Lato and Joseph Anaf, two residents of Lawrence, in whose houses dynamite was found, have already brought suits for $5000 damages each against John J. Breen, the Lawrence undertaker, who was convicted of planting the dynamite.

FEDERAL PROBE.
According to hints that came from the department of justice, the federal probe and probable prosecution will be founded on the planting of dynamite in a freight car in Lawrence that was en route to interstate traffic.

A federal law provides a heavy penalty for dynamite shipped in interstate commerce which is not labeled as such. According to hints that came from the department of justice, the federal probe and probable prosecution will be founded on the planting of dynamite in a freight car in Lawrence that was en route to interstate traffic.

Committees Are Named to Make Complete Arrangements

M. B. Morrison, a staunch member of the Native Sons, has been chosen division marshal of Alameda county for the parade to be held in Stockton Admission Day, September 9.

Morrison has been an active member of the Ninth of September Committee of Alameda County in the capacity of chairman of the press and advertising committees, and with the committee of the various other committees has worked hard to have Alameda county's showing in Stockton a large one. Owing to the fact that Oakland is out for the Admission Day Celebration in 1913, and with the various parades of Alameda county working hand in hand, it is expected to show the 100,000 people gathered in Stockton that Oakland is the most wideawake city in California.

The Merchants' Exchange of Oakland held its regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening, August 27, and was waited upon by a committee from the Native Sons of the Golden West, requesting the passage of a resolution favoring the closing of stores Admission Day, September 9.

COMMITTEES IN CHARGE.
Following are the names of the various committees, together with the personnel of the same:

General Committee—E. F. Garrison, chairman; A. J. Summers, vice-chairman; A. A. Rewig, secretary-treasurer. Transportation Committee—A. L. Gehard, chairman; Athens, H. Jenkins, Brooklyn; A. L. Behneman, Halsey; B. D. Peterson, Estudillo; F. McCarthy, Bay View.

Ways and Means Committee—W. E. Kelly, chairman; Estudillo; L. B. Hall, Oakland; R. E. Reeves, Fruitvale; J. I. Peterson, Alameda; Charles Corrikan, Athens.

Auditing Committee—B. J. Curran, R. B. Felton, H. C. Herkins. Press and Advertising Committee—M. B. Morrison, Piedmont, chairman; A. R. Larson, Berkeley; J. I. Hall, Eden; H. C. Brown, Berkeley; W. J. Laid, Berkeley; H. F. Vogt, Brooklyn; J. F. Craig, Halsey; L. J. Sterling, Bay View; R. B. Felton, Fruitvale; H. N. Sheramsky, Alameda; W. T. O'Connor, Claremont; J. C. Cran, Oakland; Geo. Bond, Niles; C. W. Fuchs, Athens.

VISITING IN OAKLAND.
William E. O'Connor of Stockton, grand marshal of the Native Sons, is in Oakland for a brief visit to his sister at the Bismere Apartments.

STOCKTON PREPARING.
STOCKTON, Aug. 31.—With the greatest Antislavery Day celebration ever held in California, outside of San Francisco just one week away, Stockton is rapidly taking on a dress of patriotic colors—the red, white and blue of the American flag and the golden hue which is symbolic of the west.

The sixty-second birthday of California as a state is destined to be long remembered by the border of people who will hear down on Stockton September 7, 8 and 9. Eighteen special trains have already been arranged for from various points, including Los Angeles. Others are yet to be reported. In addition to these there will be extras and second divisions of regulars.

BANDS TO RECEIVE.
The celebration proper will begin when the first special train arrives Saturday afternoon. Chairman Joseph P. Hatch of the reception committee and his workers have arranged to meet all incoming trains. There will be plenty of brass bands to greet the visitors. On leaving the trains the visitors will form in line and be escorted by Grand Marshal W. E. O'Connor to the reviewing stand.

BOOSTERS ARE TO TRAVEL SOUTHWARD

Northern Representatives Will Go to San Diego to Talk Over Fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—A big delegation of Northern California boosters will leave by steamer for San Diego September 4 to discuss details of the participation of the northern counties in the Panama-California Exposition to be held by that city in 1915.

The delegation will include about fifty members. Twenty-five county commissioners of the San Diego Exposition from counties north of the Tehachapi and an equal number of Northern California supervisors will make the trip.

The visitors will remain in San Diego for two days. It is the purpose of the southern fair directors to ask co-operation of the northern counties in erecting buildings and furnishing exhibits, and a comprehensive system will be worked out.

TO EXHIBIT PRODUCTS.
The products of each county and the material resources will be exploited to their fullest extent. Boards of Supervisors will be asked to make appropriations to adequately display their agriculture and manufactured products. A supervisor from each county will be included in the passenger list of the "Harvard" if the plans work out.

Elaborate entertainment will be afforded the visitors at the southern exposition city. Realizing that 1915 will bring thousands upon thousands of tourists to the Pacific coast, primarily for the universal exposition at San Francisco and in part to see the wonders of the far west, the San Diego directors will prove how closely all Californians are for great fair movements in celebration of the Panama canal.

TO HEAD DELEGATION.
B. L. Finley, president of the "North of the Bay Counties Association" and editor of the Santa Rosa Democrat, will head the delegation. Other leaders will be D. W. Carmichael of Sacramento, State Senator Marshall Lusk of San Diego, Director of Publicity, Winfield Haysbourn and Newton Cleveland of San Francisco.

Youth Near Death From Bullet Wound
WOODLAND, Cal., Aug. 31.—As the result of a robbery wound received here this afternoon, Walter Nichols, the sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Nichols of Guilford, is in a critical condition at the Woodland hospital. The robber was accidentally discharged as young Nichols was breaking it. The bullet penetrated the abdomen and lodged under the ribs of the back.

MONTANA RANCHER IS BRITISH PEER

Cecil Talbot Clifton, Former Social Lion of 'Blingum, Has Title.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A Montana rancher becomes a British peer by the death today of Baron Greyde Ruthyn in his 64th year.

The successor to the title is the handsome, Cecil Talbot Clifton of Northfield ranch, Montana.

The dead baron was the twenty-fourth of his line, the first lord of the name. He had been created in 1914. The title carries the hereditary right to bear the gold spur at the king's coronation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Cecil Talbot Clifton was for several years a leading figure in the fashionable set in San Francisco and Burlingame. He came to this city from Australia and because of his money and geniality was soon hailed as a social lion.

He took a leading part in the polo games and gentlemen's races of that period, and during his visits to the track became acquainted with "White Hat" McCarthy. He discovered that McCarthy was a bit down on his luck, and, humbling up his old friend, he presented him with his costly bric-a-brac, paintings, furnishings and horses. McCarthy was pointed out as the new American lord who had all the paraphernalia that went with the title but nothing to back it up.

Clifton visited this city in 1906 and was the guest of McCarthy for two weeks. He is known to have settled in Montana recently and a few days ago was observed McCarthy with a gift that recalled old times.

PICTURES TELL OF HUSBAND'S KISSES

Photos Are Introduced in Court in Suit of Mrs. Herbert N. Crowley.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31.—Five pictures showing a man kissing a woman were filed in the Circuit court yesterday with the depositions of Miss Myra Josephine McKay of Berkeley, Cal., in the suit of Mrs. Anna M. Crowley to divorce Herbert N. Crowley. The identity of the man is not stated in the depositions, although C. A. Newton, attorney for Mrs. Crowley, says the woman is Miss McKay.

He had the photographs taken in the record in order to discredit her testimony. He said the pictures were just taken in fun," she is quoted as saying.

Miss McKay deposed that Crowley was a good husband. He could not be said, for she was wrought up her husband in his home at his wife's expense his earnings on dress. Mrs. Crowley, she testified was friendly with other men.

DOG RIDES ON WHEEL WITH BOY

Terrier Occupies Platform on Rear of Little Master's Bicycle.

CHICO, Aug. 31.—Chico business men were amused and interested with the antics of "Kid," a pet terrier, black as the ace of spades and belonging to Theodore, the young son of City Clerk George T. Hutchison, of this city. The little dog has become a bicycle enthusiast and rides through the city from morning until night. Theodore has equipped a little platform on the rear of his wheel and "Kid" sits thereon day in and day out riding about the city and enjoying himself as perceptibly as his little master.

FEARS 'GENEVA' MAY FIND OUT

Youth Wearing $1000 in Diamonds Is Jailed on Fraud Charge.

DENVER, Aug. 31.—Charged with being party to a fraudulent automobile sale, Clarence T. Hutchison, whose parents are prominent residents of Phoenix, Ariz., is in jail here, awaiting the fact that his sweetheart, said to be a wealthy Los Angeles woman, will learn of his disgrace. "Gene" will never forgive me if she finds I am in jail," he said today, refusing, however, to give her name. Letters postmarked Los Angeles, signed "Geneva," were found in his pockets when he was arrested last night at the instance of an automobile company, who charged that he had conspired with a salesman in disposing of a machine, representing it as their property. Recommendation from business men in Phoenix, Los Angeles and other cities in the West were found on his person. At the time of his arrest he wore diamonds valued at $1000.

SHIPMENT OF GREEN FRUIT NEARS AN END

FRESNO, Aug. 31.—The sudden downward trend of the green fruit market has put a check on green fruit shipping and from now on all green fruit packers are planning on stringing out their shipments until well into October. There will be little more heavy shipping. It is estimated that about 450 cars of Malaga have left this district since the season started. Not more than 500 cars remain to be shipped, and more than 200 of this amount will be shipped this week, so that it will be necessary to postpone shipments to a great extent if the Malaga are to be carried through next week. In the nearby district Malaga picking has practically been finished, and in the Dinuba district shippers expect to finish up within the next day or so, leaving the northern districts to ship the balance of the grapes from the San Joaquin valley.

MEETING FOR MEN TO BE HELD AT Y. M. C. A.

The meeting for men at the Young Men's Christian Association, corner Twenty-first street and Telegraph avenue, offers two strong attractions for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. Theodore T. Hutchison, D. D., of Honolulu, will be the speaker, and Howard M. Pratt, recently returned from Boston, will sing. The association extends a hearty invitation to all men to attend this service.

LIBEL IS CHARGED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Louis A. Linsch, editor of the La France, has been accused of criminal libel in a warrant sworn out this afternoon by Leon L. Roy, editor of the Echo of the West, as the result of printed in the former publication August 16 and 17. Roy declared that he accused in the La-France-California edition of being $600 short in the funds of the Fall of Baitle celebration of July 14. Roy was chairman of the finance committee and was one of the prime movers in the festivities of the day.

MANY NATIONS TO ATTEND CONGRESS

National Conservation Body Will Take Up Variety of Subjects.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—That interest in the meeting of the National Conservation Congress here October 1 to 4, inclusive, is more than national is indicated by the acceptance of the invitation to the congress and the local board of managers. The replies received thus far show that practically every civilized country on the globe will be represented.

Additional interest has been aroused in the meeting of the congress, this year because of the fact that questions of conserving human vitality will be discussed. Experts from both America and Europe will participate and it is expected that the resultant benefits from the discussion will be of great importance. The number of notables that will attend the congress this year will be far greater than at previous congresses. Section meetings will be held to allow the full consideration of subjects paramount in the conservation movement.

SECTION MEETINGS.
Chairmen of the standing committees will preside at these section meetings. Among the list of chairmen and the subjects that will be considered are the following: Forests, Prof. H. S. Graves, Washington, D. C.; lands, Prof. L. H. Bailey, Ithaca, N. Y.; waters, Dr. W. J. McGee, Washington, D. C.; minerals, Dr. J. A. Holmes, Washington, D. C.; vital resources, Dr. W. A. Evans, Chicago, Ill.; food, Dr. W. Wiley, Washington, D. C.; homes, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, Washington, D. C.; child life, Hon. Ben B. Lindsey, Denver, Colo.; education, Dr. C. E. Bessey, Lincoln, Neb.; cities, Ralph Easley, New York City; wild life protection, Dr. W. T. Hornaday, New York City; national parks, Dr. W. J. McGee, Washington, D. C. The greeting addressed to the American people in the official copy of the time has come when the conservation of national vitality is a question of immediate concern. It declares that our efficiency as a nation depends on the care of our vital resources, even more than on the care of our forests, waters, lands and minerals.

PROGRAM ENLARGED.
"Hitherto," says the call, "the conservation congress has dealt principally with the four subjects mentioned, but this year it has taken for its main theme vital resources. National and state authorities, associations and individuals are giving earnest attention to this question. It remains for the conservation congress to bring all these forces together that they may join in rousing a sweeping sentiment for the conservation of vital resources." Invitations have been extended to the President of the United States and his cabinet, Vice-President, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the chief justice and the associate justices of the supreme court of the United States, the governors of the states, the heads of the government bureaus, the presidents of the great national organizations, the presidents of the leading universities and colleges, and to noted guests and individuals of high achievement in the field of conservation. Special invitations have been extended to the ambassadors and to the ministers representing foreign governments.

TRIED TO POISON HER, SAYS WIFE

Mrs. Girod Charges Husband Attempted to Use Acid.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—A long series of cruel acts covering a score of years of marriage life is enumerated in a divorce complaint filed today by Mrs. Julia Girod, wife of Julius Girod, custodian of the Odd Fellows' lodge and a landscape gardener. In February, 1899, only a little over three years after their wedding, she declares that Girod threw her on the floor and attempted to pour carbolic acid down her throat. This was because of her refusal to do his bidding; and again in November, 1909, because she would not sign over to him their joint property, she relates that he knocked her down and broke her arm. At other times he threatened to kill her, and she charges that his failure to procure a physician for her when he was ill resulted in the boy's death, as she was forced to treat him in the night and summon the doctor when it was too late. When she called a priest to administer to the little one, she declares that Girod would not admit him and refused to allow him in the house. The more recent accusation made against Girod is the seizing of a knife and threatening to kill his wife. The family lives at 318 Ninth avenue.

MANY TO ATTEND U. P. E. C. DANCE

Several hundred tickets have been distributed for the dance to be given by council No. 1, U. P. E. C., this evening in Castle hall, Twelfth and Alameda streets. The affair will be in the form of a reunion and reception which has been arranged by Mrs. G. A. Lutz, chairman, Mrs. Belle Pimental and Mrs. M. Ames. Three members have been appointed on the refreshment committee. They are Mrs. A. Azevedo, Mrs. N. D. Perry and Mrs. A. Lutz.

RESTAURANT SELLER IS FACING FELONY CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—J. W. McKillop, of 1725 Sutter street, obtained a warrant from Police Judge Deasy today for the arrest of J. W. Cleaver, charging him with grand larceny by trick and deceit, August 15. McKillop claims to have purchased from Cleaver a restaurant at 1226 Fillmore street on the day after Deasy's warrant was issued. He claims that he has discovered that it was being operated at a loss.

FANCY APPLES PACKED.

BRILLIANT FUNCTIONS WILL BE HELD

Tuesday, October 5, Set for Opening Event of Season

The Emitgaur Assembly will hold dances in Maple Hall Tuesday, October 1, Tuesday, November 5 and December 2, January 2 and February 4, at Hotel Oakland. The patronesses are Mrs. George H. Coolidge, Mrs. F. W. Laufer, Mrs. William Westphal and Mrs. Harry G. Williams. The membership is limited to 100 couples and is composed of business and professional men of this city. The decorations for the first dance will be novel and effective, and every effort is being made to make the dance a success. The German will be danced with elaborate favors as souvenirs, at the dances at the Hotel Oakland.

JILTED LOVER SUES MAIDEN

Machinist Alleges He Has Been Damaged to Amount of $2000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Because his sweetheart has refused to wed him, despite a promise given on May 1, Harry C. Rock, a young machinist, filed suit against Lillie Gregg for $2000 damages to his feelings and $200 additional which he claims he loaned her during their engagement. "Then Rock 'popped the question' in the midst of a celebration on May day he declares that he did so at the request of the fair Miss Gregg and that it was agreed that they were to be wedded within a month. As the result of a bargain between them Rock introduced the young woman to his friends, he declares, as his wife, and she in turn mentioned him as her husband. He gave her the $200, on the theory that what was his was hers. Subsequently she refused to accompany him to the altar, much to his disappointment and he believes he has been damaged in the amount named.

GOLDEN EAGLE IS CAUGHT AFTER FIGHT

CHICO, Aug. 31.—Ed Holmquist of Chico is the possessor of a monster golden eagle captured by John Tyler of Durham after a foot race covering several hundred yards. The bird was shot by Tyler near the Burdick ranch. He slightly wounded the bird in one wing and after fighting it started to run for Tyler, fighting all the while. When captured it was exhausted and surrendered for the time being, fighting later when it recovered from the injury and exhaustion. Holmquist purchased the fine specimen from Tyler and has already made application to exhibit it in the coming state fair to be held in Sacramento. In size the eagle is larger than an ordinary turkey and is evidently young. Its talons are exceptionally well developed. It is brooding over captivity and will only eat little morsels of the raw meat given it.

CHICKEN DINNER AT CHURCH HALL

St. Anthony's Parish Ladies to Serve Feast as Benefit for Asylum.

Today the ladies of St. Anthony's parish will serve a chicken dinner at the hall, corner of East Sixteenth street and sixteenth avenue. This is one of the affairs given in aid of the great Orphan's Bazaar for St. Vincent's asylum, San Rafael, under the auspices of St. Anthony's parish. The ladies of the refreshment booth are prepared for a large attendance and wish to assure their patrons that no selling of tickets for the fair will be permitted during the dinner. The hall will be open from 2 to 6 and several of the public men of Oakland have promised to make short addresses. St. Joseph's booth, Mrs. N. Day, president, is making elaborate preparations for the winter tournament to be held next Tuesday evening at St. Anthony's Hall. Many valuable prizes are offered. Arrangements have been made to have the results of the primary elections announced during the party. The cigar booth, president, Mrs. Schmitt, will have a promenade concert in St. Anthony's Hall Thursday next. Lourdes booth will have a nickelodeon party Friday afternoon next under the charge of Miss Koening. Mrs. Cummings has accepted the chairmanship of this very important booth, which is staffed by the pupils, past and present, of Lourdes Academy. This evening at 8 o'clock there will be a meeting of parishioners in the hall to hear reports from the booths.

MAN CRAWLS TO DEATH AS FUEL FOR ENGINE

RENO, Nev., Aug. 31.—An unknown man was found dead in the fire box of a stationary engine at Christian's Camp, 15 miles from Wadsworth, Nevada, yesterday. He had opened the door and crawled in. His body was consumed by the fire to the waist. The suicide is attributed to despondency.

LUNATIC WIELDS CLUB ON OFFICER

San Diego Under Sheriff Has Narrow Escape From Maniac in Ambush.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 31.—Under Sheriff Frank Jennings came near losing his life while attempting to arrest C. W. Higgins, a supposed harmless lunatic near her this morning. The crazy man lay in wait with a six foot club for the officer and as Jennings approached he struck wildly at him, hitting the officer a terrific blow on the head and neck. Jennings went down, the mad man on top. After a hard battle Jennings overpowered the lunatic, handcuffed him and brought him to San Diego. Jennings had his injuries treated by a physician.

DETECTIVE RECOVERS JEWELS FROM MDEPOSIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Detective Sergeant C. J. Eddy by legal process this afternoon recovered from the Union Trust Company an assortment of jewelry valued at $5000 belonging to Mrs. Ernestine Schiffman of 2053 Bush street. Mrs. Schiffman's daughter, August 21, after having hired the deposit box, and it was said had carried away the jewelry. The detective, however, she did not do so. She, however, is still missing and it is firmly believed that she eloped with Charles Hoidal of 1822 Webster street. There is a warrant out for Hoidal, charging him with wife abandonment, for having deserted his wife and seven-year-old child. Hoidal was a hardware merchant.

SPEEDERS ARE FINED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Police Judge Sullivan fined Max Walker and Robert E. Hunter $10 each for fast speeding.

ATTEMPT MADE TO OUST OFFICERS

Politics at Bakersfield Develop Into a Most Bitter Factional Strife.

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 31.—As the result of a bitter campaign now being waged between local factions for nomination at Tuesday's primaries two petitions were filed in the Superior Court this afternoon for the removal from office of Sheriff T. A. Baker, District Attorney Rowen Irwin, City Marshal H. J. Babcock of Maricopa and Constable S. T. Ferguson of Taft for alleged dereliction of duty in permitting gambling and disorderly houses to be maintained in the West Side oil fields. The action is taken under section 772 of the State Penal Code. The complainants are members of a local good government club who swear to have made a personal investigation. Superior Judge J. W. Mahon issued orders for the closing of such places in Bakersfield a year ago and when complaint was made to him several weeks ago, he informed the sheriff that the places must be closed on the West Side. Sheriff Baker yesterday announced that the objectionable resorts would be closed by his men last night and today the objectionable characters left the places. Today, however, representatives of the good government league filed their petitions.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SHORN OF POWER

Oregon Grand Jury Investigating Prosecutor's Office and May Indict.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 31.—District Attorney George Cameron still retains the office to which he was elected by the people, though his powers have been somewhat curtailed. Circuit Judge Henry McGinn today took up the legal tangle which followed Governor West's peremptory dismissal of the district attorney, when counsel for Mr. Cameron sought a temporary injunction restraining H. E. Estler, the Governor's appointee, from exercising the functions of the district attorney during the pendency of quo warranto proceedings. Judge McGinn pronounced the action of the Governor as a removal of the district attorney when they "hanged a man first and tried him at their leisure." Judge McGinn ruled that Cameron should retain his office, but be shorn of the power of handling quo warranto proceedings. This power was placed in the hands of Mr. Estler, who will conduct the balance of the investigations of the August grand jury and presented the later with the September grand jury. That the district attorney's office is being investigated by the grand jury appears certain. A large number of witnesses who have had more or less to do directly and indirectly with District Attorney Cameron's office have testified in the last day or so, and a report is current that that before the grand jury disbands tonight, indictments may be returned against at least one prominent official of the district attorney's office.

VALUABLE LOOT TAKEN BY DAYLIGHT BURGLAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—A large quantity of furs, a valuable collection of Indian baskets, several precious articles of jewelry and an assortment of silverware were stolen from the residence of M. W. Levy, 1235 Geary street, this morning by a burglar who entered a rear door. Some of the articles can never be replaced. The total value of the loot as reckoned by the wealthy owner of the premises would reach $2000. No one apparently saw the burglar leaving the premises, although his booty would have required several sacks in which to carry it. Two detectives are working on the case.

PHYSICIAN LAUDS DENTIST'S WORK

This Doctor Praises Colleague for High Class of Work.

Dear Doctor:— I take pleasure in writing you that the dental work you did for my wife and self was simply ideal. For quite a long time I have been recommending your work and have yet to hear of the first dissatisfaction. May you live long and prosper until all the mouths of Oakland are well supplied with good teeth. Very sincerely yours, A. T. PIERCE, M. D. 72 Bacon Block, Phone Oakland 3519. Residence 125 Bonta ave., Piedmont.

NO BORING MACHINE USED

When filling teeth, let me explain this new painless method. You will be surprised when you learn how it is done. I can refer you to a hundred prominent physicians, business people and bankers in Oakland and San Francisco.

If you have lost all your teeth I have something far better than a plate over the entire mouth. My method is far superior to the old-time bridge work. Don't have your teeth or roots extracted, no matter how bad they are. If they are loose I will tighten them. Twenty years' experience, five years in Oakland. Estimates and examination FREE. Work guaranteed.

BEAUTIFUL FABRICS TO BE EXHIBITED AT 'SHOW'

World's Fashion Centers Contribute to Exhibit by Oakland Merchants

THE merchants of Oakland are making elaborate preparations for the Grand Fashion Show which will be a window attraction to the various shops on September 6 and 7. Many beautiful Parisian designs have been imported in dress fabrics, gowns, laces and exquisite millinery designs to be placed on exhibition at the opening.

The buyers have scoured the big wholesale houses in New York City and Paris. The very latest novelties of late summer fashion and early fall styles have been purchased to adorn the various types of femininity.

SPLENDID FASHION SHOW.

It is believed the Fashion Show this year will surpass anything of previous years owing to the beautiful texture of the dress fabrics and elaborate trimmings which have been adopted for millady's toilette.

Even though there is to be a radical change in the modeling of hats and gowns, the richness and elegance of trimmings will still be retained. Laces and passementeries will be of heavier texture. The "small hat" cry has been heard as far west as Oakland, still large hats will be exhibited with as many plumes and millinery craft, expensive but just as dear to the feminine heart as heretofore.

Magnificent creations in velvets and brocades, with heavy ornamentation will be among the gowns for evening and afternoon modes. Heavy mannish tailored suits noticeable for extreme severity from a standpoint of trimming will also be just as popular. Slight changes in the length of the jackets, width of skirts and sleeves will be apparent, according to the fall changes of fashion.

MANY BEAUTIFUL TRIMMINGS.

Heavy hand-made lace collars and cuffs will be an addition to many of the plain tailored garments, as well as affording a touch of elegance to the velvets which are to be worn. The laces and trimmings this year will be a very important item from a standpoint of expense. Persian, Oriental, Japanese, real laces, rare brocades, interwoven with gold in silks and velvets, filmy sort shimmering silks bejeweled and insertions of beautiful lace are necessary additions to the well-dressed woman's wardrobe this year. Elaborate ribbons will be extensively used as well as heavy chenille embroidery. Some of the ribbons are patterned in flowers embossed in brocade of bewildering coloring.

Feathers, flowers made of silks and tinges of gilt, and velvets form an important feature of the millinery art as heretofore. New arrangements, shapes and modes of trimming have been adopted which will add a unique feature to the approaching season.

BOXER TROUNCES ANGRY MAN WHO THRASHED BOY

Georges Carpentier Furnished Dramatic Climax to Scene Witnessed by American

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Georges Carpentier, who has won successive boxing championships of France in the featherweight, lightweight, welter weight and middle weight divisions, furnished a dramatic climax to a scene witnessed by an American traveler in Paris the other day.

A small boy in a sailor suit was sitting at the edge of the larger lake in the Bois de Boulogne. He ought not to have been sitting there at all, for there had been a storm early in the afternoon, and the path around the lake was muddy. This was likely to be noticeable when the small boy got up again, for the suit he was wearing was a white sailor suit. He held a large biscuit in his right hand, and he looked at it doubtfully. It was quite easy to see that his doubts were not of the biscuit itself. He was evidently pleased with that, but every now and then he glanced from his biscuit to the ducks in the pond, obviously wondering whether they could be persuaded to eat out of his hand, and whether, in case they could, the pleasure he would get from feeding them would be worth the sacrifice of the biscuit.

MAKES UP MIND.

After considerable hesitation he made up his mind. The ducks were very fascinating ducks. Parisians are very proud of the little Bois de Boulogne, and the municipal council spends a great deal of money on it.

On the island in the middle of the lake is a beautiful little chalet, made of rare woods of different colors. It was a present, many years ago, to the Empress Eugenie, and after France became a republic for the third time the chalet became state property. The state sold it, but the town bought it, and it is now an ornament to the lake in the Bois de Boulogne.

When the chalet was put on the island the commonplace egg-laying, quacking French ducks which had been good enough for the lake, until then, became to commonplace. The municipal council invested in ducks and water birds from a distance, and these birds are so charming to youthful Parisians that they cost the resources of the city very little for food.

The small boy in the white sailor suit broke off a piece of his biscuit and offered it to a speckled duck with yellow paddles and a tuft of gray feathers on his head. The duck looked at the boy, and looked at the arrowroot biscuit, but could not make up his mind to take it.

WISE OLD DUCK.

A few days ago another boy in a white sailor suit had tried to grab the neck of a confiding duck after enticing him to the edge of the pond with a biscuit. The duck with the crest came from New Zealand, and was cunning. He wanted the biscuit, but he wanted it without risk, and he was thinking things over. He thought things over just a little too long. As the feathers of his crest stretched down on his head and he stretched his bill forward a bright red bill and a long black neck came between him and the biscuit. The duck looked at the boy, and looked at the arrowroot biscuit, but could not make up his mind to take it.

A cross-looking man came around the path and shouted to the boy. "Henri! He cried, 'Get up, you little scoundrel, or I'll throunce you with an inch of my life.' The boy was used to being throunced. He had a nice long bit of biscuit, which he thought the crested duck deserved after his disappointment, and he wanted to give it to him first. He did it out and the red-billed swan made a dash for it. The red swan had eaten one piece; the second one was for the duck. The swan didn't think so. He snapped at the biscuit and held it. The boy held the other end and pulled. The swan pulled, too. There was an angry shout from the man, there was a scream from the boy, a splash, and a clatter of fright from the birds on the lake. The boy in the white sailor suit has slipped on the slippery pathway and tumbled right into the water.

HAT AND BISCUIT GO.

The crested duck (which never lost its crested head under any circumstance) secured the biscuit in the confusion, while the red-billed swan made off with the boy's sailor hat. Luckily for the finances of the town of Paris, it was too big for him to eat, for an attempt to digest it would have meant the necessity for the purchase of another red-billed swan.

The man pulled the boy out of the water with one hand and administered correction with the other. As he smacked him he scolded, and he scolded unpleasantly. He used words which no small boy should hear, and he smacked him much too hard.

This was the opinion of a pretty little woman dressed in white. She forgot all about her white dress, and the fact that the boy was in a very muddy and a very wet sailor suit. She had been watching from a few yards away, and now she ran forward, snatched the small boy away from his father, and faced the angry man with fury blazing from a pair of very pretty eyes, while Henri clung to her white shirt with muddy hands.

A smart young man, a boy who looked about eighteen, in very fashionable clothes, stroled after the young woman in white, laughing a little at her excitement. "You are no better than a big brute," she cried to the boy's father. "First of all you fall asleep—I suppose you drank too much at lunch—instead of looking after him; then you let him sit at the edge of the lake in a dangerous place, and when he falls in and might have drowned himself, you beat him, instead of hurrying him home before he catches cold."

The boy's father became purple in the face. He was one of those big men in a small position who are cowards at heart, and bullies at home. His wife never dared to contradict him, and he never reasoned with his son, but always smacked him. His reply to the woman's angry accusation was a foul word.

FRANTIC WITH RAGE.

"If you say that again I'll knock you into the pond," said the dauntless boy. He took off a pair of gray suede gloves, rolled them into a ball and threw them into the astonished man's face. The man was crestfallen, but not speechless. He used the same word again, and worse.

Then the young man struck him on the nose with a blow like a kick from a mule. He roared with pain and rushed at him. Another blow caught him under the chin and tipped him neatly into the pond backward.

The little woman in white laughed. "Give him your card, Georges," she said. "Tell your father," she added to the little boy, in a clear voice which the big man heard distinctly as he scrambled out of the muddy water, "that if he punishes you he will hear from Georges again."

She went away with her companion. The man looked at the card. "First of all you fall asleep—I suppose you drank too much at lunch—instead of looking after him; then you let him sit at the edge of the lake in a dangerous place, and when he falls in and might have drowned himself, you beat him, instead of hurrying him home before he catches cold."

INDIANS AT FIESTA.

DENIES SHE WAS MILKED ON LAWN

Pauline Wayne, President's Prize Cow, Denies Story That Is Circulated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Pauline Wayne, President Taft's prize cow, the gift of "Uncle Ike" Stephenson of Wisconsin, was so proud of her position as a published report that she clandestinely had been milked on the White House lawn by J. F. Koehler of Canton, O., that the official milkman declared he "just couldn't do a thing with her."

Moreover, Pauline was interrupted all day long as she grazed the tender grasses of her private pasture by squads of reporters who came for interviews, and to the rude clogging of camera shutters, demanded to know:

a glance bespeaking reproach and indignation, and a whisk of her tail, which is to say in bovine, with a business of hauteur:

"No, no, no," Miss Wayne was magnificently gowned for the interview in an exquisite robe of Holstein-Friesian velvet, having a background with roses and trimmings of jet. She wore a bandana of white, startling jet earrings, a new stocking of cream colored silk, and was shod with flesh colored pumps.

"I wasn't milked on the White House lawn by a strange man," declared Miss Wayne, tearfully, when she finally consented to talk in little moans and grunts, between sobs, "because, in the first place, I haven't been on the White House lawn in more than a year, but have been enjoying life on the pasture near the army headquarters stable."

"Moreover, I'm a very able, athletic young lady and quite prepared to protect myself. There is absolutely not a word of truth in it, and if you don't believe me, ask the White House policeman."

The lone minion of the law who solemnly guards the executive offices when President Taft is away allowed that, in the first place, he never contradicted a lady, and in the second place, if a cow were milked on the White House lawn, it must have been some busy trying to pass herself off on strangers as Pauline.

LOSS OF THRONE THREATENS COUNT

Czar of Bulgaria Sounds the Kaiser Regarding Assistance.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Ferdinand, Czar of Bulgaria, who largely by his own efforts, rose from a petty prince of the Duchy of Coburn, in Germany to his present position, is threatened with the loss of his throne.

It is said in high diplomatic circles that his recent visit to the Kaiser was largely to sound the latter as to what influence he might expect from the German government to help him keep Bulgaria in the face of the growing revolutionary movement in that country. It was for the same purpose that Ferdinand visited Vienna and St. Petersburg. Ferdinand has been characterized by high statesmen as the most skillful political leader in Europe, and he needs all his skill at present.

As he has been the chief figure in the demands for war against Turkey, but what worries him more is a secret revolutionary movement which has its seat in Paris and is directed by a former high Bulgarian official. The movement declares for Ferdinand's removal by violence. "If the foreign interloper" is not gotten rid of in some other way, these revolutionists have now joined hands with the movement for war with Turkey and it was by their inspiration that at the Macedonian congress at Sofia, the speaker declared that if Ferdinand refuses to obey the will of the people, they would put him on an engine that is "fire up" and pull out.

Two forces, if he gives way to the demand for war, the powers threaten to see that he loses his crown; if he does not, it means a large accession to the revolutionary ranks of influential people who have been loyal to him. The revolutionists in anonymous letters this week, held up the fate of King Alexander of Serbia before the eyes of Ferdinand.

M'NAMARA CASE TO TRIAL SEPT. 7

Attorney for Defense Confident Mrs. Perkins Will Be Liberated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The trial of Attorney General M'Namara before the grand jury in this case, I am sure he will join me in a motion for a dismissal," said Attorney James Hanley, counsel for Mrs. Cora L. Perkins, late companion of Mrs. Nicholas McNamara of San Mateo and Fred Patterson, the charged, when the case was called before Superior Judge Dunn today.

Mrs. Perkins and Patterson are accused of going to the home of Mrs. McNamara, the San Mateo social leader, and stealing jewelry and clothing to the amount of $122 taken.

WOMEN WANT OHIO CONSTITUTION OVERHAULED

Close Last Day of Campaign for Equal Suffrage Feeling Hopeful.

NEW LAWS TO REGULATE THE SALE OF STOCKS

Will Require All Nominations to Be Made at Direct Primary.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31.—The women of Ohio today reached the height of their pre-election campaign for the adoption of the equal suffrage plank included in the new Ohio constitution to be submitted to the voters of the State on Tuesday.

In every town and hamlet advocates of equal suffrage addressed interested throngs of townspeople and farmers. Postal cards were distributed to the male voters of the State entreating them to support the entire constitution as framed by the constitutional convention, which ended its labors here in July last and particularly with the adoption of the equal suffrage plank, section No. 21, which provides for "The removal of the word 'white male' from the provisions of the constitution prescribing who may exercise the franchise in Ohio."

This clause, if adopted, will give the women of Ohio a voice at the polls and will add over a hundred thousand voters to the national electorate in time for the presidential elections in November.

The campaign of the women for the inclusion of this plank in the constitution adopted by the constitutional convention was most strenuous and has been supplemented by a well ordered and forceful war upon the anti-suffragists of the State in order to swing popular opinion to the side of women's suffrage.

"SUFFRAGE PLANK TO VICTORY."

The manner of placing the constitution before the voters of Ohio on Tuesday favors the adoption of this plank every county with the exception of liquor license plank being printed under one head. The liquor clause is to be set at one side on the ballot. This makes it not improbable that the voters of Ohio in expressing their favor of the majority of the up-to-date and modern plank adopted by the constitutional convention, will carry the suffrage plank to victory.

The proposals of the new constitution for Ohio cover almost every subject of political discussion in the last ten years. Among these proposals are the initiative and referendum without the recall, the licensing of the liquor business, the giving of some rule to municipalities, the reform of the civil jury system by allowing nine jurors to return a verdict, the reform of the judicial system to provide one trial and one review in most cases, the taxing of incomes, inheritances, mineral products and land, and the method of amending the constitution and provisions for the issuance of bonds for the State highways.

NEED FOR REVISION.

The need for revision of the Ohio constitution arose from the provincialism of its original document. The first constitution was framed in 1851, when the population of Ohio was small in number and largely engaged in the pursuit of agricultural enterprises. In making over this document, Ohioans in 1912 have framed a constitution on looking well to the needs of the present race of city dwellers.

The new constitution contains among other clauses the following:

To prohibit banks under State inspection, heretofore impossible, and to make stockholders of banks liable to deposits to the amount of double their stock.

To allow the enactment of laws to regulate the sale of stocks, bonds, securities and other personal property.

To modify the Governor's veto power by reducing from two-thirds to three-fifths the proportion of the Assembly must concur to override a veto.

To allow women to be appointed notaries public and to positions in State institutions where women and children are cared for.

To require all nominations, State, county, district and city, to be made at direct primaries. Exempts villages and townships, but requires presidential preference primaries.

To abolish capital punishment.

To give the assembly power to enact conservation laws.

To allow the use of voting machines.

To make eight hours a workday on public works.

To require compulsory compensation for employees and to recognize "occupational diseases."

To provide civil service in all State and county offices.

To make the new constitution easier of amendment.

To allow the creation of a commission to regulate the issuance of stocks and bonds at all times.

To regulate the testimony of expert witnesses.

To allow school districts autonomy in local affairs.

To allow the regulation of court proceedings, content and forbidding the use of the injunction in industrial disputes to protect property.

To forbid contract labor in penal institutions.

To require the State to regulate rates charged for insurance.

To make the school superintendent an appointive instead of an elective official.

To abolish the State Board of Public Welfare and to appoint a superintendent appointed by the Governor.

REGULAR OPENS WINDOW.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—A burglar who forced a side window rammed the home of Mrs. S. K. Moorhead, a gold bracelet valued at $32.

DARE-DEVIL THRILLER NO LONGER CLIMAX OF CIRCUSCRAFT WORLD OF AMUSEMENT CULLED FOR FOUR UNUSUAL FEATURES

SOME OF THE FEATURES OF THE BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS.

Barnum and Bailey Show to Delight Youngsters of City Thursday

Circus day, to the men who have hundreds of thousands of dollars invested, means the culmination of long, careful, systematic preparation of whose painstaking scope the lay public has scant appreciation. The circus does not run its season, dissolve and disperse. In winter the entire executive establishment is maintained and there are no idle moments of conception or execution.

DAY OF THRILLER PAST.

The physical climax was reached a decade ago. Three rings, two stages, a hippodrome track and more than an acre of aerial contrivances exhausted all possibilities. Nowadays the renewed appeal for public favor must be made in the form of innovation, individual and collective performances of man and beast.

Isolated and foolhardy risks have had their day and been eliminated. The dare-devil thriller has gone from the "big top." It is now a thing of the past, and the circus purveyor or the spectator. He was utilized only while his employer studied the situation in all its aspects and made his definite, permanent plans.

His conclusions are witnessed this season in the Barnum & Bailey greatest show on earth, coming next Thursday.

Reliance is made upon the spectacle as a whole, an improved ensemble, with absorbing novelties and four especially sensational creations. It is the circus man's idea of the perfect circus of today and the immediate future—his answer to the annual demand for novelty.

FOUR BIG FEATURES.

The entire world of amusements is astounded by the four big features of the show and from it was summoned this quartette of extraordinary features around which to assemble its bewildering multiplicity of other acts and maintain its title of leader and teacher in the tented field.

1. "The Spectacle of Cleopatra," employing 1250 persons.

2. Miss Mary Wirth of Australia, world's champion equestrienne.

3. The Mikado's troupe of Jiu-Jitsu champions.

4. A bareback game by elephants.

What the glazing expenditure to gather together these performances under one canvas roof, what months of ceaseless selection and elimination, what doubt and misgivings, no one who has seen the circus may know. Suffice that Barnum & Bailey announce that the instantaneous public endorsement of their judgment has justified all the preliminary burden of work and worry.

"The Spectacle of Cleopatra" is probably the best demonstration ever provided of the circus' eager willingness to spend money when public favor promises commensurate reward. Five hundred thousand dollars, it is estimated, was spent on the creation before a ticket had been sold. Fallis Effendi, bandmaster of the Khedive of Egypt, was brought here to arrange the music. Another $50,000 was spent on the costumes.

The Metropolitan Opera House of New York city, gave his exclusive services for weeks. Scores of famous designers and costumers worked unremittingly from the moment the circus closed its season down South last fall. Three hundred dancing girls and a chorus of 400 voices are enlisted. The stage pictures duplicate the giant monuments, sphinxes, tablets, pottery tapestries, rugs, skins, banners, flags, draperies and other superb appointments of the court of Cleopatra, the result of circus' search and study in Egypt. Thousands of horses, elephants, camels and other beasts of the desert and even two and electrical effects depict, with astounding accuracy, sand storms, earthquakes, mirages, falling temples, volcanoes and conflagrations.

With the presentation of "The Spectacle of Cleopatra" the circus departs from the time-honored custom by eliminating the familiar "grand equestrian" and "lion taming" acts. In their place, the circus has placed the "Spectacle of Cleopatra" and the "Spectacle of the Desert."

The "Spectacle of Cleopatra" is a new and original production. It is a story of the life of Cleopatra, the Egyptian queen, and her love affair with Julius Caesar. The production is a masterpiece of stagecraft, with elaborate costumes and sets.

The "Spectacle of the Desert" is a new and original production. It is a story of the life of the people of the desert, and their struggles with nature. The production is a masterpiece of stagecraft, with elaborate costumes and sets.

RAISE IN FREIGHT RATES IS HELD UP WILL DECIDE ON FORM OF TESTING

Interstate Commerce Commission Suspends Increases Pending Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Increased freight rates proposed by transcontinental railroads for transportation of commodities from eastern points to Pacific coast terminals were suspended today by the Interstate Commerce Commission from September 2 until December 31, pending an investigation.

The triffs suspended proposed general increase on practically all commodities freight from Atlantic seaboard and middle-western points of origin to destinations on the Pacific coast, ranging from 5 to 50 per cent. In most instances they were effected by the cancellation of existing commodity rates thus automatically transferring the classification scale of charges.

While in some instances charges would be reduced, a checking by the commission appears to indicate that the reductions would apply to little more than ten per cent of the western and middle-western rates.

The lowering of rates to such destinations as Spokane, Wash., Reno, Nev., Tucson, Ariz., and similarly situated cities was in substantial accord with the recent agreement made by shippers of those places with the railroads and sanctioned by the commission, as a modification of the commission's findings in what popularly are known as the "Pacific Coast cases."

These examples of proposed increases on commodities are cited by the commission: 30 cents a hundred pounds on automobiles; 40 cents on furniture; 75 cents on plate glass; 10 cents on petroleum products; 40 cents on plumbing materials; 20 cents on stoves; and 4 cents on vehicles.

Generally, from points of origin to middle-western states the charges are somewhat lower, although to many articles a blanket rate is applicable, alike to all of the east and middle-west.

WORK OF ART ON EXHIBITION

"Easter Morning," Famous Painting, Will Be Shown at H. C. Capwell's.

This famous painting by Count Geza Perhach, a Hungarian artist with a national reputation, will be exhibited by the H. C. Capwell Company on the third floor, beginning Monday and lasting until further notice.

The subject of the picture is "Easter Morning," or the resurrection of Christ. The background of the painting was sketched at earliest dawn on the southeastern slope of Mt. Olivet during a visit of the artist to the Holy Land and then taken to Rome and completed. Afterwards it was brought to New York where it was viewed by thousands of people.

Christ is pictured rising from the tomb, administering angels surround him and wrap a purple mantle about his shoulders while cherubs are bringing palms. The only light in the picture, which illuminates the scene and is reflected on the other figures, emanates from the Christ face and the brightness of the picture lies chiefly in the pure divinity which the artist has succeeded in expressing in the holy visage. It is divine and luminous, radiating purity and love.

The treatment is in every sense artistic. The surroundings show the gray on an Easter morning revealing the dim outline of the three crosses on Calvary. In the background is the spot on which scientists agree, was the tomb in which the Savior was laid after the crucifixion.

The canvas is 6x9 feet, and has received the commendation of critics at home and abroad.

Count Perhach is now a resident of Fremont Heights, adjoining the home place of Joaquin Miller.

The exhibit will be held on the Third Floor and will be FREE.

Citizens of Oakland and vicinity are invited to view this magnificent painting, especially art critics, ministers, teachers and students. Come as often as you wish, stay as long as you care to, and bring your friends along.

Arthur Brisbane of the New York Journal said of the painting: "One feels like talking in whispers when viewing this divine painting."

The New York Herald said: "The whole painting radiates a pure celestial atmosphere."

The New York World critic said: "The Christ face is divine and luminous."

JORDAN SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED

Views on "Burbanking Human Race" Were Sadly Tangled, He Declares.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug. 31.—Recent comment-making statements, said to have been made by President David Starr Jordan regarding the "Burbanking of the human race," are now wholly erroneous, according to Dr. Jordan's declaration in an interview today.

The noted scientist, who made remarks exactly the reverse of those ascribed, stating that the "Burbanking" process could not be put into practice. He explained the matter today as follows:

"In reference to my address on eugenics before the teachers of Salt Lake City, I may say the address was given on short notice. Apparently no reporters were present. It was summarized in friendly but wholly inaccurate fashion in an evening paper, my views on each of the main topics being exactly reversed. A condensation of this, still more inaccurate, was wired to San Francisco.

NO "BURBANKING."

"I used the phrase 'Burbanking the human race' to show that this could not be done on any scale, and as a matter of governmental administration. While the systematic selection of mates could be made to produce great physical strength, beauty, endurance and even mental power, those very persons who might be thus effectively mated would never submit to state dictation.

"If they would, it would in time eliminate the most vital elements in human evolution—love and initiative. These are propagated by the system the best races have chosen—in which each man mingles his own mate."

LOVE VS. GOVERNMENT.

"Love is the best basis for marriage, and love is a very real and a very noble thing in spite of the baseness of its many limitations.

"The value of eugenic study is in the diffusion of sound ideas of life and parenthood, in the hope of the long-sighted, happy and opinions commonly entertained and shown in various comments on the late eugenic congress.

"Government can do something by refusing parenthood to those who cannot care for themselves because of feeble-mindedness, or by the control of workmen which lead to alcoholism or to certain forms of vice and crime. But legislation must be undertaken very cautiously, giving the individual the benefit of all doubt.

"Government at best is a clumsy instrument for promoting the welfare of individuals, and it should not go beyond public opinion, which in turn should be controlled by science."

CALIFORNIA'S OIL OUTPUT IS WONDER OF THE WORLD

Washington Statistics Show Convincing Proof of Remarkable Industry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Since the beginning of the oil industry in the United States over two and a half billion barrels have been produced, and the total value of the oil, reckoned in the crude condition at the mouth of the well, is over two billion dollars. More than half of this oil has come from New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, and all has been produced in two years over half a century. In the first half of this period nearly the entire product came from the eastern fields, but lately the declining production of the eastern states has been more than compensated by the enormous output in the west, so that of the total product of the United States 72,429,895 barrels have been produced west of Mississippi river, and at this time the midcontinent and California fields are the controlling influences in the oil production of this country. If a line is drawn across Ohio separating its eastern oil areas from the Lima area and Lima are included in the western production then the west already exceeds the east in the total product.

The annual report of the United States Geological Survey on the production of petroleum, compiled by David T. Day, shows that for 1911 California not only led in quantity of product (over 80,000,000 barrels) but produced almost half as much again as Oklahoma, the state second in rank. The Mid-Continent field omitted, California produced as much oil as the rest of the United States put together; the United States being omitted, California produced more oil than any entire nation; and if Russia and the United States are omitted, California far surpassed the combined production of all the rest of the world, including Mexico, India, Roumania, Galicia, Japan and South America.

The rank of the states is easily remembered when one recognizes California, Oklahoma, and Illinois as forming a class by themselves, the lowest (Illinois) producing over 30,000,000 barrels and the three furnishing three-fourths of the entire output. The second group includes Louisiana, West Virginia, Texas, Ohio and Pennsylvania, in which Louisiana furnished a surprise by yielding the greatest product on record for that state (over 10,000,000 barrels) and passing to the head of this group, while the slight gain from Texas put that state in advance of Ohio again. In the third group, comprising Indiana, Kansas, New York, Kentucky, Colorado, Wyoming, Missouri, Utah and Michigan, the largest state production is less than a fourth of the lowest in the second group, and among these states produced less than 2.2 per cent of the total.

The changes which may be expected in 1912 may advance the rank of West Virginia by the development of the Blue Creek pool, Kansas may change places with Indiana, and Wyoming may head the third group.

INCREASED USE OF FUEL OILS.

The most important feature developed by the oil industry of 1911 has been the realization of a supply of fuel oil large enough to be reckoned on as a national asset in the production of power. During 1910 arguments became convincing that fuel oil was sufficiently plentiful on the Pacific coast to justify great trade and manufacturing expansion in California, and indeed the adoption of oil as fuel on the northern transcontinental railroads for significant portions of their lines and the introduction of oil as fuel as far north as Alaska, without bringing the consumption up to the level of present production, has given assurance of permanency of the supply sufficient for the industrial needs of the whole Pacific slope.

The solution of the corresponding problem at the Atlantic coast received much encouragement in 1911 by the great development of oil supplies in Mexico. The quantity of oil which the Mexican fields are now ready to furnish is variously estimated at 5,000,000 to 12,000,000 barrels a month. The total output in 1911 was perhaps a tenth as much, the production being limited not by supply or demand but by transportation facilities. The needed tank steamers are being furnished as rapidly as they can be built, and meantime the quantity which fuel oil has obtained has already led to a doubling of its market price.

It should be borne in mind, however, that if there were tank steamers sufficient for all the oil that can now be furnished for the east coast, the market would probably be temporarily oversupplied. The consumer of fuel requires time for the substitution of oil for coal, though the many advantages of oil are obvious.

OIL ON RAILROADS.

Railroad consumption of fuel oil is especially popular because it gives added comforts in travel owing to the freedom from coal fires, because it avoids the danger of forest fires, and particularly because it makes a saving in labor. In fact, until coal can be replaced by all the weight of trains on mountain divisions is limited by the endurance of the fireman. In recommending the adoption of fuel oil on the mountain divisions of the Canadian Pacific Railway, William White, second vice-president, states that one of the reasons for this change is the removal of danger from congestions in the great forests of British Columbia. He also alludes to the failure of the immense locomotives now in use, saying: "It is not the failure of the locomotives; it is the failure of the fuel."

A dramatic shoveling coal on one of the locomotives for a distance of 130 miles is physically exhausted before getting to the end of the run. The Southern Pacific Company uses over 120 oil-burning locomotives, the Santa Fe of the United States, the Northern Pacific, 20, and the Great Northern 15.

It is estimated that nearly 80,000,000 barrels of the California oil in 1911 was used for fuel. The Texas and Louisiana fuel oil used is estimated at 9,000,000 barrels, much of which was in the form of residue after light distillates into lubricants, valuable for manufacture into kerosene, paraffin wax, etc. In all nearly 62,000,000 barrels were probably consumed as fuel oil in 1911 in the United States, a fair estimate of the consumption for the preceding year is 61,000,000 barrels, the increase showing a growing appreciation of oil as fuel.

USED BY UNITED STATES NAVY.

In the use of fuel oil for water navigation the advance in 1911 was world-wide. Experience with fuel oil in the United States navy has been so satisfactory that its use will be extended as rapidly as is permitted by considerations of supply and cost. The navy has 18 torpedo boat destroyers that have been converted to oil, and the battleships Nevada and Oklahoma, now under construction, will burn oil exclusively.

During the year 1911 the navy used 15,000,000 gallons of oil, and it is estimated that the consumption for the present year will be 21,000,000 gallons.

OIL IN SMLTING.

California crude oil has been used for some time in reverberatory furnaces at McGill, Nev., and Chumash, Mexico. Early in 1911 arrangements were made for the use of oil in the smelter of the Ray Consolidated Copper Company at Ray, Ariz., and in the copper smelter of the Nevada Consolidated Mining Company at Ely, Nev. At the Van Ande Smelter on Vancouver Island, satisfactory experiments have been carried out with California fuel oil.

ANTI-TRUST INQUIRY SHIFTS TO PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 31.—Taking testimony in the government's anti-trust suit against the Northwest Lumber Dealers Association is to be transferred from Seattle to Portland beginning Friday, September 5. Special Agent Murdock arrived here today to prepare for the arrival of United States Commissioner Palmer. Subpoenas for twelve of the most prominent lumber dealers of Portland and Vancouver, Wash., are to be issued, it is understood.

1000 ACRES TO ORANGES.

ORLAND, Aug. 31.—One thousand acres are going to be put out in oranges just eight miles east of here.

LOS ANGELES TO SET FLY TRAPS

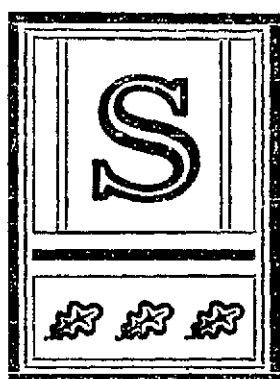

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Instead of "swatting flies," Los Angeles will soon be "trapping" them.

The Los Angeles health department has set a trap for house flies, each with a capacity of two gallons, and will use them in a campaign against the insect pests. The traps are of simple construction and need neither watching nor care. They are shaped like an ordinary box and are about two feet high. The entrance is on the bottom. The insects pass through a cone-shaped screen and up into the box, from which they cannot escape.

General Wood ONCE THRASHED LT.-GEN. NELSON A. MILES

THE KNAVE

Chicken Was CAUGHT BY THE RAISING OF THE DOUGH

AN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The first efforts of a bride of a month or two at cooking nearly caused the complete undoing of a chicken.

Like some other young women of well-to-do families, this one, on her marriage, was ambitious to be cook and servant of her new home as well as its queenly mistress. The scheme appealed to her all the more strongly because hubby and she were to live in the country for awhile. Not having been trained in housekeeping and cooking, milady nevertheless sailed into all its exactions and mysteries bravely and with a vim. A loving young husband overlooked much and without batting an eye ate all that was placed before him. One day the little woman, cook book in hand, essayed the making of bread. She got the yeast, made the mixture, kneaded the dough and then left it to properly rise before putting it in pans into the oven. After a time, to her way of thinking, it was a failure because it remained flat. There were no indications of its rising. In disgust, she took the pile of dough and threw it out in the back yard. An ever-hungry chicken began to peck at it as it got on top of the mixture. It was thrown in a sunny spot. Sun and yeast soon gave life to the dough. It began to rise while Miss Chicken was still standing on it sampling it with a relish. The embryo bread stuff soon rose up on its legs, making it a prisoner. The more it struggled to free itself, the worse it got entangled, finally falling over on its side and pulling much of the dough about its neck. Its neck and head were being engulfed when the young wife, going out into the yard, saw the struggling mass. She had quite a time freeing the bird from the sticky material, and the episode is still cause for much laughter on the part of herself and hubby and the few friends they have taken into their little domestic secret.

Better still, she made good bread ever after that rescue of the greedy chicken.

Heavy Investors in the South

The formal opening last week at San Diego of the new million-dollar theater John D. Spreckels has been building in that city for about a year calls attention to the fact that two wealthy San Franciscans from different motives have, during the past few years, been heavy investors in Southern California and consider that section of the State their homes.

Henry E. Huntington and John D. Spreckels are the two men. It is not necessary to dwell on their motives in this matter. One of the causes, of course, of their actions in this respect is a business one, the opportunity for investments they saw in that section. Huntington has made Los Angeles and its contiguous territory the scene of his western activities for about twelve years. He parted with practically all his properties in San Francisco even before his wife and himself got a quiet divorce. He has an aversion for this city. And yet while his favorite place of residence is Los Angeles, his legal residence is Oneonta, N. Y., his birthplace. He is the largest investing individual Los Angeles and Southern California have ever had. John D. Spreckels has been making San Diego and its tributary country the scene of his business activities and, like Huntington in the Los Angeles district, he is its dominant capitalist. Spreckels has a fine home in San Diego and probably most of his large wealth is now represented in that part of the State. Unlike Huntington, however, he still has goodly properties in and around San Francisco and does not have any dislike for this city, the place where he was born and raised.

School Teacher Made Millions

I see where General M. M. Sherman of Los Angeles and members of his family have arranged for a lengthy tour of the world. Sherman is a unique character, one well known in Los Angeles, this city and Arizona for the past thirty years. After owing everybody in Los Angeles he could borrow from and having been a large debtor to the McDonald family's Pacific Bank of this city at the time of its sensational failure in 1891-92, Sherman managed to land on his feet with a $3,000,000 bank account. Arizona knew him first as a school teacher, and Collis P. Huntington found in him a good political agent for his railroad's affairs when that new State had a territorial form of government. After many vicissitudes, Sherman got control of the Los Angeles Pacific electric road, a suburban and interurban line. Edward H. Harriman gave him a good price for it shortly after the fire. This accounts for the present Sherman fortune. Huntington fell out with him because he sold to Harriman without offering him the refusal of the property. They were bosom friends before that. Their mutual friends considered Huntington's anger unreasonable, likening it to his coolness towards Banker I. W. Hellman and his son when they sold to Harriman the half interest they owned in the Huntington electric roads in the south.

Famous Savants Coming Here

A dispatch from Buffalo on August 24 stated that sixty-five geographers from Europe have commenced a tour of the United States which will include San Francisco and the bay cities on September 17. Twenty-five American scientists are in the party. This is one of the most noted bodies of savants that California has ever been called upon to be host to. Prof. William Morris Davis of Harvard University is at its head on the tour. Members of the local reception committee, including Prof. McAdie of U. S. Weather Bureau and Presidents David Starr Jordan and Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the two big universities, say that the party includes presidents and vice-presidents and secretaries of royal geographical societies of Europe; also professors of geography, economic and physical climatology, oceanography, hydrography, maritime meteorology and cartography of the most famous European universities; members of royal and national geographic and similar commissions, and leaders in a half dozen antarctic and other geographic expeditions.

Cabinet for the Suffragettes

Local suffragists are very much interested in the Oregon and Wisconsin campaigns this fall for the enfranchisement of their sisters and read with pleasure that Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont is to stump the latter State, while Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Charlotte Perkins Gilman are to be among the able campaigners in Oregon.

Anna Shaw is well known here. She stumped California with Susan B. Anthony years ago when the question of giving women the right to vote was first presented in this State and defeated. Dr. Shaw, who is the head of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, is said to have been instrumental in getting the Oregon women to ask Dr. C. F. Aked of the First Congregational Church here to deliver on behalf of their fight four addresses in September. It is interesting to recall that several months ago Dr. Shaw, in an Eastern magazine, stated that if she were President of the United States she could quickly pick a strong cabinet as follows:

Secretary of State, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago; Secretary of the Treasury, Mrs. Hettie Green; Secretary of War, Andrew Carnegie; Attorney-General, Louis D. Brandies; Postmaster-General, Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon; Secretary of the Interior, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago; Secretary of Agriculture, Prof. Charles Bailey of Cornell; Secretary of Commerce and Labor, John Mitchell.

She said she would also make Miss Jean Gordon of New Orleans chairman of the child welfare commission; John D. Rockefeller, Jr., chairman of the white slave commission, and Dr. Harvey W. Wiley chairman of the pure food commission.

Mrs. Belmont and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay are the two most prominent and wealthiest society women in the land who are active in the fight for votes for women. Mrs. Belmont is the more active of the two and in her addresses and writings has shown much ability and thorough grasp of pressing political and social problems. Mrs. Belmont, who divorced William K. Vanderbilt some years ago, is the mother of the Duchess of Marlborough, mother-in-law of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr., the former Birdie Fair of this city, and a Southern woman by birth. She wants every State to give women the franchise, and is a striking contrast to the typically idle rich. She was always wealthy, was born in the lap of luxury and married millions. Yet she has broken the chains of modern social conventionality and beyond its borders discovered another world of human struggle, all unwitting of yachts and country places and luxurious week-ends. Her heart has responded to the appeal of a cause and she is a whole-some type of insurgent against distinctions of class.

Mrs. Gilman, a former San Franciscan, is a very able woman and an author of merit. She is one of the most advanced thinkers in the land and her recently published novel, "Moving the Mountain," is a clever and thoughtful study of social conditions. She has great hopes for the improvement of social and material things through woman's influence in American political life.

How Gen. Wood Thrashed Miles

General Wood, U. S. A., chief of the general staff, whom the Democratic House tried to legislate out of office by means of a rider tacked on to the army appropriation bill, was, several years ago, offered by Senator Newlands of Nevada and his associate owners the presidency of their street railroads in the national capital, which are known as the Washington Traction and Electric Company. The Sharon estate of this city owns a large interest in that corporation. That explains Newlands' connection with the property. The offer was made to Wood after his return from Cuba, where he had shown high executive ability. The salary offered Wood was said to have been $20,000 a year. Wood refused to leave the army, remarking that money was not the only thing in the world worth while. Old army officers, members of the local Army and Navy Club, while not approving Wood's big jump over many heads at the hands of Roosevelt, were commending President Taft last night for defeating the rider to the army appropriation bill aimed at him. They were also recalling how, years ago, when Wood was a young army doctor he indulged in some fisticuffs with General Nelson A. Miles, the then commander of the department he was stationed in. The scrap was a friendly bout with the gloves. Such a pastime was frequent at the Miles headquarters. Then, as now, Wood was a quiet, mild-mannered fellow, strong, with tough muscles, and powerful shoulders and arms. Miles was handy with the mittens and proud of his skill. Several times he had laughingly asked the young army medico to put on the gloves with him, but had always got a refusal. Feeling unusually prime one day Miles said to Wood:

"Come on, Doc, and have a little exercise. I'll take into consideration your youth and handle you gently."

Not liking this reflection on his youth and strength, Wood quickly accepted the invitation and many at headquarters eagerly gathered as onlookers. Wood thrashed Miles in no time. Thenceforth the two entered on a strong friendship, neither knowing, of course, at that day that Wood later on was to become the head of the army.

Too Hasty With Bouquets

It is always pleasant to throw bouquets at ourselves no matter what the occasion or the reason. A little analysis of the flower throwing now and then, however, does some good if only to let us get back to solid ground again and see things as they really should be looked at.

State Superintendent of Schools Hyatt has been compiling a "roll of educators." He names a lot of them who he says California produced and sent to high positions in many states and even to other lands. He claims California is particularly fruitful in this respect. The State has done well in this matter, but the enthusiastic Mr. Hyatt should reflect a little bit. In his list he names Prof. C. A. Ross, formerly of Stanford and now at the University of Wisconsin. Ross made a name for himself at the University of Indiana before Dr. Jordan called him to Stanford. Prof. Earl Barnes had a name as an educator before coming west to Stanford. He has gone East again to other honors. Almost half of the seventeen Hyatt names are open to the same criticism. The jubilant State official should remember that the strongest men in California's two leading universities are nearly all Eastern men or foreigners. Only the other day the University of California had to pay $8000 a year to get a head for its agricultural college from Pennsylvania. It is only in recent years that California has had the workshops, so to speak, in which to build educators. In time she will have a formidable roll of them. The bouquet-tossing should not be so strenuous as to let us deceive ourselves about the correct facts. Besides, in a little while we can do some genuine boasting.

Anna Held's Divorce No Surprise

Anna Held's divorce from her husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, is not surprising to the few in town who were startled to hear their free and unconventional comments about each other the last time they were on the coast. Meeting with continuous success in this country, having made a fortune and knowing how to keep it, she had become tired of the dictation of her manager-husband. Never a clinging vine of a wife with him, she demanded to be the head of the house and have her own way. So their quarrels were frequent and of much acidity. The chic and clever comedienne was of very humble origin and has no false notions about the subject. With pardonable pride, she glories in her rise from a poor orphan girl of 12 who well knew the pinch of poverty. Her mother was a Pole and her father a poor French glove maker. It was years before her mischievous and unbehaving eyes saw costly dresses and luxuries she could call her own. As a child she had to work in a fur cap factory in Paris. Even there, it is said, her singing of songs she had heard in the streets attracted attention. It was Ziegfeld who first induced her to come to this country, marrying her later. Her first song in English in London, "Won't You Come and Play Wiz Me," scored an immediate and immense success. That was what led Ziegfeld to induce her to tour the United States, where her success with it was greater than ever. Several men in San Francisco have always been lavish in their entertainment of the actress whenever she would come to town and she readily showed her fondness for these attentions.

Good Work Knowland Did

San Franciscans who closely studied the progress of the Panama Canal bill through Congress—and there are many of them—realize the good work Congressman Joseph R. Knowland did in watching out and fighting for the vital features of that measure as finally adopted. Those are the features which make the law such a beneficial one for the general commercial and shipping public, the people in general, if you please, as against the selfish interests of certain corporations, American and foreign. Influential men here know the work for the law that was done by William R. Wheeler, manager of the traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. He was sent East for that purpose by the guiding spirits of that organization, such as President M. H. Robbins Jr., and Captain William Matson, and spent several months in the national capital. They gladly say that Congressman Knowland was a tower of strength to him. Chairman Prouty of the Interstate Commission and Franklin K. Lane, the California member of that body and one of its strongest members, favored the law as it passed. At the request of President Taft, they gave him an opinion on the act, endorsing its leading features, the same ones that Wheeler and Knowland worked so hard and successfully for. It can also be said that lately Lane in letters to friends here has favorably commented on the intelligent and hard fight Wheeler and Knowland made for the law as finally signed by the President.

It is for these reasons that many people on this side of the bay are surprised that Congressman Knowland should have any opposition for a re-nomination. Oakland aspires for great growth as a big shipping port and private and public harbor improvements for that purpose have been planned. Knowland's work in Washington has been an influence along these same lines for his home town and all other Pacific Coast seaboard cities. On this account, people over here think his constituents in no mistaken terms should say:

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Movement for Great Highway

Mrs. Rae Copley Raum of San Diego, who is to be in the race for mayor of that city next April, is now going overland by automobile, her destination being New York and Boston. Writing to San Francisco friends, Mrs. Raum says that through all sections and places she is traveling she is pleased to find a strong sentiment in favor of State and national appropriations for the construction of a national highway from New York and Washington to San Francisco. That this great improvement will ultimately come in the shape of a motorway sixty or seventy feet wide, with a 100-foot right-of-way, she thinks is a certainty. In the Mississippi Valley region, she finds the scheme has many ardent and influential advocates. At the same time, she finds there a growing movement for a highway between Chicago and New Orleans to be called the Jackson memorial highway in honor of President Jackson. California's $18,000,000 bond issue for good roads, Mrs. Raum says, is spoken of everywhere she goes, something that makes of it one of the best advertisements the State has ever had.

Where Railroads Lose Money

Automobile outings in the summer months by people who prefer that mode of traveling to railroad trains constitute a growing loss of passenger revenue to the railroad companies. Some of the latter's officials figure these tours are taking from them this season fully $75,000 in fares. Many have been the auto trips this summer between San Francisco and Los Angeles and between those two cities and Lake Tahoe and the Mt. Shasta country. A hundred interior towns have sent one or more auto parties to this city, Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles. To particularize, hardly a day has passed this season without hotels, like the St. Francis and Palace, getting guests by auto machines from this or that interior town or from Southern California. It is estimated there have been 300 touring parties since last May making the round trip between this city and Southern California. This one phase of the subject means a loss of $10,000 in revenue to the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. The shorter auto trips in and out of this city have been far more numerous. Still greater have been the auto parties between interior towns. This defection from railroad summer travel will tend to increase rather than

HAS KING GEORGE GIVEN EXILE SHELTER?

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 31.—English democrats are indignant at the report that King George has granted the exiled King of Portugal a suite of apartments at Kensington Palace. The English people have no use for Manuel who has not a title of Alfonso's popularity. Furthermore, he is believed to be so much under the influence of the Jesuits that Radical politicians would be very glad to see him out of England altogether. Since that famous night in Lisbon when he bolted ignominiously from his throne and country, he has lived in a modest villa residence in Richmond, a few miles from London. Now that it is proposed he should be allowed to move into Kensington Palace it is urged that the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary should make representations to the king on the subject. The English people do not want an exiled king living in one of the palaces maintained by taxpayers and they know that it is likely to jeopardize the good relations between England and Portugal.

It is also known that King George has been influenced in the matter by the Marquis de Soveral the former Portuguese minister to England who has enormous influence with Queen Alexandra and all the royal family. An amusing contretemps occurred at the conclusion of the king's shooting visit to the Earl of Sefton at Abbeystead. Although the king always takes his own servants everywhere he goes, he cannot avoid a certain contact with the host's domestics and it is always customary that these receive liberal tips.

Now, Lord Sefton has firmly set his face against tipping at Abbeystead at Grosvenor Hall and at his own country house. Printed notices are displayed in every bedroom, drawing attention of the guests to this duty and requesting that they conform to it. The king declined to depart from his usual custom, but finally a bulk sum was handed to Lord Sefton himself, with the understanding that he use it either to start a savings bank account for each servant or else spend it on some scheme which might benefit the whole staff.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Before Frank and Adelaide Bacchione had been married a month the wife began to prefer the society of numerous affiliates according to an action for divorce begun in the Superior court today. The couple were married only on July 13 and Bacchione asserts that his efforts to keep his better half at the family fireside have proved futile.

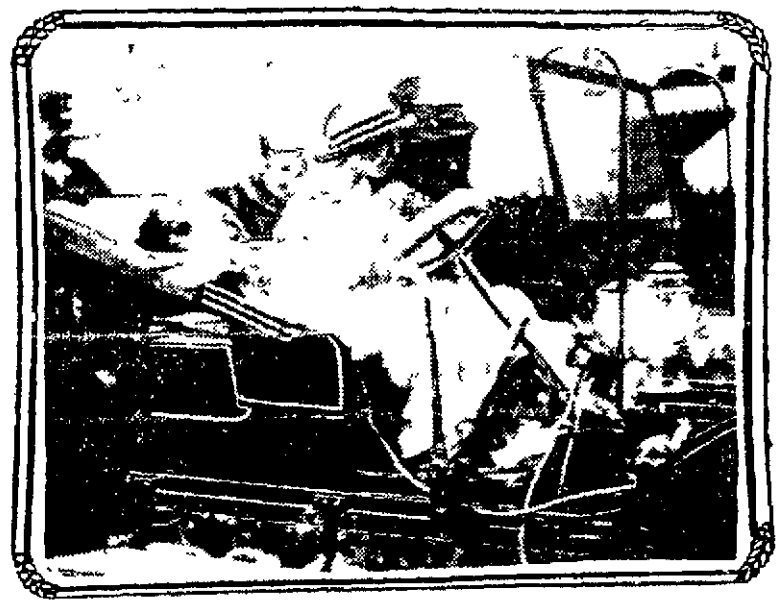

GOLD WATCH LOST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Earl Leifsen of 1302 McAllister street lost his gold watch valued at $35 while he was on a car last night.

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Weeping Skin, etc.
ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED and not merely patched up for awhile to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and having cured thousands of cases. Now I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a few days than I can give you in a course of months. By writing me today you will enjoy more relief than you have ever thought this world could give you. Try it and you will see I am telling the truth.

Beautiful Debutante to Make Her Bow to Society

MISS MARGARET ANDREWS, WHO HAS BEEN REPORTED ENGAGED TO YOUNG VINCENT ASTOR.

NEWPORT, Aug. 31.—Miss Margaret Andrews, the young society girl who has been reported engaged to marry Vincent Astor, will be formally presented to society at an early date. An elaborate social function has been arranged for the presentation of this beautiful young debutante who has already attracted so much interest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andrews, and has only recently returned to this country after spending the winter in Paris.

BOY HUNTER GETS FIVE FAT BUCKS

San Bernardino Boasts of 12-Year-Old Champion With Rifle.

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 31.—The champion boy deer hunter of the state is believed to be Donald Swarthout, aged 12 years. The lad has five deer to his credit, despite the fact that most boys of his age are as yet unable to pack a gun through the heavy brush of the deer hunting grounds. Young Swarthout started his career as a hunter at the age of nine years, when he broke the leg of one of the biggest bucks ever bagged in the local mountains, and made it possible for an older companion to bring it down with another shot. Last season when he was 11 years old, the lad brought back two deer, the legal limit, and this season he has repeated that record, having slain two more on Mt. San Bernardino, one of which was a four-pointer.

WOMAN NAMED IN DIVORCE COMPLAINT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Herbert Powers of 2111 Broadway, who is a defendant in an action for divorce begun today by Mrs. Rose Powers. The ground on which the application for a decree is made is the fondness of Powers for an alleged affinity in the person of Miss Lucille Lloyd, who is mentioned in the complaint. Mrs. Powers asserts that they were married September 27, 1903, and that only recently her spouse has succumbed to the fascinations of Miss Lloyd, whom he met when she was living at the Manhattan hotel. Powers is in receipt of $150 a month and the wife wants suitable alimony and counsel fees.

JUDGES NAMED FOR APPLE SHOW

Experts Chosen to Pass on the Exhibits at Watsonville in October.

WATSONVILLE, Aug. 31.—George E. Rowe of Grand Rapids, Mich., C. J. Sinsel of Boise City, Idaho, and J. L. Dumas of Pullman, Washington, have been selected as the official judges of exhibits at the California Apple Show, which is to be held at Watsonville from October 7 to 12. These three judges officiated in a like capacity at last year's show and gave general satisfaction. Rowe is the editor of Fruit Belt, one of the leading fruit journals in the East. Sinsel is one of the leading growers and shippers of Idaho, and Dumas is past president of the Washington State Agricultural society and before retiring from active life was one of the leading fruit experts of the Northwest.

TROLLING WITH SARDINE HE HOOKS JEWELRY

AVAILON, Aug. 31.—One of the most freakish catches of fish ever known here was accomplished by W. H. Hooper the millionaire angler from Boston, while fishing from the launch, Seaside, II, with Captain Gray. While trolling for sardines with a nine foot line and with a small sardine for bait Hooper received a strike from a black sea bass which as a rule will never strike a bait of less than five pounds of sardines. After playing the fish for forty minutes Hooper was able to land it and when brought to Availon it was found to weigh 220 pounds.

AMERICAN WOMAN RAISED TO SEMI-ROYAL RANK

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The appearance of four lines in minute type in the Almanach de Gotha—that volume so precious to those who possess high titles and those who worship them—has raised an American woman to acknowledged semi-royal rank.

She who was Leota Eleanor Nicolls of Uniontown, Penn., married Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis has been accorded the rightful rank despite the fact that her husband married her without the permission of his sovereign, Emperor Franz Josef of Austria.

The Almanach de Gotha, naming the members of the house of Thurn and Taxis which dates back to 1117, states: "Prince Victor-Theodore-Maximilian-Egon-Lamoral born at Ecska, January 18, 1876. Seigneur of Lokoshaz, of Elek and of one part of Domargyara, married in New York, November 2, 1911, Miss Leota Eleanor Fitzgerald, born at 18 1/2.

The blanks appear because the birthplace and date of the princess' birth had not been verified at the time of the Almanach's going to press.

By this official acknowledgement, Princess Victor who has a fortune in her own right, now takes precedence in any European court of all her countrywomen who have married English dukes or French marquises or German noblemen of lesser degree. Prince Victor's first cousin, Prince Albert, is the reigning prince of Thurn and Taxis, his wife is her imperial and royal highness Archduchess Marguerite of Austria—both very grand personages.

Princess Victor's first husband was General Gerald Fitzgerald, of a famous Irish family, one of its members so delicately translated the verses of the Persian Omar Khayyam. The Princess divorced General Fitzgerald and the American court decided that he pay her and their two children $28,000 a year, out of the large income he derives from America. There, in association with the uncle of the princess, J. W. Thompson, a millionaire banker and coal operator, General Fitzgerald made a large fortune.

When the Princess married Prince Victor he was burdened with debts. Like all the men of his family, he has little idea of the value of money. To her intimates and to her uncle, who did not favor the match she said:

"The prince needs help and I propose to give it to him. I do not care how much he wastes, he will never want of it. I did not make him a prince but I am sure I can make a man of him. I am willing to devote the rest of my life to the task and I think I shall succeed."

AMERICAN SUCCEEDS. This happily married couple, American woman is succeeding. She has prospered up the falling house of Thurn and Taxis, has rehabilitated the branch of the family now which was married by clever business methods, acquired of course, in her native land the princess has paid off mortgages contracted by Prince Maximilian, Prince Victor's older brother. Had the mortgages been foreclosed, great seemed inevitable until Yenkes' auction and money came to the rescue. Great estates would have been sacrificed.

They had been much incensed at the report circulated when Prince Victor's sister Princess Mathilde had recently in Budapest after meeting with an accident in a skating rink. Wide rumor had it that Prince Victor would not go to the funeral because the family had received her with right politeness. The truth was that he was so incensed that he could not leave home until three days after the funeral when she hastened to Budapest to offer condolences. To still the furious Princess Maximilian wrote to a friend:

"Such a report is outrageous. We all love Leota as if she were our own sister. Princess Victor is a lovely, unselfish, and kind woman. Some news papers confused her with another Princess of Thurn and Taxis whose people were still in a feud. Norman Selby, the American banker, once told me the name of the Princess who was accused in London of having been a party to the theft of the crown jewels. The Princess was since then freed of the charge."

High price? Never!

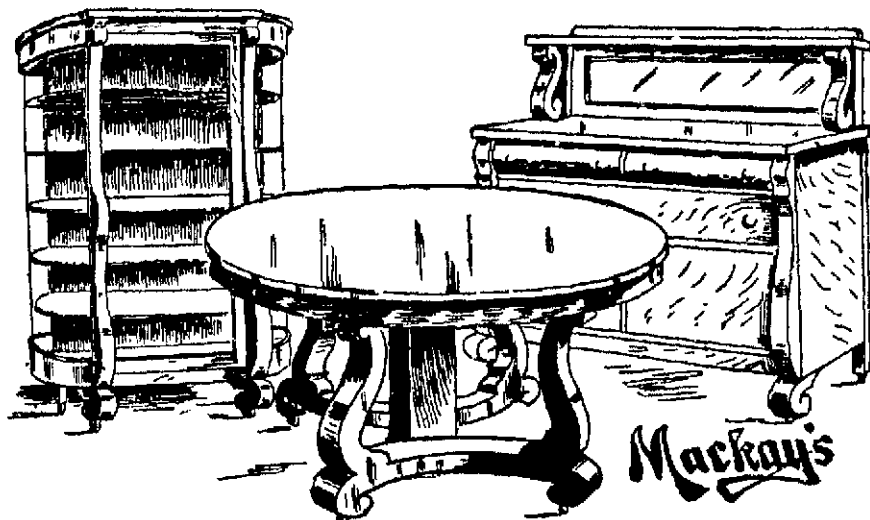

Mackay's IS NOT a high-priced store—IS NOT and never was!

Right here—and now—we want to positively, finally and forever refute that idea if you have entertained it.

True, you CANNOT buy trash at Mackay's. But does low price alone constitute the bargain, or is it what you get for the price?

There is no piece of furniture or ANYTHING in the Mackay store that is not good enough to be sold under an iron-clad Mackay guarantee.

Will you investigate, and reason, and profit by your reasoning?

Mullins and Murphy's Re-election Imperative.

THE TRIBUNE does not for a minute think that the Supervisorial districts represented by John F. Mullins and D. J. Murphy in the County Board of Supervisors will fail to endorse the good work they have done for the people during their present term, but will, to the contrary, elect them to remain in the county's service by giving them a decisive majority at the primaries to be held next Tuesday. It is a debt of approval which is due to each of these Supervisors who have been consistently true to their constituents and administered the affairs of the county with scrupulous regard for the conservation of the public interests as they have done with their private business affairs. They have given to the county's business the same attention as if it were their own and that with a high and commendable degree of intelligence. More honest and praiseworthy service than these two Supervisors have given Alameda county was impossible from any public representatives.

To turn down either Mullins or Murphy next Tuesday would be one of the most reactionary acts which the voters of their respective districts could possibly commit. It would be a political crime and a moral disgrace to the county which the voters of the district would heap on their own heads. It would be equivalent to a notice to the people of the State that Alameda county is no longer in favor of a clean, honest and business-like government; but that it prefers to surrender the reins of the county administration to the gang which, in the past years before Mullins and Murphy took their seats in the County Board of Supervisors, conducted solely for self-interest, indifferent as to the waste and extravagance created and the tremendous inroads made thereby on the county treasury to the irreparable damage done to the affairs of the people entrusted to their care.

Through the influence of these two Supervisors the moral tone of Alameda county has been elevated to such a high plane that it ranks today at the head of the list of the best managed counties in the State and the one of purest morals. The roadhouse deadfalls, which were previously a disgrace to the county and a by-word throughout the State, have been abolished. Necessary public improvements have been fostered. In all the departments under the board's jurisdiction the rules governing private business have been applied and strictly enforced. Drones and incompetents have been forced to take their walking papers. Expenditures from which no adequate returns were obtained and for which, in some cases, no genuine service was rendered, have been stopped, and the public money which otherwise would have been wasted has been turned to such account as produced the greatest benefits to taxpayers.

The services of such public representatives are invaluable to those who pay the taxes supporting the county government. Moreover, the experience these Supervisors have had in the management of the county's affairs is a valuable asset to the people and it is manifestly to the best interests of the latter that they should be retained in the public service through a re-election. Every voter in the two Supervisorial Districts should, therefore, bear this in mind when preparing their ballots at Tuesday's primaries. The larger the majority for Mullins and Murphy, the greater it will redound to the credit of their constituents.

Stetson's Friends and Professions.

The inhabitants of Alameda county are intelligent people. A candidate for Congress must give some better proof of his qualifications than going about yelling that he is a "progressive" before they will vote for him to succeed a man who has made good and who has proved himself a progressive in the truest and best sense of the word.

There is no progress in tinhorn politics, false pretensions and cheap professions of vague and uncertain import. It is doing things that ought to be done, and doing them at the right time.

Joseph R. Knowland has done things—big things—that ought to have been done and did them at the right time. The importance and value of the services he has rendered cannot be exaggerated by calling him a "reactionary" and a "standpatter." True, he has stood pat against the transcontinental railroads and the foreign steamship trust, the shipbuilding trust and the white slavers, and for the improvement of Oakland harbor. But his rival says he is a standpatter on those matters as well as Mr. Knowland. He asks the people of this district to discharge Mr. Knowland and give him the place Mr. Knowland has filled with zeal, efficiency and devotion to public duty for the last eight years.

Would any citizen accede to such a request in his private business? Would he not rather regard such a request as impudent and presumptuous, and a violation of the ethics which govern men of honor and perception in their dealings with each other? In business life the employe who has performed his duty with zeal, intelligence and success is regarded as entitled to promotion. Mr. Stetson does not urge it as a reason for discharge, but he says it is not entitled to consideration because he wants Mr. Knowland's job. He has not the hardihood to claim that he is superior to Mr. Knowland in ability, experience and personal integrity, but he asserts that his political morals are purer than Mr. Knowland's.

This Pecksniffian plea is not worthy of notice. It is the hot air of opportunism rank with the self-praise of the Pharisee and the persistent office-seeker. But if Mr. Stetson's over-valuation of himself and his under-valuation of Mr. Knowland be accepted, he is still measure far short of the standard Mr. Knowland has set by actual performance. Mr. Stetson sets profession above accomplishment because he is decrying accomplishment in the hope of snatching it just rewards.

The campaign of petty detraction he has pursued is not an evidence either of breath of mind or nobility of soul. He has essayed to pull down a better man than himself by the pettiest of devices known to politics. He soars high at times, but like the buzzard he always comes down to an unclean repast.

It may fairly be asked whether a man so deliberately unfair and who resorts to expedients so small and contemptible is really fit to be trusted in great crises. There are powerful sinister influences behind Mr. Stetson in this fight. We have hitherto regarded him as an innocent pawn in the game, but his tactics have brought his motives fairly into question. Is he knowingly fighting for what Senator Beveridge aptly termed "the invisible government?" Mr. Stetson's lofty professions do not harmonize with the interests backing his candidacy.

HOUSEKEEPING TROUBLES

—CHICAGO NEWS.

Senator George C. Perkins.

Hon. George C. Perkins has served in the Senate longer than any other man California has sent to the upper house of Congress, and when he finally lays down the cares and responsibilities of office, which he will do voluntarily at the close of his present term, we have no hesitation in saying that he will be voted by the judicious and fair-minded the most valuable representative this State has yet sent to the national capital.

He has not achieved a reputation for brilliant oratory, but he has something infinitely more to his credit and of still greater advantage to his constituents. He has impressed himself upon his colleagues and the different Presidents who have occupied the White House during his long term of office as a man of sound judgment, clear vision and patriotic impulses. He gave to public questions the same intelligent, patient, dispassionate study a conscientious business man devotes to his private affairs.

During the nineteen years he has sat in the Senate, he has been absent from his seat only a total of twenty-one days.

We do not believe this record has ever been equaled. It has been as fruitful of accomplishment as it has been in close attention to duty. It is a characteristic of Senator Perkins that he is always on hand at the right time. He was never caught napping at the switch, never absent from his post. He has always kept in touch with the thread of events, has never let his finger slip from the pulse of legislation.

This trait gave him weight and influence, not only with the leaders of the Senate, but the President. He was always on hand, always knew what was going on and what had gone before. He was not only always present, but always ready for action. He made himself invaluable as a part of the machinery of legislation, nine-tenths of which is without political significance in the partisan sense.

A strong party man, he never permitted his partisanship to override his sense of justice. It never deterred him from doing his duty, never prompted him to say harsh things of his colleagues or to make capital for himself at the expense of others. He was always courteous and fair, and never censorious or ill-natured.

In consequence, he had not only the esteem and confidence of his colleagues, but their good-will. This good-will counted for a great deal when he wanted anything for California. It gave him an immense leverage when he asked for the extraordinary appropriations San Francisco needed after the great fire. Sympathy for San Francisco in her hour of calamity was sharpened by the kindly personal feeling Senator Perkins had inspired by his uniform courtesy, fairness and consideration to others. Having no antagonisms to combat, his statements were accepted without question and the relief measures he presented went through without delay.

When the acrimony of the day pass, as they are sure to do, and judgment resumes its normal sway, George C. Perkins will be rated at his true worth. His true worth can only be measured by what he accomplished. This State is studded with monuments to his industry and loyalty. The shipping interests are indebted to him for invaluable services. Indeed every interest in the country touched by legislation is indebted to him for the patient endeavor he has made to serve it.

California has sent showier and more brilliant men to Congress than George C. Perkins, but none who has returned so many substantial benefits for the honors heaped upon him. Nor can it be charged that the State has been ungrateful to this venerable veteran. Nearly half a century ago he sat for eight years in the State Senate. At a later period he was elected Governor, and after a few years' retirement was appointed to the United States Senate to fill a vacancy caused by death. Four times since he has been re-elected. He was never defeated.

The record is as honorable to the people of California as it is to Senator Perkins. As long as the people can call such men to their service, and have the discernment and appreciation to do so and keep them in harness, no one need despair of popular government.

Sportsmen will take notice that there will be good Bull Moose shooting at the headwaters of Salt river after the November election.

20 YEARS AGO TODAY

Miss M. Rey Wilson and Miss Mamie Dennison have returned from Castle Crags.

Rev. James Curry, Mrs. Curry and Miss Ida Curry are taking several weeks' vacation in the country. Rev. Mr. Buckland occupies Mr. Curry's pulpit meantime.

BACHELOR MUSINGS

The big genius about an ugly girl is she couldn't possibly think so.

A man has to have a high cost of living so as to keep on trying to meet it.

If it were any easier to lie it would be insupportably difficult for anybody to believe it.

A woman would rather a man killed her in an automobile than took good care of her in a street car.

No girl ever had enough beaux to be willing to spare one to a girl with none.

A man is a fool who doesn't know so as to have to get a box of things to put there.

A man will keep on whistling around you just as if you didn't hate him enough already.

Nowadays there's nothing that makes a woman so suspicious of a stranger as for him to be polite.

A rich relative dead can make enemies he not leaving it to them just the way he did alive by not lending it to them.—New York Press.

Strobridge's Strong Claims for Re-election

The presumption is reasonable that Senator E. K. Strobridge will be re-elected at the Tuesday primaries by the voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District which he has represented well and faithfully during the past four years. The people of the district have known him well since his boyhood and his private as well as his political life has been such as to inspire their confidence in his integrity and ability. He certainly commanded the unqualified respect of his colleagues when he was a member of the Assembly and has been one of the most influential members in the Senate since he has occupied a seat there.

Strobridge's record has not only been clean, but it is a highly commendable one and has borne the closest scrutiny. He is truly one of the people and throughout his legislative career in the Assembly he has had an eye single to the people's interests. No State Senator has given more faithful and efficient service to the people during the past four years than Strobridge has. Every reform measure which came up at the various sessions of the Legislature and promised to improve conditions in California always found a ready supporter in him. He played a leading part in the framing and carrying through of several important reform measures now incorporated in the statutes in effect, among them the primary law now in force.

Senator Strobridge has a vastly greater number of friends in his district than he has of lukewarm or unfriendly acquaintances, and if his friends will only do their duty on Tuesday and visit the primary polls to work and vote for him his election will be secure. No candidate seeking a first or a second election in any part of the State, or for any office has a stronger claim for popular support than Senator Edward K. Strobridge. His constituents will honor themselves by endorsing him at the polls.

SALT AND FOOD PROBLEM

The cost-of-living mystery is thrown back further than ever from solution, now that it develops that the one article which all of our 90,000,000 consumers feed on unstintingly at every meal is cheaper than ever before. Nobody ever thinks of economizing in the use of salt. It goes into the pot by the handful, and nine in ten persons add to the cook's liberality by plentifully sprinkling the prepared food with the raw article always at hand. The production cost of a barrel of flour is about the same as twenty barrels of salt, while a barrel of pork in exchange for 80 barrels of salt would be an even trade.

Prohibit the use of salt in appetizing bread and meat, and the decreased demand for those prime articles of food would send prices down with a slump. And yet salt is manufactured for only 22 cents a barrel, with a downward tendency, whereas the articles of food value of which goes so much by the application of a pinch of salt are tending upward. These facts of interest pertain to the domestic production of salt. Surprising as they may appear to the average consumer, he will be still more taken aback to know that our salt makers are hard put to meet foreign competition in the Atlantic coast markets. This is especially true of the higher grades of salt. The difference in the cost price, home and abroad, is not available, but other things entering into the cost being about equal, it is seen that there must be a wide margin of difference in the labor cost, enough to make up for the higher cost of distributing the foreign product and still allow the importer to undersell the dealer in American salt.

Then, too, there is home competition to be reckoned with, the New York industry, which produced upward of 10,000,000 barrels last year, coming in entrance rivalry with the Ohio and Michigan manufacturers, while the latter in turn find opposition from points of production still farther west. The inexhaustible supply of salt and high transportation rates on such low-priced articles conspire against the formation of a salt trust. Hence, there is small chance of an artificial rise in the price of the indispensable that is in most universal use, no matter how high the price of other necessities may go. It is just as well to remember, too, that if famine prices soar out of sight, the simplest and best way to bring them back to earth is to cut out the greatest of appetizers—salt.—Washington Post.

CLEANING PAPER MONEY

Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department proposes to do away with dirty money—in the physical, not the ethical sense. He is having experiments made to the end of washing the paper currency of the country at subterranean stations as often as it may become dirty.

Sold notes come from a machine invented process not only clean but possessed of that crispness without which bank notes would not be bank notes in action. The washing would mean economy, since the constant issuing of new notes to replace those soiled is expensive.

The secretary also has under consideration a plan to reduce the size of the paper money in circulation. Our notes and certificates now measure 304 by 7.38 inches; it is proposed to make them 25 by 6 inches. The reduction and certain changes in design, it is figured, would save the government the tidy sum of $800,000 a year.

Our paper money is of large size compared with that of other nations, and much of it in circulation is dirty almost to fitness. Cleanliness is highly desirable. The Bank of England's notes are never reused, for the reason that they are never reused; their average life is only about six weeks, but their smallest denomination is 5 pounds. Since we choose to have notes of smaller denomination we ought to keep them clean and make them of convenient size.—Chicago Record-Herald.

POET AND THE POLITICIAN

It is a fad, at this particular stage in American Affairs, to speak harshly of the period commencing with the termination of the Civil War and extending up to the rising of the present wave of national unrest.

Current authority informs us that it was during this period that the trusts were born; that the first blows were struck at our citadel of liberty; that economic wrongs were engineered which have "replaced black slavery with enslavement of the white man."

Looking backward, through the "glass darkly," we are properly confounded by the terrible epoch from which the good ship of state has emerged. We cannot but wonder how men and women managed to face the gloomy terrors of several great panics. Yet, the poet Longfellow, who laid down the burden of his mortal life on March 24, 1882, after singing his way into the heart of every true American, was not daunted.

Rather, he raved in that latter day the birth of a newer grander spirit in the country which he loved so well. In the last stanza of the last poem

THE MAID OF THE GYM

The burly burglar burgled in. Where maiden fair was sleeping. He looked about him with a grin, And started at his reaping.

He garnered, here, a heavy purse, And there, a gleaming jewel. To ring and pins was not averse; His greed was something cruel.

The maiden woke and spied the man, She sprang upon him quickly. In vain he broke away and ran, Her blows fell fast and thickly.

Across his panting throat at last Her stony arm she twisted, As pugilist he was outclassed, She could not be resisted.

"Gaiest girls of 1912, you know," Remarked the maiden kindly, "No untrained burglar has a show, I fear you ventured blindly."

She dragged him to the outer door, Made sure her arm had fast way, And in a second, less or more, Had towed him down the stairway.

AGED MAN OF 112 YEARS ENTERS JIG CONTEST

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—"Tim" Sullivan, 112 years old, will be one of the entrants at the international demonstration of the United Celtic-American Societies here on September 8. He will jig against a man of 63 years and will perform other terpsichorean feats.

Sullivan lives at Wisconsin Bay, Wis. He came to America in 1848 and served through the Civil War. He is the oldest living Irish-American.

CAT IS SOURCE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 31.—Of fields of the local health department believe they have traced the source of infantile paralysis to the house cat. Health inspectors have discovered several well developed cases in cats and will send several of the affected animals to Boston for observation.

The disease was epidemic in various cities some years ago and the number of cases reported in Springfield approximated the figures of New York and Philadelphia.

CHAPMAN TELLS OF NEW HUDSON SIX

Local Dealer Now at Factory, States That 48 Engineers Designed It.

S. G. Chapman, distributor of the Hudson in this territory, who is at present at the factory in Detroit, sends out the news of the creation of a big powerful new six-cylinder automobile by the Hudson Motor Car Company.

The announcement comes on top of the oft-asked question, "What will Howard E. Coffin do when he builds a six?"

The 64-horse-power Hudson was created under Mr. Coffin's direction by forty-eight noted engineers, who had a hand in building 200,000 automobiles of ninety-seven well-known makes.

Mr. Coffin has been known as the most successful four-cylinder carbuilder in the United States. He created the first successful four-cylinder car that was built and has always been a leader in that work.

However, before building a six-cylinder car he gathered from everywhere the ablest men to be found, for he is too shrewd a designer to attempt such a departure unaided.

Mr. Coffin wanted the six-cylinder car to be a wonderful automobile, so he went after and secured the men who had done most as six-cylinder designers, and the forty-eight engineers, all centering on one car, have overlooked nothing, for no one man dominated. Each individual is a specialist in a branch of the work in which his associates are not quite his equal, consequently the new Hudson "64" is thoroughly proportioned. It is a 64-horse-power, is electric self-energizing and electric lighted, has a wheel base of 127 inches and holds to Mr. Coffin's principles of simplicity and "clean design."

OAKLAND MOTORISTS TOUR TO SOUTHERN CITY

Harry Buckley of the Imperial garage of this city returned during the fore part of the week from a ten-day tour as far south as San Luis Obispo. With him on the journey was J. L. Davis of Alamo and family. The trip was made in an Oakland '40' touring car, which Mr. Davis has just purchased. Altogether about 650 miles was covered. Tire trouble was conspicuous by its absence, not even a puncture occurring.

$1,000,000 MOTOR COMPANY COMES TO CALIFORNIA

Mighty Michigan to Be Handled by Organization Headed by C. P. Kiel.

The distribution of the mighty Michigan cars for 1913 in California, Nevada, the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient will be made by the Michigan Motor Car Company, California branch, a $1,000,000 corporation just organized.

This organization and its big enterprise is the result of a visit to the East by C. P. Kiel, one of the best known automobile men of California. Mr. Kiel has just returned from his trip. "The organization has been so recently effected," said Mr. Kiel, "that I cannot go much into detail, but I can say this: It is unquestionably one of the biggest moves yet made in the automobile business for California."

"Our organization will have entire charge of the distribution of the Michigan. In a general way, we will handle this car throughout the vast territory named. Present selling connections are not to be interfered with, but the new organization will have the appointment and supervision of all future agencies."

WELL KNOWN MEN AT HEAD.
The Michigan Motor Car Co., California Branch, was organized at the office of the Michigan Motor Car Co., manufacturers of the mighty Michigan, in Kalamazoo, Mich. The following officers were elected:

President, V. L. Palmer; first vice-president, W. H. Lay Jr.; second vice-president, W. H. Cameron; third vice-president, Geo. H. Dougherty; treasurer and general manager, C. P. Kiel; secretary, C. C. Bobb. The above, with R. L. Kiel, son of C. P. Kiel, constitute the board of directors.

All of these men are well known to the automobile world, and especially to the automobile men of California.

Mr. Kiel, who will have general charge and the active management of the new organization, has long conducted a profitable vehicle business in California. His home is in Oakland.

From the start, he has handled the mighty Michigan, and no man is better able to attest the merits of this car than he. It may be said that Mr. Kiel introduced the Michigan into California, and now, after four years making good among the best medium priced cars of the country, it is regarded as only a just recognition of Mr. Kiel's part in its promotion that he should have charge of the Michigan in California, as it enters upon a great epoch.

It has been known for several months that the mighty Michigan was to be placed in the forefront of medium priced cars, by a stupendous enterprise on the part of the Michigan Car Co., the manufacturers.

After four years of preparation, in which thousands of cars were sent into test territories, the company felt itself amply qualified to bring its big plans to a head. Accordingly, the factories were enlarged. To the 600,000 square feet of floor space already provided, a new building has just been added, giving 60,000 square feet additional floor space. The big factory has been thoroughly equipped as an up-to-date automobile plant.

COME TO CALIFORNIA.

In branching out, California is naturally the first and most important point for the company's activities, owing to the Michigan's successes here.

It is authoritatively announced that the company will erect a modern motor vehicle office building, with display rooms, service station and all the equipment, which will be the center of the business for the mighty Michigan for California. This building will probably be located in San Francisco.

With Mr. Kiel's return, formal announcement is made of the plans, specifications and dress of the mighty Michigan, which have been awaited with great interest by motorists.

The 1913 Michigan at $1585, fully equipped, offers motor buyers a motor of from 40 to 46 horsepower, four-forward-speed transmission, 21.5 per cent excess tire, the left hand drive with center control, electric lighting by generator system throughout, 110-volt wheel base, an unusual room and the deepest and richest upholstery.

This car is the product of the genius of W. H. Cameron, second vice-president of the new company, by general consent one of the most successful automobile engineers of America. Mr. Cameron, although a young man, began building cars when the automobile was still a curiosity to the majority of American people.

At one time and another of his career his genius has been engaged on the Maxwell, Oldsmobile, Packard and the American Mercedes. It is generally admitted that it was Cameron who introduced the foreword in America. He is now leading the movement for the adoption of the four-forward-speed transmission.

DETROITER LINE IS FAVORED BY MANY

Low Priced Car Proves to Be a Ready Seller; Demand Exceeds Supply.

California is a hotbed for the low-priced car according to Carl Christensen, Northern California distributor for the Detroit line. Christensen has been getting some heavy shipments of the new little Detroiters but asserts that the demand has been so heavy that he is unable to keep any number of cars on hand.

According to wires received by him yesterday the southern chassis which he ordered recently from the factory will arrive in San Francisco early next week. It is Christensen's intention to have this chassis on exhibition in his showroom here to prove conclusively that the little car has all the high grade features claimed for it in the company's literature. For the Detroit specifications read like the catalogue of the highest grade cars.

"When I started the agency for the Detroit line I was confident I had picked a winner for the coast," says Carl. "The number of inquiries and the actual sales booked recently vindicate my judgment. Another surprise in store for the people of this territory interested in low-priced cars is the new roadster model the Detroit factory is making. This roadster will be a two-passenger car selling at the same price as the touring car but carrying still more equipment."

HAS TREMENDOUS POWER.
"One of the car's features making it so popular here is the tremendous power it has. I have crowded six people into the machine and negotiated Millmore street hill."

"The officials of the Briggs Detroit company realized the determining factor the women play in deciding on the car for the family," says Carl. "So they designed a car that its simplicity and ease of control appeals at once to the gentler sex."

Christensen has completed negotiations for the exhibition of the Detroit car at the coming State fair to be held at Sacramento. As soon as he is able to carry large enough a stock he will open a branch in this city. A complete stock of parts will always be carried on hand.

"LOW DOWN BRIBE" OF $25 IS FOR POOR MOTHERS

MELBOURNE, Aug. 31.—The announcement by the Federal Labor Government of the details of its maternity grant scheme—or "baby bonus," as it is termed—has set Australia discussing the merits of social subsidies from a new standpoint.

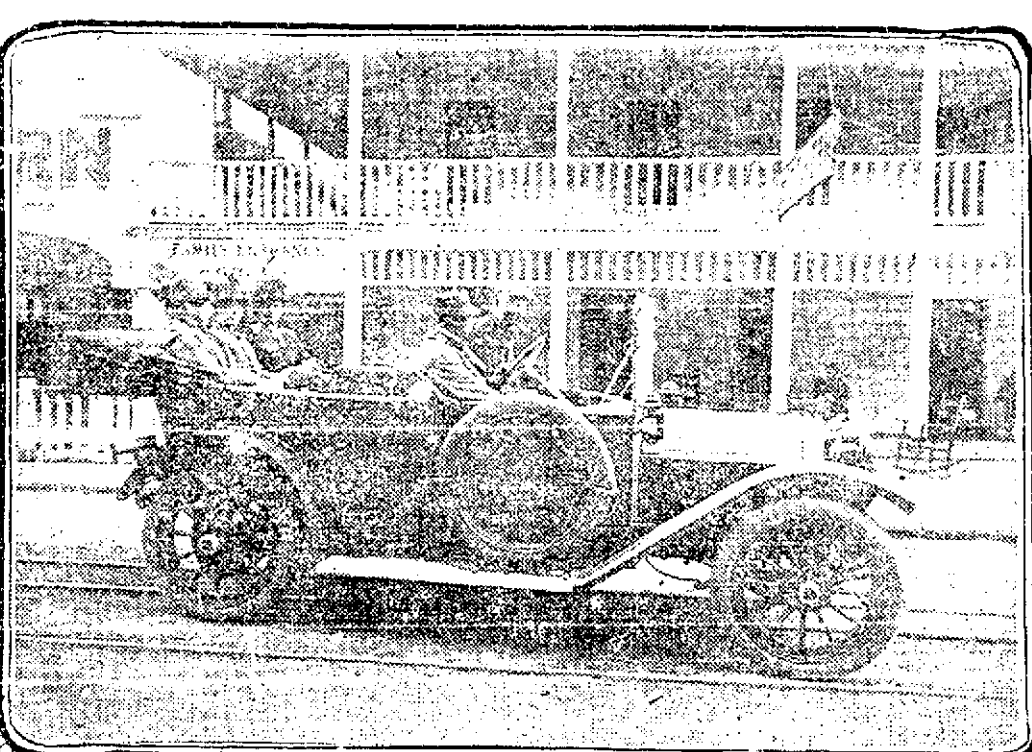

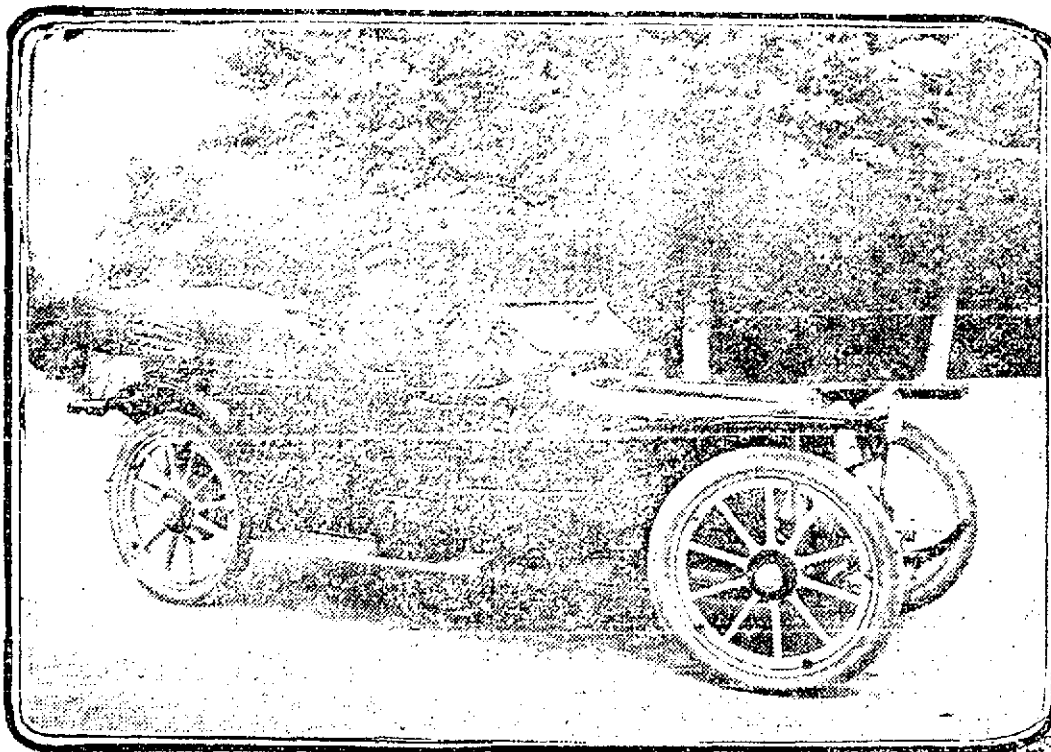

It is fiercely denounced by fusion politicians as a "low-down bribe" to the woman, and as a kind of set-off to the labor party's abolition of postal voting. But throughout liberal leaders like Mr. Deakin, do not take this line. They recognize the justice some aid at the maternity period of the life of a woman whose husband is so poor as to be unable to give her essential comforts. It is an open secret that long before the Labor Ministry's announcement several leading liberals were quietly feeling their way towards a workable scheme.

As it is, at least one liberal organization has made public its ideas concerning an alternative. At the second annual conference of the Tasmanian Liberal League, at which 120 delegates were present, it was unanimously agreed that a state fund be established for the relief of poor widows left with young children. Gradually the principle of state aid is being conceded, and the discussion is converging on safeguards from fraud and questions of thrift contributions, and, above all, of cost.

The Australian taxpayer is alarmed at the prospective cost of the fulfillment of labor's dreams. The labor party has turned its back on the German and Lloyd-George social insurance systems because they involve personal contributions. All its own schemes are free of cost to the treasury—extensions of the invalid and old age pensions systems. Public men outside the labor ranks are, therefore, vigorously sounding a warning note.

MANY GOOD POINTS ON NEW POPE CAR

Electric Starting and Lighting System Gains Enthusiastic Admirers.

Ever since the automobile became the vehicle of commerce and pleasure that it is today and men have learned what it is to ride with speed and comfort, some mechanical genius has been adding to the efficiency of the motor car, by improvements in equipment and other details that have, it would seem, brought the present-day motor car to perfection.

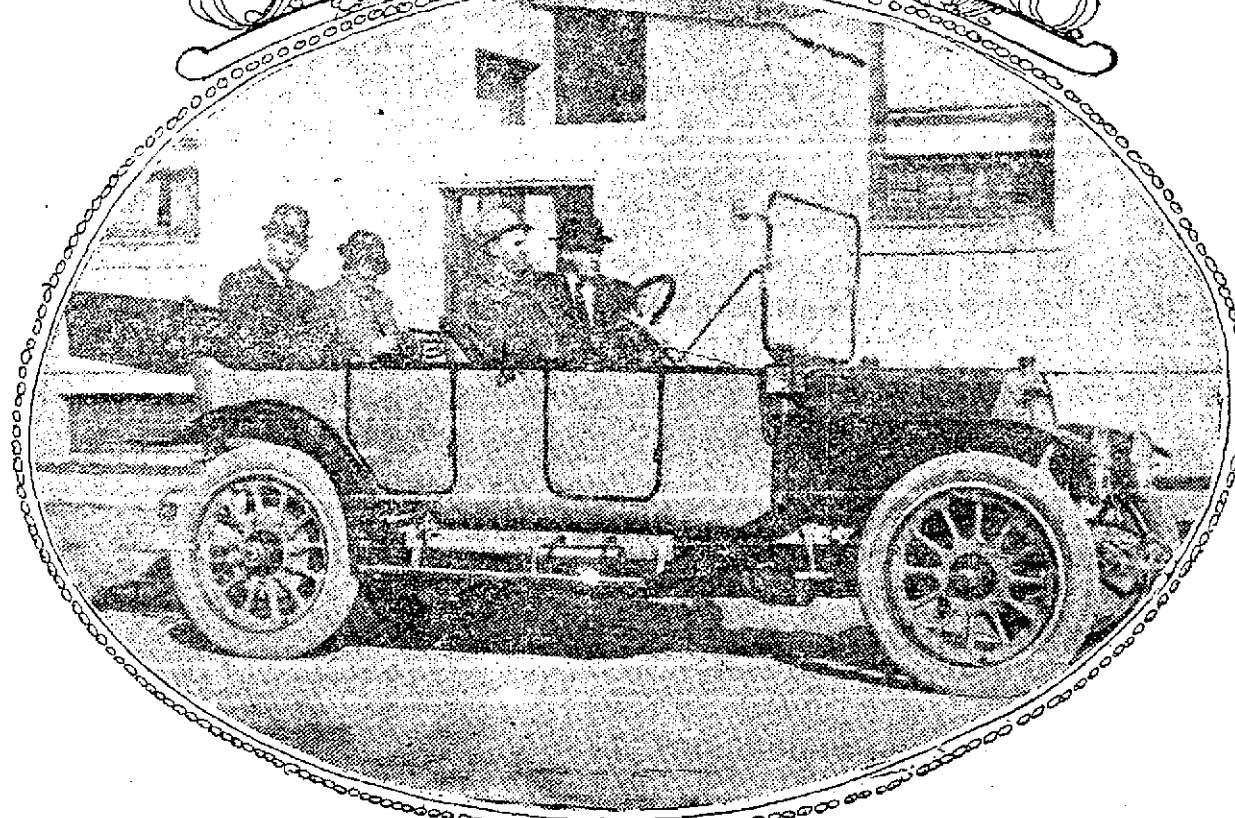

With all its advantages, the automobile, until recently, still labored under the disadvantage of having an archaic system of starting its motive power, and besides the strength required a certain amount of skill was needed to get the motor to start revolving.

When the Pope-Hartford cars were equipped with self-starters, people were at first a little skeptical about this device doing all that was claimed for it, and many were like the man from Missouri, they had to be shown. After being shown, however, they at once became enthusiastic admirers of the new electric starter, which is pronounced by experts the finest the market affords at the present time.

GRAY AND DAVIS STARTER.
The Gray & Davis electric starter, like the electric-lighting system that this concern makes, is simplicity in itself in operation, requiring but the pressing of a pedal to start it going. The device consists of a small electric motor so mounted that when it is started it comes in contact with the gearing of the motor fly wheel and thus forms its engine of cranking the engine. As the engine begins to run under its own power the starter is discontinued automatically.

The new electric starter is powerful enough to start the largest automobile motors and will, under the most trying conditions revolve the car's motor as often as is necessary. Another splendid feature, is the fact that its capacity is practically unlimited, and tests have been made in which heavy cars have been propelled for considerable distances by the power of the starter alone.

The news of a "split in the Roosevelt party in Texas" makes Colonel Henry Watterson inquire anxiously for more definite information as to the nature of the lesion from which the Hon. Cecil Lyon is suffering.—Hartford Times.

GOODYEAR TO OPEN BRANCHES ABROAD

L. C. Van Bever Leaves for England to Institute New Sales Offices.

After popularizing its product in every state of this country, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, manufacturers of the famous No-Rim-Cut automobile tires and Blue Streak motor-cyclist tires, is making preparations to open up branches in several of the countries in Continental Europe, in England with head offices in London, and in South Africa and Australia.

On September 5 L. C. Van Bever, of Toronto, Canada, vice president of the Canadian Company of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, leaves for England, to complete arrangements for the opening of the London branch, and to establish a complete distributing system throughout the British Isles. Mr. Van Bever, who has experienced a successful career with the Goodyear company of the American home, will control the British interests of the company as well as those in South Africa and other British possessions. Other companies, it is understood, will be organized under the supervision of Mr. Van Bever, in France and Germany, and arrangements are being made to form a company in Australia to supervise the business on that continent and in New Zealand. The plan is the beginning of a world-wide selling organization and distributing system of The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

25,000 MILES IN PAIGE DETROIT

Clarence E. Goddard of Boston Covers That Distance in Little Car.

The "Four Ways" sent greetings to San Francisco. The messenger came, not on wings of the wind, but in a Paige-Detroit car, named the "Glad Hand." Over 25,000 miles in the United States alone, Clarence E. Goddard of Boston, has traveled in his car since last summer. From Northern Maine, he toured southward even to the Everglades of Florida before deciding to start westward toward the Pacific coast. His friends, old and new, during the trip, sent messages of goodwill to California, so the car was appropriately named the "Glad Hand."

Upon his return from the South, Goddard provided himself with a few necessities for the journey west. Boston was left behind for a tour through Albany, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit, the home of the Paige-Detroit car, where Frank R. Lane, of the purchasing department of the company, became his companion for the remainder of the journey.

Through the Middle West, stops were made only long enough to get a view of the cities. Traveling was delightful until Wyoming roads were met, because of the recent cloudbursts, the highways were in a terrible condition, and continued so until Reno hove in sight. From then on, touring was pleasant, and the trip over the fall Sierras, through the Sacramento valley, and from Auburn to this city, was one long to be remembered.

In the welcoming squadron from the Exposition city, were Max Rosenfeld, head of the Auto Sales Company, and J. F. Lakin, Pacific Coast representative of the Paige car.

Goddard had brought greetings from all States from Maine to California. He will spend a week in this city before proceeding south, visiting all prominent places on the El Camino Real, thence on to Los Angeles.

SUBSTITUTE BOX TRICK NETS CROOKS $1795

PORTLAND, Aug. 31.—By working the time-honored substitute box trick on Michael Koppel, aged 65, two clever confidence men swindled him out of $1795 in gold and silver pieces and are thought to have fled to British Columbia or California. Detectives Swanness and Pat Moloney were selected to the investigation.

The swindle came as the climax to a proposition made to Koppel by the first of the strangers a month ago when the man called at the Koppel home, 567 Front street, and offered to take the retired merchant into a business partnership.

Koppel consented to consider the offer, and the stranger asked Koppel to wait until the former's partner arrived. Koppel consented and the second stranger made his debut. And pointed a word picture of the advantages of the proposition offered by his companion. By some means, the man learned that Koppel had the money concealed in a small tin box in a trunk at his home. Koppel was invited to lunch at a delicatessen at First and Madison streets. The three men went into the shop and then one excused himself to get his krip, which he said he had left in his room at the Hotel Portland.

Later he returned and they were together until night, when the crooks excused themselves, saying that they would see Koppel in the morning. Koppel went home and went to his money box. It was gone, and in its place was a box of similar appearance. Koppel opened it to find only several cobblesstones substituted.

HORSE BORES TREASURE; COINS ARE UNCOVERED

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 31.—A horse kicked a remarkable treasure trove into view on John McDewen's farm, in the Rideau Canal district, on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence river. Six pieces of silver flew from the horse's hoof when the animal was being driven over a newly broken field by Colonel Conlin and John Doran. The men jumped into the horse's tracks, and digging with their hands, they turned up 142 coins—3 Spanish pieces, 1 British, 1 five-franc piece and 138 United States half dollars.

By English law all treasure trove is added to the public revenue, so the coins have been turned over to the police. They date from 1560 to 1828 and they were found buried in straight rows, standing on edge, only three inches underground. Workmen who built the Rideau canal were paid in American silver, it being part of the war indemnity paid by the United States to Great Britain. This money was sent to the canal district in bags, some

HAYNES INVADES SOUTH AMERICA

Agents in Argentine Republic Claim American Cars Are In Bad.

W. B. Cochran, president of the Haynes Auto Sales Company, recently received a letter from the factory telling of the interesting experiences of John P. Barron, who made a trip over a big section of Argentine Republic, South America, in a Haynes car, and who gathered much valuable data concerning the present status of the automobile market in that country, especially with respect to American made cars. In speaking of this phase of his trip in his letter to the factory, Mr. Barron said: "We received the demonstrator in perfect condition, but are having some very uphill work at present as there has been created here a very unfavorable impression of American cars, generally by the samples of cheap cars sold in this country for the past three years. To help get over this prejudice I am writing a series of articles on 'American Automobiles,' and by the aid of Mr. Bartleman, United States consul in the Argentine, am having same translated and placed in the native papers. Under separate cover have sent you a copy of the Buenos Ayres 'Standard,' in which you will find one of the articles. The same has been forwarded to Washington for publication in the consular report."

"For the sake of an advertisement, we drove the demonstrator out into the country some 1500 miles, visiting on the way some of the well-known ranches. In some cases going through bogs and swamps that have previously been regarded as impossible for an automobile."

Starting from Buenos Ayres, Mr. Barron and a friend of his were on the road nearly a month, traversing some of the richest parts of Argentine and meeting with all kinds of adventures. In many places they found the roads almost impassable on account of the mud and water, and in other places for miles they were compelled to traverse swamps, morasses and rocky stretches that had their temptations and the Haynes' staying powers to the limit.

Of which were stolen and never recovered. It is believed the money found is that lost eighty years ago.

ALCO APPOINT A WESTER NMANAGER

E. E. Haskin Is Given Charge of Territory West of Denver.

The increasing number of Alco pleasure cars and trucks has received serious consideration by the officials of the American Locomotive Company, builders of these well-known vehicles.

Frank Rittigstein, the head of the Auto Sales Company in this city, agents for the Alco truck, announces the arrival of E. E. Haskin, as the Pacific Coast factory manager for the territory west of Denver.

Haskin has come west to establish a wholesale service department in this city. In speaking of this move by the officers of the American Locomotive Company, Haskin says:

"In keeping with the policy of our company, I have come west to establish a service department for the benefit of the owners of Alco pleasure cars and trucks. These vehicles we have placed in the local market and, in fact, the territory west of Denver demands this consideration. It has always been the policy of the company to give to the owners of their cars, the highest possible service."

"The Pacific Coast is a long way from Broadway, and we realize the necessity of a service department on this coast, that will be able to handle all details. This would be impossible for any agent to handle, not only necessitating a large investment, but at the same time, an expense which we feel properly belongs to us."

NEW SERVICE STATION.
"In our new service station, which will be located at 455 Turk street, we will carry a complete stock of parts for both pleasure vehicles and trucks. It also will be the wholesale department for the west, and although this will merely be an office location as up to now, and from the present indications, it looks as if it will be some time before we have a carrying station on hand, as advanced orders for the Alco product has absorbed it as fast as the factory can produce."

Haskin has been most agreeably surprised from the trade conditions of the west, especially in San Francisco. In reference to this, he said:

"We were aware of the fact that the coast, and especially California, was one of the best motor markets in the United States. We realize that from our sales, which was the cause of our placing a factory representative here; but I did not realize the enthusiasm of motoring here."

CALIFORNIA IDEAL FOR MOTORS.
"California is the ideal place for the motor car, and Californians have not been slow to realize it. With the completion of the State Highways, and other country roads, there is no question but what, when this is attained, that California will have more motor cars than any other State in the Union. At present, New York heads the list, but even in that State, they are not buying cars in the numbers that are being purchased here. The buying of motor cars, I see, is not limited to one class, every one who can afford it has a vehicle of some kind, and from the number to be seen from the streets of the city and the highways of the country, one gains the impression that practically every one in California can afford a motor car or at least a motorcycle. Truly, the death knell of old Dobbin has been sounded here."

MRS. HARRIMAN MAKES GET-AWAY FROM MOB

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—To add to the troubles of Mrs. J. E. Harriman, after she had conducted a liaison women's meeting in Union Square and had successfully fought a couple of hundred struggling men and boys who were trying to reach her to get a Wilson button, somebody stole her handbag.

The men and boys were so anxious to get a button they swarmed up over the railing to the platform in the Union Square shelter and chased Mrs. Harriman, society leader, philanthropist, wife of a millionaire, into the office of the park superintendent, where she sought refuge until somebody coaxed a policeman to come up and clear the speakers' stand. Jammed up against the railing of the platform, with curved hats and mused dresses, were the supporters of Mrs. Harriman, society woman, and others.

HAYNES

Haynes Model "22," the Car That Has Taken the Town by Storm.

AMERICA'S FIRST CAR—STILL ITS FOREMOST

America's oldest car—America's first car—is now truly America's best car in point of efficient construction and the beauty of the car. The Haynes company has not trimmed its quality of workmanship in a single detail. On the contrary, it has been a betterment, made possible by the almost daily improvement of factory equipment and manufacturing processes. In quality of materials and workmanship in all the little details of mechanical precision the newest Haynes equals or exceeds any of the previous Haynes models, which have no firmly established Haynes character—and model "22" offers much that no previous Haynes or any other car ever offered. It has true beauty of design; such rooms as you never saw in any other automobile; the very extreme of comfort, to please those who seek luxury; and an electric starting and electric lighting equipment of utmost simplicity and absolutely 100 per cent efficiency.

MODEL "22" IS THE COMPLETE, PERFECT CAR

At the price, $2,400, there is no other car that approaches it in perfection of its design, excellence of workmanship, comfort and roominess and complete equipment. Haynes T-head motor, 44-horse power, wheelbase, 120 inches; one half upholstery; leather hand-huffed, 12 inches deep; tires, 36x44 inches; 60-inch springs, insuring easy riding qualities; Eisenman dual master cylinder; Stromberg carburetor; three speed automatic transmission; standard bumper, complete equipment of the highest class.

INTEREST IN SAN JOSE SHOW IS KEEN

Auto Exhibits and Races Will Be Big Features of Garden City Exhibits.

With the opening of the Santa Clara county fair and Fourth National Industrial and Food Exposition only four days off, interest in that affair is growing in all circles, but no where is this more noticeable than in the ranks of the automobile owners and dealers. From indications, this year will be a banner one for San Jose, and that city will be the mecca towards which motorists from all over the state will travel and be on hand to see the many fine models of various cars that will be shown there, some of these models for the first time on the coast.

The automobile dealers of both San Francisco and San Jose have taken hold of the show with great enthusiasm and by their united efforts have arranged for one of the finest exhibitions in the motor line that has ever been seen out West.

An idea of how earnest the dealers are in their efforts to have the very best kind of individual exhibits is shown by the fact that several of them have made every effort to get the very latest product from their factories out on time for the big event.

FRANKLIN BIG EXHIBITORS.

Although it has as yet not been definitely decided, Manager McLean of the Franklin expects to have at least three cars in the show and they will probably be a six-cylinder touring car, a five-passenger four-cylinder touring car, and a four-cylinder runabout. All of the cars will be models of the new series. "From all indications," said Mr. McLean, "it looks as if they are going to have one of the best shows of attractiveness and attendance that has been held in this section for years, and we will do all in our power to help it along. The blind run from this city and Oakland to San Jose is also attracting attention, and I have heard a number of motorists say they would probably enter it."

The famous Mexican "Sand Digger," the Cadillac which recently made a trip down the west coast of Mexico to the capital of that country, in the interest of road roads, will be shown at San Jose, and a big Cadillac demonstrator will also be there.

The 1913 Chalmers will have an exhibit, and Mr. Morris of the Pioneer Auto Company will have one or two Flanders Colonial Electrics there to exhibit the beauty and grace of these famous cars. One feature of the Flanders Colonial Electric exhibit will be the new worm drive that is on these cars. This is the first successful worm drive ever put on a car, and it is claimed that it will revolutionize motor car propulsion, as it has many points of superiority over the old system. Mr. Davis, assistant manager of the Oakland branch here, spoke very hopefully of the outlook for the show and said that the San Jose agents would put some cars on exhibition, though not definitely known as yet just what the exhibit would consist of. They expect to show models of Oakland touring car, a model 20 roadster and a 45 C. C. car. At all events a very creditable line will be shown.

MAXWELL ROAD CAR UP-TO-DATE

New Four-Cylinder Car Has Many Features That Are Attracting Motorists.

The arrival of the new four cylinder Maxwell 22 roadster has brought forth a great deal of praise and admiration. Snappy, up-to-the-minute in design and a small car of wonderful power this 1913 model car is one above par. A. C. Hull, the local manager of the Maxwell Sales Agency has been very busy taking care of his for all models of the 1913 Maxwell car. Especially has this particular car called for his attention.

Right here he stated that Mrs. G. C. Stewart, one of Oakland's socially prominent women, is the proud possessor of the first 1913 Maxwell 22 roadster that will be seen on Oakland's beautiful drives.

Among the prominent features that characterize this car as being A-1 of its class, speed and power has a three speed transmission (progressive) with left hand drive and center control, long stroke motor, multiple disc clutch, dual ignition system, special design bronze carburetor, honeycomb type of radiator having high peak similar to Columbia, 33-inch wheelbase, 16-inch steering wheel and a 15-gallon round gasoline tank in back of the seat. It is fitted with a spare tire, and equipped with a self-starter and gas tank, top and top boot, five lamps and horn, together with the usual tools and tire repair outfit. Its color will be Brewster green with cream trim.

Hull also has on the floor the new Standard 14-ton truck.

NEW AUTO MODELS GUARDED CLOSELY FROM SPIES

Manufacturers Often See the Work of Shops Duplicated by Rivals.

"One of the difficult things the automobile manufacturer has to do is to conceal, or rather to suppress, advance information about its forthcoming models," says Sales Manager Paul Smith of the Flanders Motor Company.

"It is so difficult, I might almost say it is impossible. Most manufacturers have discovered, when too late, that it was impossible. In the old days, we used to uncover our new model at the New York Show. And such was the secrecy of the drafting room and experimental shop, we always kidded ourselves into thinking no one in the world knew what we were doing, least of all our competitors. What was our surprise then, to find that two or three of our rivals uncovered the same startling features at the same moment we did—on the signal for opening the show."

"As time has gone on the industry has grown, with which the difficulties have grown, rather than lessened for we have today scores of men in the drafting room and in the experimental shop. Of course we think we know who all these men are, but experience teaches us the one we trust the most is the very one who is in the pay of our closest competitors. And, watch the blue print room as we will, we find a rival in possession of most of the knowledge we have guarded so jealously."

USE SAME WEAPONS.

"Of course all manufacturers adopt similar methods, and we admit reluctantly that we could tell you pretty accurately a year beforehand what our principal rivals, as well as some of those who do not come into direct competition with us, are going to surprise the world with in the near future."

"It would be interesting if I could tell you all the devices and expedients to which we resort in this attempt to cover our tracks and get a lead on the competitor by producing a model with such exclusive and advanced features we will have the edge on them."

"For obvious reasons I cannot tell you all these, but I will mention one and a most expensive one which is resorted to by several manufacturers. This is to design and build several experimental models. Now the men working in these departments of course know that we will build one or more of these models, but which one, or how many, no one knows except Mr. Flanders himself, for he reserves his decision until the last moment."

CITIES FAR APART.

"Nor are all these models made in the same experimental room. Not by any means. We not only have drafting rooms and experimental shops in several places in Detroit, but also at Pontiac and Chelsea, Michigan, where are our other factories and, I may say in cities fully 500 miles distant from Detroit."

At these various places cars, or parts of cars, such as motors, transmissions, steering devices, etc., are designed and made and tested. And no one draftsman and no one man in the experimental shop can possibly know what we are doing at the various points, or what will be the ultimate decision as between one device or one car or another."

GIVES MORE LIGHT ON ECONOMY OF AUTOMOBILE

Oakland Manager Makes Comparisons Which Show Motor Advantages.

"Gasoline is cheaper than oats, and motor vehicles are cheaper than the horse for the business man. In this ever increasing rush in the commercial life of the world, it is only those who can cover the greatest number of points in the shortest possible time who get the business. It is efficiency of service," says Assistant Manager Davis of the Oakland Motor Company.

"Just consider the real estate business alone. There are the collectors, the men who must go out and look over properties, those who are in the selling department who must take prospective buyers over the ground, and several other departments that demand the presence some time during the day, on property the company is handling. The real estate business carries its stock at four points of the compass. The stock can not be carried on the shelf and hauled down for inspection. You have to go to it, it cannot be brought to you."

"The automobile is five times as fast as the horse. In other words, the firm that employs automobiles can do five times as much business as if they were using horses. Hence, to get the same results with the horse as they can obtain with the motor car, they would have to have five horse-drawn vehicles to every one previously used. This would mean the expense of five horse-drawn vehicles, and five men to drive them, as against one motor car and one man."

"This fact alone shows the economy and efficiency of the motor vehicle; in the same way it condenses the business in a more concrete form, and reduces the number of men necessary to handle the business, the latter point being acknowledged to be a great factor in high efficiency of business."

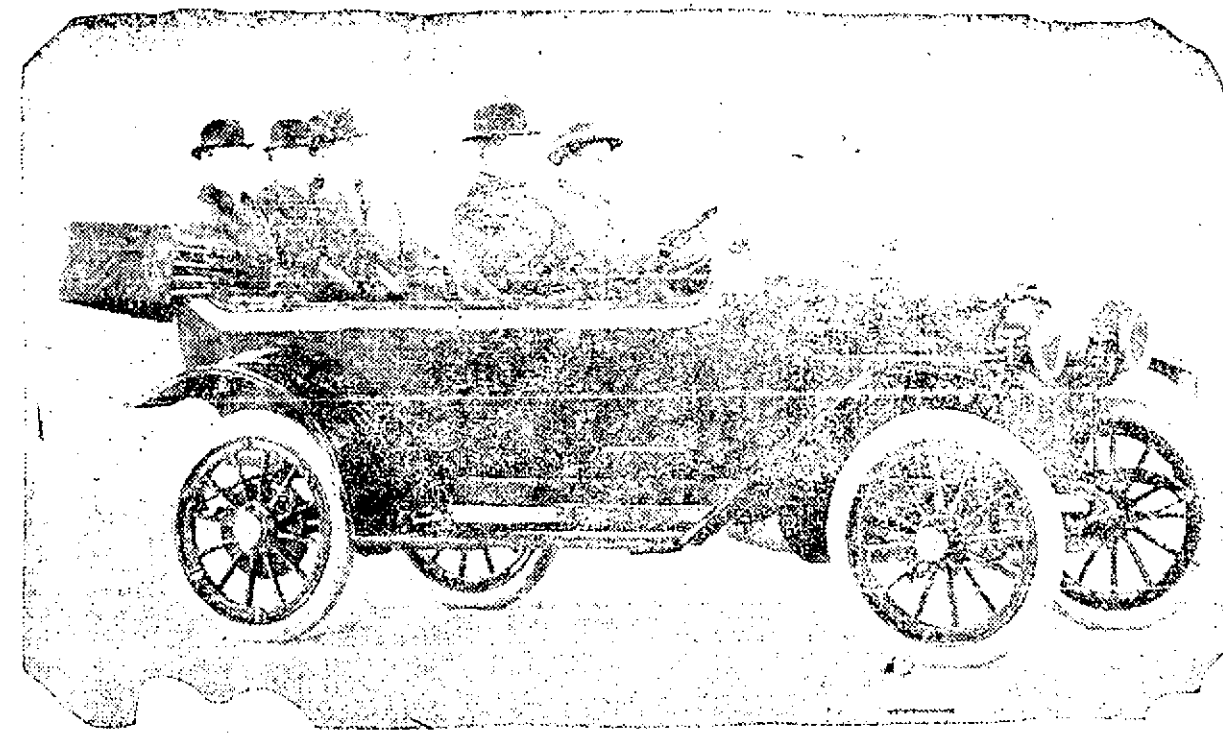

"There are many other lines of business similar to that of the real estate to which this applies. Many of the business men following the line of real estate, have not, as yet, installed the motor vehicle, principally for the reason of the initial cost. While this, of course, is something to be seriously considered, yet the business man who uses the horse drawn vehicle can not invest his money in a way that will bring him more financial results."

BEN HAMMOND LEAVES FOR EAST THIS WEEK

Ben Hammond of the Standard Motor Car Co., winner of the prize offered to the salesman of this firm leading in the volume of business in the last four months, leaves in a few days, accompanied by his wife, for a trip to the Eastern factories.

It will be his first journey east in several years, and naturally he looks forward to an interesting tour. In addition to his ability as a salesman, Ben has some well founded claims to engineering ability and this knowledge will be of a material assistance to him when inspecting the equipment of the factories represented by the Standard Motor Car Co., also the late models now being produced by them.

TAHOE ROADS ARE BEING REPAIRED

Reno Reo Agent Speaks of Progress Being Made In Nevada and Tahoe.

J. C. Durham, the Reno agent of Reno, was in Oakland yesterday, having come to town for the purpose of securing more cars for his territory. In speaking of good roads work in Nevada, especially that part which continues from the main highways to the California boundary, he said: "They are doing some splendid work between Carson City and Reno. The highways are being put in excellent condition, especially with convict labor. We find that this labor has produced for us some of the best and most lasting roads that we have, and has done much to raise the standard of the mental and moral conditions of convicts in our State."

"Just across the line in California, they are rushing work on the cut-off around Lake Tahoe from Tallah to Tahoe City. When I came through, they had at least 200 men working on this piece of State highway, and the indications are that it will be finished by November 1st, for the first snowfall. This will open up a most beautiful country, and will give motorists a more direct route to Reno by way of Placerville road."

NEW MANAGER OF AMERICAN BRANCH

W. L. Hunsaker Appointed to Look After Interests of Underslung Car.

W. L. Hunsaker, for the last year connected with the sales force of the Pioneer Automobile, has been made manager of the Oakland branch of the American Motors Company of California, and also of the Oakland branch of the Marion Motor Car Company. Hunsaker has been in charge of the interests of both firms for the last ten days and his office now becomes permanent.

The news will be received with a great deal of surprise by a number of his acquaintances. Hunsaker has been affiliated with the automobile business in this city for the last two years and is recognized as an aggressive and successful salesman.

He will have complete charge of the interests of both companies he will represent, and is well fitted to look after the welfare of the two concerns.

The 1913 models of the American and Marion will be displayed here within the next few weeks and surprises are promised in the specifications to be offered.

FLANDERS

If You are Paying More than $1200 for a Car, You are Entitled to a Six

THIS, REDUCED TO A FEW WORDS, is the keynote to the 1913 announcement of the Flanders Motor Company which will appear in this and other daily papers of every prominent city in the United States about September 15.

TO TELL YOU MORE at this time would be to tell our competitors—and that we do not desire to do, for we have a surprise in store for them as well as for you.

THIS MUCH WE WILL SAY, however—Sixes exclusively will be the Flanders slogan from now on. The perfection of the electric self-starting device has made the Six in any size and at any price the logical, the ultimate—the inevitable car.

WE'VE BEEN IN THE BUSINESS since its birth—watched every change—led the way in most of them. And since a man can't have two religions and worship sincerely at both shrines, we pin our faith in the future to Sixes—exclusively Sixes.

AND WHILE WE WON'T PROMISE to give you a Six at exactly the figure mentioned—because the Flanders Six must be a complete and an up-to-the-minute Six in every last detail—we will give you one at a price so little above that figure it will be within your reach if you can afford a car of more than 35 horsepower at all.

NO! NO!—YOU ARE WRONG AGAIN. Don't jump at conclusions. That isn't the price nor the horsepower. Guess again. But you won't get any nearer to it than our esteemed competitors—who always wait for us to show the way and then try to get on the band wagon—can guess what this Flanders organization has up its sleeve this time.

IF IT WILL INDICATE ANYTHING to you we will say there will be two Flanders Sixes. One of these will be a five passenger model of such size, power and quality and at such a price you'd be foolish to buy a four at any price.

IT'S HARD ENOUGH TO SELL FOURS NOW—for everybody sees the writing on the wall. It will be a lot harder to sell your second-hand Four a year from now—when you will certainly want to sell it and buy a Six.

EVERY MAKER KNOWS Fours are now obsolete and Sixes inevitable. But the others can't afford to admit that fact until they have cleared their floors of Fours and changed over their designs and equipment to make Sixes. They must all come to it—we are as usual a year ahead.

SO THIS AD IS JUST TO WARN YOU. After reading it you will have only yourself to blame if you buy an obsolete Four and pay a price for it that entitles you to a better car and a Six.

FOR WE PROMISE YOU the immediate future has such a car in store for you—a Six of the quality you expect from Flanders and backed by the name and guarantee of Flanders.

YOU KNOW THE MEN back of this product—Everitt, Metzger and Flanders; Kelly, Paul Smith, Pelletier—the same group of men who four years ago revolutionized an industry and set a pace in prices and quality that others are following yet and haven't caught up; the men who made E-M-F "30" the greatest car of its time.

THESE MEN, NOW HAPPILY RE-UNITED and supplemented by specialists of equal skill and experience—Fred Hawse, for ten years chief engineer of the Cadillac Company; Bruce Ott, admitted by the entire trade to be the greatest body designer—"the tastiest milliner that ever dolled up a car;" Richard Miles, the foremost metallurgist.

THESE AND THE HOST OF EXPERTS—topnotchers all—who constitute the Flanders organization, have contributed to make the forthcoming Flanders Sixes incomparable in all those points dear to the hearts of fastidious motorists and satisfying to the eye and the standards of experts.

WE SUBMIT that, if these men do not know how to make and to market automobiles and to take care of their customers afterward, then no group of men does know. If history doesn't repeat itself in this case then skill counts for naught, experience is a waste of time, there is no strength in unity, and business is not an exact science.

BUT BUSINESS IS AN EXACT SCIENCE—Experience is an accurate guide—skill is an asset—the united skill and experience of experts must produce superiority—and history will repeat itself, for the Flanders policy and the Flanders product for the coming year will work a revolution in the automobile industry as great as did the appearance of E-M-F "30" four years ago and of the beautiful Flanders Electric more recently.

THESE MEN, HEADED BY FLANDERS, have led so long they have forgotten how to follow—if indeed they ever knew. Their record is a series of successes. Failure has turned to success under their magic touch. Their reputation is world-wide and their friends are legion—and they are found wherever automobiles are found. For every car they have ever made has made a friend.

WE ARE NATURALLY EAGER to tell you all now—but we refrain for the reasons given. We refrain save to say there'll be two models of Flanders Sixes. One a luxurious seven-passenger car of high power, exquisite body design and complete equipment of the highest order and to the last degree of fastidiousness as well as of utility, and to sell at a price that will make it impossible for you to excuse yourself for paying a higher price for any car on earth.

READ THAT LAST PARAGRAPH AGAIN—It's a trifle involved and there's more in it than appears on the surface.

THE OTHER FLANDERS SIX will be a five-passenger car, an exact duplicate in every detail of design and finish and equipment—but smaller, of course—and will sell at a price that justifies our headline.

THAT'S ALL FOR THE PRESENT—Surmise all you will. Piece the fragments together. Let your imagination have full sway. You know Flanders and the Flanders organization—try to forecast what they will produce. Try to anticipate the most you can hope for—and then you will still be far short of the splendid reality. That, in full detail, will be announced about September 15th.

WATCH FOR IT—HERE. And if you desire to lead instead of follow—if you want a car of the future and not of the past—wait for it.

DEALERS—THIS IS FOR YOU

The Flanders Motor Company will make six thousand Sixes for 1913. That sounds a trifle modest for us, but remember these are big luxurious cars—and this number makes the Flanders Motor Company the largest producer of Sixes in the world. Deliveries will commence immediately after the announcement. Quality, reputation and price guarantees, there'll be no competition. Like dealers everywhere have anticipated this, so we have thousands of applications on file already. Being able to pick and choose, we are carefully selecting the best. We want dealers who will properly represent us and our product locally. And we are selecting those we think will go farthest with us. For we are building for permanency and for the benefit of all customers included.

Do you think you are that man in your territory? Then get in touch with our district manager—his word is law here. He is a partner in this business—tried and true and his whole interest bound up in its future. Better see him at once before he closes up for your territory—at his headquarters, address given below.

ARCHBOLD GIVES LIE TO LOEB AND COLONEL

"I'LL PROVE ALL THAT I SAID," HE STATESDeclares Testimony Regarding Standard Oil Fund Was True."Senate Committee Has My Evidence," Says Trust Magnate.(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

ON BOARD THE MAJESTIC, Off
Belthead, Devonshire, England, Aug.
31, by wireless to London.—John D.
Archbold today gave Roosevelt and William Loeb, Roosevelt's former secretary, the lie and declared he would return to New York in three weeks.
Go before the committee and prove the truth of every word to which he had testified, Archbold said.

"I stand by everything I said in my testimony that $125,000 was given by the Standard Oil Company for the Republican national campaign in 1904 to elect Roosevelt. The $100,000 that I gave to Mr. Bliss was given solely for the national campaign fund and not for any state or congressional campaign."

SAYS HE HAS EVIDENCE.

When asked if he had any letters, checks or other documentary evidence to prove the truth of his statements, Archbold replied:

"Yes, I have turned everything over to the committee."

"Did you testify voluntarily or were you subpoenaed?"

"I went voluntarily, but if I had not gone they would have subpoenaed me."

"Have you heard that William Loeb denies that the Standard Oil gave $100,000 to the Roosevelt campaign fund?"

"As all true. I am not a liar and we never got back any of the money."

"How did you know the money was used for Roosevelt?"

GIVEN FOR ROOSEVELT.

"There is no doubt about it. It was given to the national committee for that purpose," replied Archbold. "It was not given to any state or congressional committee."

"Did you give money to any other senators besides Penrose in 1904?"

"Yes, I will have to ask them."

Archbold's attention was called to the statements of William R. Hearst and he replied:

"Hearst knows altogether too much about Standard Oil affairs. He need not fear. If I have not told the whole truth about Roosevelt's relations with the Standard Oil Company, it is because nobody has asked me."

Asked if he had told every material fact, Archbold laughed and answered:

"You will have to wait until I get back to New York for me to answer that."

"Why did you believe that Roosevelt could have been bought for $150,- 000 additional?"

"You will have to ask Roosevelt that."

ARCHBOLD INDIGNANT.

Asked how he reconciled the statement that Bliss was a man of the highest character with his statement that Bliss had blackmailed him, Archbold retorted indignantly:

"I never said Bliss blackmailed me.
He never blackmailed anybody. He was not a liar, either."

When informed that it was reported he had been indicted in Texas, Archbold laughed uneasily and said:

"That is a little Texas matter. The Pierce-Forsythe Company is a small Texas concern and indictments don't worry me anymore. I have been used to those for so many years that I am now hardened and I suppose if I were in New York they would be indicting me there."

Archbold did not look "casse hardened" as he said it. In fact, he looked very comfortable and made a break for his stateroom, saying, "That's all now, until I get back to New York. I will give the committee all the help it wants. I am not running away. I am not a liar. I can prove every word
I said."

Mrs. Archbold, gray-haired and merely stood by her husband at his sillies. When she heard that he had been indicted she took his arm on his way to the stateroom.

ENDORSE JOHN F. MULLINS

Oakland, California, August 27, 1912.

TO the Citizens of the Fifth Supervisorial District:
We, the undersigned citizens of Alameda county, heartily endorse the candidacy of Supervisor John F. Mullins for the Republican nomination for Supervisor for the Fifth Supervisorial District, because we are familiar with his record and believe that it entitles him to re-election.

During his present term he has fought continuously for a clean, efficient and economical administration of the county's affairs.

His insistence upon applying private business methods to the transaction of the business of the county has resulted in an enormous saving of the money of the taxpayers.

The county now enjoys a surplus; waste and extravagance has been stopped.

By re-electing Supervisor Mullins you are assured of a much lower tax rate.

He is a man of excellent habits. His character is irreproachable.

We sincerely hope that the citizens of the district who are in favor of a continuance of an efficient, conscientious, clean and honest county government will not be misled by the statements or importunities of those who are so industriously and selfishly opposing Supervisor Mullins in the hope of once more securing control of the Board of Supervisors.

Very respectfully yours,

Barbarians, With More Experience,
Win Slow Contest by 15 to 0

True to precedent, the as yet unorganized freshmen football team of the University of California went down to a defeat of 15-0 in the first game of the 1912 (rugby) season at the hands of the Barbarian Club team of San Francisco. This marks the seventh year of Rugby on the Pacific coast, and the popularity of the sport was demonstrated by the large number of spectators on hand at the game.

Although the freshmen team was subjected to a drubbing, it must be said to its credit that they did not lose because of their lack of fight. The team, if it could be called such, was but a great number of constantly changing players who donned the Rugby suit for the first time this season but six days ago, and consequently lacked the necessary team work.
The previous experience of the Barbarians as a team gave them a great advantage over their opponents.

FIRST HALF SCORELESS.

The first half of the game was witnessed the Barbarians' near the class of 1912's goal line, but the determined work of the freshmen prevented a score by the clubmen. On one occasion the first-year men carried the ball down to the black-clad men's 30-yard line, but here the advance was stopped by splendid work on the part of Faulkner and Brown of the Barbs. At the close of the half the scoreboard showed no score to the credit of either team.

In the second half Coach Schaefer made many changes in the freshmen team and sent them on the field to fight hard for a victory. Hard playing by the Barbarians brought them a gain into the blue and gold's territory. Then the Barbs took everyone by surprise when one of the forwards kicked the piskin through the goal posts on a drop kick from a mass play on the freshmen's four-yard line. This play netted the visitors the first four points of the game. This score seemed to put new life into the so-called successes, and in a few minutes they were again pressing the freshmen hard. An off-side play netted the Barbs a free kick, which resulted in the second score, when Brown kicked the ball over the bar for a lucky goal, lucky because it hit the inside of one of the goal posts square, but carried inside.

About ten minutes later a scrum was called for on the freshmen team's 5-yard line, but the 2-3-2 formation of the first-year men was incapable of withstanding the superior weight of their opponents, who rushed the ball over for a try. The kick to convert, however, failed miserably.

The final score was the most spectacular of an otherwise listless game.
Brown picked up the ball from the loose on 40 yards and scored after a brilliant run, the goal being converted, thus bringing the Barbs' score up to the final 15-0.

Jimmy Porter, last year's captain of the Oakland high school Rugby team, was a conspicuous member of the freshmen team, as was Hardy of Berkeley high. Both of these men should make the final team chosen for the annual game with the University of Southern California. It seems a pity that while both the U. C. and Stanford freshmen train hard for the U. S. C. game they are not allowed to meet each other, instead of their supporters being forced to make a comparison of the two teams.

Coach Schaefer and former Varsity Captain Carl are both working hard with the new college men and next Saturday should bring forth far different results.

The teams lined up as follows:

U. C. 1912: Forwards—Faulkner, Brown, Hardy, Porter, Hardy.

Barbarians: Forwards—Faulkner, Brown, Hardy, Porter, Hardy.

U. C. 1912: Half-back—Hardy.

Barbarians: Half-back—Hardy.

U. C. 1912: Three-quarters—Faulkner, Brown, Hardy, Porter, Hardy.

Barbarians: Three-quarters—Faulkner, Brown, Hardy, Porter, Hardy.

U. C. 1912: Full-back—Hardy.

Barbarians: Full-back—Hardy.

U. C. 1912: Referee—Harold Ashley.

Republican Campaign Book
Discusses Taft and Tariff

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Discussing the high cost of living, the National Republican campaign book, issued today, declares that the present tariff is not conducive to the country's maintaining a protective tariff, but is world-wide.
Much of the present cost of living is attributed to the 50 per cent increase in the gold supply of the country in the last decade and the comparatively small increase in the production of foodstuffs during a period when the rapid rate. The publication opens with the speech of acceptance by President Taft at the White House, August 1, and follows with an exhaustive discussion of the tariff, the cost of living, a review of President Taft's opposition to the attempt of the Democratic House to force free trade upon the country and pays much attention to the record of the Taft administration for successful prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trustSol, With 100 Prostrations, Ends Ohio's Celebration

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—More than 100 prostrations from the heat today put an end to the children's exercises and flag drills on the campus of Ohio State University, which were planned to mark the last day of the Columbus Centennial. Of the prostrations 60 were of the children, many were 70-year-old men and several members of the Ohio National Guard were taken. All of the children were taken to the hospital. The prostrations were the result of the heat and the sun was more than 100 degrees.SHOOTING OF AMERICANS

PROBEDArmy Board Will Ascertain the Facts Concerning Killing by Rebels.General Huerta and Federal Troops Are Rapidly Forging to the Front.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The board composed of Lieutenant Colonel Francis J. Kernan, adjutant-general;
Major Eli A. Halmick, inspector general, and First Lieutenant Aristides Moreno, twenty-eighth infantry, appointed to investigate injuries to Americans along the Mexican border during the Madera campaigns, will meet in Washington next week to look into the claims arising from these injuries. It is understood that no less than fifteen Americans were killed on American soil by bullets fired across the line and a number more were injured. The commission will proceed to the Texas border to ascertain the facts.

DELAYED BY FLOODS.

MADERA, Chihuahua, Mex., Aug.
31.—Delayed in transmission.—The federal troops, under the command of General Huerta, have been retarded in their progress to Juarez by floods which have washed out the railroad tracks and destroyed the telegraph facilities.

HUERTA GOES FORWARD.

JUAREZ, Aug. 31.—General Huerta, commander of all federal forces in the north, is proceeding rapidly toward Juarez, where he will make his base of operations. With state officers and 500 men as a bodyguard, he is moving along the Mexican Northwestern railway on two trains. He is expected to arrive here by tomorrow morning, as damage done by rebels to the road below Juarez was repaired at noon today and the traffic resumed over the entire line as far as the city of Chihuahua, whence Huerta comes.

Uses Hatchet on Bride; Lawyer and Himself

CENTRAL CITY, Ky., Aug. 31.—When
C. O. Dunninger, a tailor, learned today that his bride of two months was at a lawyer's office making preparations to sue him for divorce, he seized a hatchet, ran to the office and attacked both his wife and the lawyer. He then turned hacking them with the hatchet, inflicting fatal wounds upon his wife, he ran back to his shop and dived through a plate glass window, wrecking a gasoline stove inside, setting fire to the building. He then tried to hang himself with a wire rope, but failed and was hacking himself with the hatchet when the firemen dragged him from the burning building. His wounds are fatal. The lawyer will recover.

Park Employees Take Interest in Scots' Pastime and Make Many Improvements

The park men are bring Lakeside Park bowling green to a high state of efficiency since the Oakland Scottish bowling club's new seven-foot roller, imported expressly from New York, has arrived on the grounds. The new roller has already done such effective work that many of the wrinkles in the surface have been smoothed away and the bowling on the green by the club members has been improved, as will be seen by the close scores between rival teams using two rinks yesterday afternoon.

Faking Fireman and Framing Manager Won't Have Anybody but Spider Kelley as Third Man in Ring

By BERT LOWRY.

WILLIAM J. CURTIN, known to followers of the prizefighting as "Spider Kelley," and a divekeeper on the Barbary Coast, was selected late yesterday afternoon as the referee of the Charley Miller-Jim Flynn contest at Daly City tomorrow afternoon. Such is fame. Note that Kelley is not qualified to perform the services, but in justice to the men that have done much to promote boxing in California, Kelley should not have been selected.

BEET LOWRY

Irwin or Frank Schick were entitled to the position but Jack only representing Inder Jim Flynn kicked at the navy and the navy was not to be trifled with. Louis B. Hunt is a friend of the Kellys. Kellys will no doubt fill the bill as well as anybody else, and the man that is entitled to the position is the man that is satisfactory to this one, will in all probability get what is coming to him but the picking of Kelly does not reflect credit to the Kellys, Coffroth or Louis B. Hunt by any means.

Why these two men should allow Jack Conley who represents a man who has been in the navy and who has been to come to California, and tell the promoter and manager who shall referee their fight is not understandable.

It is not fair to say that Jack Conley, but that is fair. Jim Griffin, Tobey Irwin, Frank Schick or Jack Walsh should have been the third man in this ring. Irwin was the third man in the ring. Irwin gave general satisfaction. Griffin came back to the game after an absence of some years and showed that he was a fighter. He had the right stuff. If the matter is now settled, only it leaves a mighty nasty taste when the fans realize that framers of a bunk wrestling show have been in the ring and that the bunk fighters themselves can pick real

GLADIATORS ARE READY.

A few more hours now and this battle of the gladiators will be history. Big Charley Miller, the fighting mormon, and Jim Flynn, the Pueblo brawler, have put the finishing touches to their training and today will rest upon their arms. This means that there will be little or no training at either camp of the fighters except that Faker Jim Flynn might pose and strut around the gym at the Ocean View Hotel for the benefit of those who are willing to gamble up a quarter of a dollar to see his little form or to see him knock over a couple of underfed middleweights?

What kind of a fight, especially fireman, will lish up to the fans re to be seen. In many quarters it is the opinion that Charley Miller has undertaken too big a task and that Jim Flynn will stow him away in a punch and that the fight won't go fifteen rounds or thereabout.

As for the two men and their ability to pull, Flynn has the experience and has defeated almost all the title of Western Heavyweight contenders from the fact that he has bowled over many of those millers who aspired to take the crown from the redoubtable Jack Johnson.

Flynn has been before the jury many occasions. Sometimes in the partly of honest miller and some time in the capacity of helper to Jack Johnson and Sammy Langford in their quest for American dollars. In some of these bouts Flynn was a real live wire and in some of them he was like a wet set piece at a Fourth of July celebration. What he will be tomorrow when he goes against Charlie Miller remains to be seen.

Allowing that Tim Flynn is a mill as a miller should mill there will be lots of fun in store for the followers of the padded mitts at Daley City tomorrow afternoon. As to who will win remains to be seen.

NOLAN IS NOW SPOUTING

At this late hour when Burns is signed with Hogan, Billy Nolan, manager of Willie Ritchie comes forth with a defy to either the Oaklander or the Quilter. Nolan is somewhat irritated at the statement of Gil Bong that Willie is out of the Admission Day bout, and well he should be irritated, for it is awful galling to hear the pot call the kettle black.

Every fan in the fight game knows that One Round Hogan is a quitter of the worst kind, and he should be the last man in the world to accuse anyone of dodging a man. Hogan dodged Burns (Boggs) again and again.

of Billy Nolan or what his fighter done or will do.

WHEELMEN AFTER MATCH.

The Oakland Wheelmen are looking for a new star and for the next month and may have found it in the person of Gus Cleaver, match Tommy McFarland and Hank Guss of Los Angeles. The latter is a clever lightweight who has had several good fights in the southland and is touted as a logical candidate for a match with the toplopers.

Cleaver, who was proposed as one half of a bout hereabout Manager Charles McFarland, for the McFarland boy, got busy and wanted to pit his protegee against the Los Angeles man at the lightweight limit and upon any terms that were satisfac-

TOMMY BURNS WANTS A BOUT

Faker Tommy Burns, writing from Calgary, says that he is in tip top shape and is willing to come to San Francisco and fight the winner of the Miller-Flynn bout. He says that he is sorry that he wasn't picked to fight over the day of Labor Day but that he will take any other day.

Burr he will, for he knows that he can get a whole lot of money for his appearance, something that he can't get at Calgary, but at that, would the fans stand for him and Faker Flynn should

Harr Coleman says that he has received enough telegrams for ringside seats to fill one Pullman car and it looks like there would be enough to fill another before the fight. APPARENT STORIES ON GIRL'S TRAIL

Mash Notes Crowd Mail of Fair Berkeley Artist's Model.

BERKELEY, Aug. 31.—Bart Neelsen of Berkeley, Neb., is starting his new life away from the old California and Berkeley. So is Edward L. Lathrop, factory foreman in an upstate town in New Jersey. So are other people, no number of them, who are leaving the city for their devotion to the fair.

The fair, which is being held at the old Alameda Hotel, is a very beautiful one. It is a fair of the kind that is not to be seen elsewhere. It is a fair that is a model of the kind that is not to be seen elsewhere.

Today's mail contained the one from Bart Neelsen of Berkeley. It was a letter to the fair, and it was a letter that was a model of the kind that is not to be seen elsewhere.

More gentle grows the Nebraska's tone in a postscript added to the letter. It reads: "I hope, Maureen, that you will take such care of your hair as will tend to keep you more beautiful and strong than that you may be the world with your life."

The letter from Mr. Neelsen, the Nebraska boy, is a letter that is a model of the kind that is not to be seen elsewhere. It is a letter that is a model of the kind that is not to be seen elsewhere.

EUROPE'S HOPE IS ANGLO-GERMAN PEACE PACT

Political Writer Says That Germany Does Not Seek Britain's Imperium.

Dethroned Sultan of Turkey Chuckles at Troubles That Beset Country.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—While everyone realized that the political future of Europe depends on the peace pact between Germany and England, the feeling of mutual distrust between Germany and England came to a climax in a dreadful war or a peaceful agreement.
Few writers have summed up the situation more clearly than does the well known writer Maximilian Harden in the latest issue of his fortnightly magazine, "Die Zukunft."

"What is it that this German empire wants?" he asks. "The certainty of a bright future, secure against attacks, nothing else. Not the destruction of Britain's Imperium, for that would leave it alone to face new dangers from Slaves, Latins, Asiatics and Americans, and would extinguish in its spectrum the complementary sister color. Only the assurance of equal rights of unimpeded growth. This goal must be explained to countrymen and foreigners. Britain has enough to do on land and on sea, and will not regain her freedom of movement until she has settled with Germany. The latter's friendship secures her possessions and, since such union of forces would be irrevocable, the preponderance of Germanic ideas. Such a friendship has, like everything else, its price. A fixed price, but one that can be afforded. England has conceded it to the yellow Mongol. Europe's future depends upon the question whether it will be refused to the European."

RUSSIA'S SEA PLANS.

The chief of the Russian admiralty staff, Admiral Prince Laxen, who recently was successful in conducting in Paris the negotiations for the Franco-Russian Naval Convention, which created such a stir in political circles all over Europe, has come back with some very interesting statements in a recent interview. After stating that Russia is making a mighty naval effort in rushing through the construction of a most formidable fleet of modern dreadnoughts and super-dreadnoughts at the rate of at least four battleships a year for the next five years, he says that he does not think Russian diplomacy will endeavor to gain an outlet through the Bosphorus for her Black Sea fleet.
"What is the use of a peace treaty?"
he exclaims. "Whatever nation holds the Bosphorus will always act when the occasion arrives, according to her own interests, and will force us to impose upon her a different line of action. The interest of nations is today the most powerful factor in their friendship and alliances, and this, more than any treaty, answers for the strict and loyal performance of agreements. For 20 years the Franco-Russian alliance, profitable as it is to both countries has weathered every storm because it is the necessary counterpart to the hegemony longed for by Germany and the triple alliance."

SERBIA-BULGARIAN ALLIANCE.

The course of events in the Balkans, quite distinct from the crises in Turkey and in the Turco-Montenegrin conflict, is a subject of considerable interest to diplomats here, especially the ports that negotiations are being conducted for the completion of an alliance between Serbia and Bulgaria. Bulgaria and Serbia intend to arrange what position they shall assume towards the other Balkan states in future, and to agree upon common action. These negotiations are being carried on, it is reported, under Russian patronage, and the trouble and confusion in Turkey has certainly advanced them. In Sofia and Belgrade the question is asked: What will happen if the present conditions lead to further trouble?

Interesting information concerning the present prospects of peace has been received by the New York Times from a special source in Rome. The correspondent states that wherever the conferences on the subject are held the most recent and important part of the question, as the Turkish government will make the matter of business. It also shows a willingness in this respect. The wishes together with peace, for a restoration of good relations with Turkey, the greatest difficulty to be overcome is in the fact that Turkey, as a military power, and the leading power in the Muslim world, places moral and military questions in the foreground.

Some all some circumstantial formula must be found which will place questions of sovereignty for the moment in the background. A fear also exists in Constantinople that the conclusion of peace might cause the natives in Trakia to rise against the Turkish troops. The idea, therefore, has originated in Turkish circles of a treaty which, however it is almost impossible for Italy to accede. The view of the latter government is that Turkey shall recall her regular troops from the Balkans, and so that the conflict would no longer be between Italy and Turkey, but between the Italian army and the Turkish army.

EX-SULTAN HAS HOPE.

Of all men in the Ottoman empire the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid must rejoice most over the insistent troubles of his fatherland. Although he is strictly forbidden to receive any newspapers, and although he is surrounded by a body of soldiers which, with strict discipline and attention, is kept from him, he has managed from time to time to get a glimpse of the old decrepit tyrant within the bounds of possibility to the glowing eyes of a young lieutenant who still surround him.

Abdul Hamid is informed that disasters and ruin are now prevailing everywhere, and that the crisis of "We won"

LODGEMEN TO MEET AT PICNIC ON LABOR DAY

W. A. BRESSLER.

Relay races and games will be the diversion at the third annual outing to be given Monday at East Shore park by the Bay Cities Picnic Association of the Modern Woodmen and the Royal Neighbor camps of San Francisco and Alameda counties.
During the afternoon there will be a baseball game between the Greater Oakland and Alameda teams. The winners will receive the silver cup, which is now in the possession of the Greater Oakland camp team. The game on Labor day will decide which camp will be permanent holder of the trophy.

W. A. Bressler, president of the association, is directing the arrangements for the picnic. He is being aided by Woodmen and Royal Neighbor camps.

During the afternoon and evening the Oakland Traction Company will run cars from Oakland direct to the park every ten minutes.

SEATTLE MAY GET OWN 'PHONE LINE

Will Seize Properties of Old Independent System Unless Obeyed.

SEATTLE, Aug. 31.—Acting in accordance with an ordinance passed by the council, July 30, repealing the franchise of the Independent Telephone Company, Superintendent of Public Utilities A. L.
Valentine, yesterday, served notice on the Pacific Telephone and Telephone company, which has acquired the Independent, to remove all physical assets of the old Independent line from the streets. Under the provisions of the ordinance, the city will endeavor to take full possession of the independent lines and conduits if the order of removal is not complied with in the specific time and use them as the foundation for a municipal telephone system.

Abdul Hamid is more and more persistent. He is told that in the by-ways of Stambul secret meetings are held by reactionaries, and that his friends—once mighty officials and high officers—now hungry, miserable and destitute wretches —are agitating in his favor, and distributing seditious pamphlets among the population.

He had also been told that the fickle Stambul population is tearing down from the walls of public buildings the coffee houses the portraits of Mahmud Shekif Pasha, who a short time ago was executed to the skies for his exquisite patriotism.

From too very beginning Abdul Hamid has been aware of the circumstance that the union and numerous committees keep him as a last resource, and that he is a scarecrow with which to vanquish
the union and numerous committees
or abolish his policy.

THREATEN BLOW TO HOLLAND.

Because Holland, through whose territory the great river Rhine flows into the sea, is the only country in Europe levying tolls on all shipping on the river, she now stands in danger of losing the Rhine altogether. The German engineers have been constructing a ship canal between Cologne and London. If this is done, and the tolls are not abolished, the union and numerous committees keep him as a last resource, and that he is a scarecrow with which to vanquish the union and numerous committees or abolish his policy.

The freedom of the Rhine has been undisputed for nearly half a century though before 1868 Germany was in the habit of levying tolls, and to re-impose these tolls it will be necessary to abrogate a treaty signed by Prussia, France and the Netherlands in 1863. The treaty will probably be quite easy work, for German diplomats, and Holland undoubtedly before long will have to give her consent to Germany's holding of the "Rhinegold," she wants.

PLANNED GIANTIC PLOT.

The truth of the revolutionary plot announced by the late Russian minister at St. Petersburg, the late Russian minister resulted in the arrest of 16 seamen and a petty officer, 10 of whom were sentenced to death and four shot, is only now leaking out.

In one sense the conspiracy, and it was a conspiracy, would have had a more amazingly daring object than that which led to the revolutionary murder of the battleship Kiaz Potem-kin in June, 1905. The purpose of the naval plotters was to hold up and seize the imperial yacht Simard whilst the pair of imperial hands were being conveyed from Yalta to Sebastopol for Czarskoe Selo.

The czar was to have been compelled to abdicate, or to abrogate his autocratic powers and proclaim a limited monarchy and a really constitutional regime. The seizure of the imperial family was to have been the signal for a revolutionary battle against the forces of which were to have murdered or arrested all their officers and attacked Kronstadt and St. Petersburg simultaneously.

An urgent order was issued a few days ago to the officers of all grades in the Black Sea fleet forbidding them, under pain of death, to desert from their possitions. The order was issued in view of the political unrest among the fleet commanders with any outside persons and officers, even with their wives; the order was issued to prevent any person being compelled to denounce his comrades.

A rigid censorship is exercised over all publications in the press to the point of abolishing the names of persons, places and events, and the names of the army and navy.

One fire does the work

Cooks all your meals, heats your house and gives abundance of hot water

The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

Has famous Duplex draft that saves 1/3 the coal
A MONARCH range in the kitchen means much to the entire family. It means less money expended for fuel, better cooking, a big saving in labor and energy to the woman who does the cooking.

A Monarch actually pays for itself in a short time

In ranges of the common type cast iron is BOLTED to steel and stove putty smeared in the seams, which, owing to expansion and contraction caused by heat, these bolts become loose and air leaks open up and waste fuel, while in the MONARCH the heavy steel slides are COLD RIVETED to malleable iron frames, making a tight, strong construction, that the hardest usage and wear cannot loosen up; thus the saving in fuel.

A five-year guarantee in writing is given

Something you get with no other range. Makes the MONARCH a safe investment. Can't cost you a cent for five years, and if it don't burn out in five years it's good for ten. You get this in writing.
We guarantee to replace free the firebox or any part of the Monarch that cracks, breaks, warps or burns out within five years from date of purchase—that's fair

Your old stove taken in part payment on a new

We will take your old stove or range in part payment on a new and allow you every cent it's worth. Just call at store and select your range and we'll send a man out to make you a price on your old. If satisfactory you can then make the exchange

MULATTO SLOWLY REPLACING BLACK

Census Figures Show Growth in Percentage of Former Over Latter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—A preliminary statement showing by states and geographic divisions the number and proportion of mulattoes among the negroes, enumerated at the Thirtieth cennial census of the United States taken on April 15, 1910, was issued today by Director Burdett of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce and Labor. The statistics were prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population in the census, and the census, and were subject to revision. The statement gives comparative figures for 1870 and 1910, no data being available for 1880 or 1900.

The term "mulatto," as used in the census of 1910, includes all persons, not full-blooded negroes, who have some proportion or perceptible trace of negro blood. The Bureau of the Census does not regard the returns as being based on full-bloods or mulattoes was necessarily to a considerable degree dependent upon the personal opinion and the sentimentality of the enumerators. The results, however, are believed to approximate the facts for the country as a whole and for large aggregates.

STEADY GROWTH.

In 1910, there were in continental United States as a whole 2,827,763 negroes, of whom 3,050,688, or 20.9 per cent, were reported as mulattoes. In 1900, there were 1,132,060 mulattoes reported or 16.2 per cent of all the negroes, and in 1870 a total of 554,919, or 12.1 per cent.
Thus the figures show that their proportion of the negro population has increased in 1910 had some admixture of white blood, as against about one-fourth in 1870. It may be noted, however, that an increase in the mulatto element has not necessarily brought about a corresponding decrease in the number of children born of marriages between blacks and mulattoes would be mulattoes according to the census definition.

VARIES IN DISTRICTS.

The percentage of mulattoes reported varies widely in different states and in different sections of the country. In New England and in the East North Central and Pacific divisions, about one-third of the negro population were reported as mulattoes, while, in each of the three southern divisions, the proportion is only about one-fifth. In the Middle Atlantic division for some reason the percentage is not higher than it is in the southern divisions. This may possibly be due to the rapid growth of negro population in that division through immigration from the South.

TWELVE PROXIES DECIDES QUESTION

Eleven Members of State Central Committee and Dummy Votes at Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Eleven members of the Republican state central committee voting the proxies of twelve other members gave the control of the Republican county central committee of San Francisco into the hands of the Progressive wing today when they decided that Fred G. Sanborn, former harbor commissioner, was no longer chairman of the organization and that Charles Forbes had ceased to be its secretary. It also was decided that the last meeting of the committee had been held July 25, when Sanborn and Forbes were deposed, and that no action taken by the minority should be regarded as official. Meyer Lissner presided at the meeting.

WATERWAYS TO BE BUILT IN EAST

Chain Already Started to Be From New England to Florida.

NEW LONDON, Aug. 31.—A plan for waterways improvement in the Atlantic seaboard states is to be made at the fifth annual meeting of the Atlantic Deep Waterways Association, which is scheduled to convene here on September 4 for a three-day conference, terminating on September 6.

This improvement is to entail the construction of an Intracoastal waterway from New England to the calm waters of Cuba—a project that would appreciably lessen a yearly toll of over 2000 lives and the loss of nearly $40,000,000 of property on our stormy coastline.

One link in this chain of waterways has already received an appropriation from congress, and a bill for further appropriations is now before the national legislators. Many of these national representatives will be present at the coming meeting of the association. This list will be headed by President Taft, who will arrive on his yacht Mayflower via Long Island sound on the last day of the conference.
Besides the President, the list of visitors includes several governors, congressmen and mayors, together with many prominent business and business men from the Atlantic seaboard states.

The President will address the members of the association from old Fort Griswold, on Rye Point Heights, opposite New London. The address will be delivered on September 4, the anniversary of the founding of New London and the capture of Fort Griswold.

Among others who will address the association delegates will be Charles Nesbit, secretary of commerce and labor;
Howard H. Hensley, of Plattburg, N. Y., and Captain W. F. Jacobs, superintendent of the school of instruction for the marine corps at New London.

Mr. Hensley will talk on Canada's rela-

LODI GRAPES SOON READY FOR WINERIES

LODI, Aug. 31.—It may be assumed that when the grapes test about 22 or 23 per cent sugar, the wineries will be opened. The grapes are testing about 20 per cent now. West & Son are reported to have made the statement that those holding contracts will be the first to be accommodated at the wineries. After the contract grapes have been delivered, it is thought that they will then take as many grapes from those who have no contracts, as the capacity of the plants will allow.
In most cases the contracts call for $10 a ton for zinfandels, and $7.50 for tokays. Higher prices will be paid for Alicante Bouschet and Petit Syrah.

M'HARG DESERTS COL. ROOSEVELT

Former Supporter of Chief Bull Moose Tells Why He'll Vote for Taft.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ormsby Mc-Harg, who had charge of the Roosevelt campaign in the Chicago convention, will vote for President Taft. McHarg says that if the voters of the country should fall to and President Taft back into the White House and a republican majority into both houses of congress
there will be such a nation wide clamor 18 months from now for the return of republican supremacy that all other parties will be swept from the boards.
McHarg says:

"I supported Colonel Roosevelt as a republican, having no notion at that time that he was anything else. I was disappointed bitterly to find later what his real intentions were. I am under no obligations to him or anybody else to get out of the republican party, and do not intend to do so.

"I believe there is no future for the new third party beyond Colonel Roosevelt. If the new party expects to live, it will have to take an insurance policy on the colonies' life."
